BY PARKE BROWN.

Carter H. Harrison, five times elected mayor of Chicago, added his influential voice yesterday to those urging the election of A. J. Cermak as mayor next Tuesday.

He issued a statement in which he paralleled the official records of Cermak and Mayor Thompson, who is seeking a fourth term. He charged Thompson with neglect of duty, blamed him for putting the breath of life back into the dry movement, and condemned him for his campaign tactics.

Mr. Harrison's statement made the roll call of prominent Democrats complete in this campaign. The statement followed on the heels of a statement by Edward F. Dunne, the only other former mayor now living. United States Senator Lewis has been in the campaign from the beginning. National Committeeman Igoe is speaking regularly. William L. O'Connell is one of the Cermak advisers. And every other prominent Democrat in the city is doing his bit for Cermak.

Text of Statement.

In his statement former Mayor Harrison said:

"Save the taxpayers by electing Cermak mayor!

"Have a heart for the fellow who pays the taxes—he is a good sport, complains little, goes along for the general good until you give him a back-breaking burden—that is what he is carrying now.

"It is bad policy to make Chicago real estate a liability! Another four years of Thompsonism and that is where it would land! Real estate in the final analysis is the basic security for credit—kill it as security and there is little tangible left to base your credit on.

Owning Makes Good Citizens.

"There is no greater insurance policy for a community than home ownership by its citizens. Owning his home makes the citizen saving, conservative, law respecting, patriotic—in short, a good citizen. There is no better insurance against bolshevism than home owning.

"Don't tax your home owner out of his little property. Thompson has served as mayor for twelve years—now's the pity. Cermak for better than eight years has filled a like position, to all intents the mayoralty of Cook county.

"Draw parallel columns of the respective services of the two men. Cermak has been always on the job, careful, economical, painstaking, attentive to his duties, seeking advice in case of need from women and men who know. The result shows in the county tax rate, the character of its service, the reputation it enjoys.

Leaves City to Run Itself.

"Thompson has left the city hall to run itself—his has been a hit or miss policy—if the truth be told, mostly of the miss variety. He has scattered his bolts far and wide, wherever there was a good chance for self-advertising of the P. T. Barnum kind—tree climbing fish of South Pacific islands, damming a western river 1,500 miles away, settling international problems which common charity might intimate he did not quite understand—these are things he has devoted himself to instead of looking after the humdrum details of city management.

"When the mighty Mississippi went on a rampage, with husky booming of stentorian voice, and the ineffective waving of a pudgy hand, he took on the rôle of a 20th century King Canute. Aside from the collection of a lusty relief fund, as yet not quite accounted for, history fails to record anything done to head off a future flood. That happened four years ago; if in the intervening time he had stuck to his desk, he might have done something to head off the devastating flood of extravagance and wastefulness, if not indeed of graft, in city expenditures that is rapidly making the ownership of Chicago real estate too heavy a burden to bear.

Always Makes Promises.

"Thompson has been elected mayor three times. With each election he has boomed out a big promise; one was the reduction of gas rates and municipal prosperity, another public

WARDEN TELLS HOW DRY LAW CROWDS PRISON

Riot Inquiry Hears 'Bribe' Story.

Prohibition is the principal cause for the doubling of the Illinois prison population in the last seven years, a committee of five state representatives was told yesterday. Deputy Warden Frank Kness, who is in charge of the new prison at Stateville and is a European trained prison official, made the statement when called as a witness in the riot investigation.

WARDEN KNESS.

Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries, together with other state prisons, now house about 7,000 prisoners, Kness said, whereas in 1924 they had but half that number.

"Do you think the 18th amendment had anything to do with this increase?" inquired Representative M. E. Bray [Dem., Litchfield].

Calls Dry Law Main Cause.

"It's the main cause," answered Kness.

"But," interrupted Representative Roger F. Little of Champaign, Republican floor leader and a dry, "how about the depression? Hasn't that caused it—men stealing and the like?"

"The kind of men who steal during a depression aren't the kind we get down here," Kness told him. "Most of our increase represents young fellows, many of them from the southern states, who come to Chicago lured by the yarns of the millionaire bootleggers. They can't break into the racket, so they do the next best thing—they go out with a gun."

Deputy Warden Kness was the final witness of a full day's hearing, during which it was disclosed that B. A. Davenport, captain of guards at Joliet, engaged in the killing of three convicts who tried to escape over the walls on Washington's birthday.

Admits Firing at Convicts.

"I shot at all of them," Davenport admitted from the witness stand. He had been secreted behind an auto across from the tower at the southeast corner of the prison in the dead of the night, he said, when a warning cry, "Here they come," was shouted by one of the party — he couldn't identify the voice.

"Then some one cried, 'Halt!'" he testified. "They cried it three times and then shot in the air.

"Two men were over the walls by that time and the third was on the roof with his feet over the ledge. The first man was almost out of the range of our lights by that time."

The First Man Drops.

"Did you fire?" asked Little. "I did, sir."

Q.—Did the first man drop? A.—Almost immediately, sir.

Q.—Did you fire at the second man? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And at the third? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What did he do? A.—He didn't come down. [The third convict was killed on the roof.]

Q.—Did any one else shoot? A.—I think Guard Albert Stelling did and Weise. (Guard Weise is now in Great Lakes hospital; Stelling testified two weeks ago.)

Q.—How long elapsed between the

FAMILY CUSTOM GIVES $50,000 OF ESTATE TO THE FEMININE HEIRS

The will of Mrs. Marion Louise Matthiessen, which leaves a trust estate of $50,000 to her feminine heirs in accordance with a 100 year old family tradition, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Mrs. Matthiessen, divorced wife of Frank R. Matthiessen, millionaire steel man, died on March 30 at her home, 1540 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Matthiessen's estate is valued at $100,000 and includes $50,000 in securities left to her by her grandfather, the late Ira Peck of Hartford, Conn., member of a pioneer New England family. Mr. Peck had specified in his will that the securities should be given only to the women members of his family.

Under the terms of Mrs. Matthiessen's will the securities are left to Mrs. Anne Wright Walker, a sister, of Hartford, who in turn is to give them to Mrs. Matthiessen's four minor granddaughters. Mrs. Matthiessen is survived by four sons, Richard P. of Winnetka, Frank G. of Beverly Hills, Cal., Ira C. of Chicago, and Theodore De Witt of Madison, Wis.

Sun to Shine on Gay Array of Easter Togs

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Sunny weather is due on Easter Sunday, according to the weather man, and if his prediction is borne out the sun will shine on many new hats and Easter gowns. The last three Easters have been rainy. The stores were full of women yesterday, and, according to clerks and executives, they have been crowded for the last week in preparation for Easter.

One large State street department store reported employing several hundred additional saleswomen to take care of the pre-Easter rush. A buyer for a hat department said the department's sales force had been unusually busy all week. A manager of several departments said they were "nicely ahead of last year" in volume of business.

They are not sober styles which are being purchased for this Easter. There is a touch of the frivolous in every dress, every suit, every hat which is being sold. This, says one fashion expert, accounts for their appeal to women purchasers.

Hats Are Hats Now.

"This year hats are hats for the first time in years," said a woman whose business is hats. "When large, mature women come in now we do not have to blush with guilt or argue with our consciences when we show her nothing but hats which sit on the top of her head. Hats are no longer cute, thank goodness. They are pert, they are audacious, some of them, but they are hats. They are kind to the woman who doesn't happen to be 'cute.'"

"Take this," she said, pointing to a sailor of rough shiny brown straw, its brim lifted on one side so as to give it an air of impudence. "This is one of our smartest hats. Brown and white isn't so popular as black and white, but it's a little newer. Now, see, I'll put it on. Do I look peeled and rather ridiculous in it? Not a bit of it. It has a brim, a woman who has the figure of a woman and not a peeled willow wand can wear it and get away with it."

Quills and Feathers Added.

Quills and feathers give saucy touches to many of the sailor hats. Many are trimmed with patent leather of contrasting color, or a brown or black straw may have a white kid band about it. The crowns are shallow, but some of them are creased, giving scope for originality to the hat designer.

Another sign of the times is the ultra feminine hat model known as the Watteau, named for the painter of artificial landscapes strewn with mincing women and gallant men in knee breeches and lace cuffs. The Watteau has a curved, coquettish brim, a bandeau, and, beneath the brim, a cluster of gardenias.

Everything women wear this spring has a touch of white on it. Ruchings, white eyelet embroidery, vestees of white, tucks, pleats, godets, and a great many other trimmings denote the flair for the unnecessary and the lovely in the 1931 styles.

Black and black and white, blue, brown, and beige are the most popular colors in street and afternoon dresses. But wide belts of red patent leather touch up many afternoon dresses.

TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

The Solution of the Lingle Murder

In the Sunday Tribune (tomorrow) begins the authentic story of the Lingle case from the moment of the murder of Alfred Lingle, through the long pursuit of the killer to his capture and conviction.

The story has been written by John Boettiger, a member of the Tribune staff, who followed the investigation from beginning to end.

Mr. Boettiger will relate in authoritative detail the almost insuperable hazards encountered, the bewildering maze of opposition presented, the innumerable false clews and misleading theories investigated, and the tireless energy of Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and their staff.

The story will disclose for the first time the truth of a case that has been befogged with a thousand wild rumors and hampered by a callous propaganda. It will show how gangland was penetrated for the first time by the law in Chicago—with the conviction of Leo Brothers, the first gang murderer to be successfully prosecuted.

THE TRIBUNE TOMORROW

JURY FIXES PUNISHMENT AT 14 YEARS IN PRISON

LEADERS PRAISE TRIAL RESULT AS BLOW TO CRIME

Leaders in Chicago's civic and religious life last night hailed the conviction of Leo V. Brothers for the murder of Alfred J. Lingle as a step towards cleansing the city of its stain of unpunished gang warfare and expressed confidence that the jury's verdict would prove a deterrent to hired killers in the future.

While some of those interviewed termed the verdict an obvious compromise and expressed regret that Brothers had not received a more severe penalty, all were unanimous in congratulating State's Attorney Swanson, Prosecutor C. Wayland Brooks, Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, and Chief Investigator Pat Roche for their diligent pursuit of the killer and a determined and effective prosecution.

Leaders Acclaim Verdict.

Some of the comments received last night were as follows:

ROBERT I. RANDOLPH, president of the Association of Commerce—"I am immensely gratified over the conviction. While I regret that Brothers got only 14 years, I think Mr. Swanson and Mr. Brooks have earned the thanks of the community. Knowing Mr. Brooks personally, I am certain he would not have prosecuted the case unless Brothers had been guilty. Despite the comparatively light penalty, it is obvious that the conviction alone will have a wholesome, corrective effect upon present crime tendencies and will make hired killers more reluctant to murder than they have been."

WILLIAM P. SIDLEY, president of the Chicago Bar association—"This verdict should be acclaimed by all good citizens. It is a great victory for law and order. While the 14 year penalty was obviously a compromise, it is nevertheless apparent that this verdict will prove a powerful deterrent to gang killers hereafter."

Bishop Stewart Gratified.

THE RIGHT REV. GEORGE CRAIG STEWART, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Chicago—"I was gratified over the verdict. Chicago's good citizens can now take heart. As a result of this trial, the first in which a gang killer was brought to justice and made to pay a penalty, at least some of the stigma has been removed from the escutcheon of a city in which, hitherto, it was assumed that gang killers were immune from punishment."

DR. SHAILER MATHEWS, president of the Chicago Church federation—"First of all, THE TRIBUNE should be congratulated for fulfilling its pledge of a relentless pursuit of the killer and for a fair but determined prosecution after his capture. If Brothers had been acquitted, gangland in Chicago would have gone rampant. The only way, as I see it, to cleanse this city of its black record of gang warfare is by vigorous prosecution of gangland's killers. In the present case, I believe, this has been done, and I believe it will prove a powerful antidote against one of our civic ills."

Killers No Longer Immune.

RUFUS C. DAWES, president of the Century of Progress exposition—"The outcome of this case will prove wholesome publicity for Chicago. By convicting this killer the jury served notice on the world that gang killers are not wholly immune in our city. Prompt punishment is necessary to crime suppression. Insofar as this has been accomplished in the capture and prosecution of Brothers, the investigators and prosecutors of the case have earned the thanks of the city. While I did not follow the trial closely in the newspapers, I take it for granted that with Judge Sabath presiding Brothers had a fair trial."

COL. A. A. SPRAGUE, chairman of the crime prevention committee, Association of Commerce—"I was both gratified and disappointed. I was gratified in that the unrelenting pursuit and prosecution of Lingle's killer was successful. It was a battle carried on against tremendous odds, the particular obstacles being the reluctance of witnesses and the cloak of silence that shrouds every gang murder. To me the punishment meted out was the disappointment. It was a cold blooded, cowardly murder. The killer should have been sent to the chair."

"Public Indignation Rising."

DR. JOHN THOMPSON, pastor of the First Methodist church, Chicago Temple—"The conviction of Brothers provides a very hopeful sign. It will undoubtedly exercise a strong restraining effect on other killers of his type. The verdict of that jury, deadlocked

First Gang Killing Verdict Reached After 27 Hours.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, was found guilty yesterday evening of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle on last June 9 in the subway at Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

His punishment was fixed at 14 years in the penitentiary by the jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's court, which returned a verdict after 27 hours of deliberation.

Thus ends one of the most noted and peculiar murder trials in the history of Chicago. It is the first time that the walls of gangland have been broken down, the silence challenged, and the murderer brought to justice against such tremendous odds.

Battle All Night and All Day.

The verdict was reached after an all night and all day battle in the jury room, with one man alone standing out toward the end for acquittal.

The punishment of 14 years imprisonment, the lightest that could be inflicted under a murder verdict, was reached as a compromise to bring this one man to the point of agreement.

This means that Brothers must serve eight years and three months before he is eligible to parole, and the parole board can keep him in prison for the full 14 years if it so desires. His earlier release will depend upon his behavior. Under a life sentence he would have been eligible to parole in 20 years.

24 Ballots Are Taken.

Twenty-four ballots were taken in the jury room, which was most closely guarded in this trial by specially picked bailiffs under the charge of Bailiff Eddie Ready, personal bailiff for Judge Francis Wilson.

At no time during the 27 hours while ballot after ballot was being taken was any information allowed to get outside.

The state of mind of the jurors after the evidence and arguments were all in may be judged by the fact that the first ballot was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

This was the statement of H. W. Crotzer, who was elected foreman. He was one of the older men on the jury, which was made up of a majority of men younger than Brothers.

Jurors Agree Not to Talk.

What happened after this, Mr. Crotzer refused to say, and other jurors refused to talk. An agreement had been made to this effect. Some one of analyzing ability must have made a strong argument, for the second ballot was 9 to 3 for the guilt of Brothers. The third ballot was 10 to 2 for a guilty verdict.

Within the next two ballots one other man switched to the majority, leaving the situation late Thursday night at 11 to 1 for conviction. Here it remained during the night and during most of the day. Sometimes in the remaining ballots the acquittal juror would be joined by one other and the vote would switch back to 10 to 2 for guilty.

Late in the afternoon the last man was won over, presumably on the promise of a 14 year sentence, for within a few minutes after the main question had been decided the question of punishment was agreed on.

At no time was the death penalty considered by the jury, the foreman said, but many of the jurors were in favor of a life sentence. This probably would have been voted had it not been for the one holdout juror, whose name was not revealed.

Roche Pleased with Verdict.

"The verdict of the jury convicting Brothers of the murder of Lingle should stand as a rebuke to the hostile interests of Chicago which have continuously attempted to impede and obstruct our investigation," he said.

"Throughout these long ten months we have been assailed and embarrassed by those who wished us ill, and their efforts, marked by the spreading of so much false propaganda and deliberate misrepresentations, have been defeated only because we had a firm foundation in truth and justice. We also have been impeded by the blundering efforts of a number of so-called investigating agencies whose tactics fortunately did not prevent the completion of the difficult task that confronted us."

Crowd Waits for Verdict.

A crowd filled the courtroom all day, awaiting a verdict. The first indication that one was in sight came about ly after 5 o'clock when Judge Sabath's personal bailiff was summoned to the jury room. The attorneys had about made up their minds to a disagreement, although both sides were hopeful.

Walls of Gang Silence Broken in Capture and Conviction of Leo Brothers

Judge Sabath, who had returned to the courtroom after an afternoon spent at home, announced a few minutes later that he thought a verdict was ready, and preparations were made to receive it.

The room was packed and on a front row of benches a group of men had taken seats who looked as though they might belong to one of the hoodlum mobs.

The judge announced from the bench that between between 40 and 50 detectives were in the courtroom ready to arrest any one for making a demonstration of any kind.

Sabath Warns Spectators.

"I want to impress upon you that there must be no demonstration," he said. "Any one who does so will be arrested, brought before me, and dealt with according to law."

He also warned photographers that no pictures could be taken while court was in session.

There were a few minutes of tense waiting as the jury was sent for and bailiffs were dispatched to bring Brothers into the courtroom.

The jurors filed in solemnly and took the benches against the wall which they had occupied for nearly three weeks. The attorneys had been sent for and all were on hand, including the defense quartet, Attorneys Louis Piquett, Tyrrell Krum, Robert E. Cantwell Sr., and Harry Cantwell of St. Louis. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, who conducted the active prosecution of the case, and Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who assisted him, were also waiting.

Brothers' Parents in Court.

The defendant's father, V. Harvey Brothers, Chicago barber, and his mother, Mrs. Rose Jessen of Webster Groves, Mo., were near the front rows, and Mrs. Betty Cook, who formerly lived with Brothers, was on hand. Mrs. Jessen left the courtroom just before the verdict was read.

Brothers was led into court behind two bailiffs. His usual chair was gone, as the attorneys' tables had been removed, and he stood by the witness box, leaning there with his hand on his chin and a finger in his mouth.

He did not change a muscle in his face as the verdict was read, keeping intact the stony faced control which has been his throughout the trial.

Clerk Reads the Verdict.

When everything was ready, Clerk Jim Aldridge, who has a booming voice, read the verdict:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Leo V. Brothers, alias Louis Bader, alias Leo Bader, alias Buster——"

There was a hush in the room while all waited for the final word:

"Guilty."

The silence was not broken save for released breathing, as the judge's warning had taken effect.

After fixing the penalty the jurors also found, according to a quaint legal custom, that the age of the defendant was 32 years.

Piquett Asks Poll of Jury.

Mr. Piquett, looking mighty sour at this turn of affairs, asked for a poll of the jury. The name of each man was then read and he was asked if this was his verdict.

"It was and is," was the reply in each case.

Brothers said nothing, but whispered to his guard:

"Let's duck."

He refused later to talk, although he had a long conference with his St. Louis attorney, Mr. Cantwell.

Mr. Cantwell also had nothing to say.

"The jury made the statement for us," he commented grimly.

A formal motion for a new trial was made by Mr. Piquett and hearing set for April 17.

Prosecutor Brooks' Comment.

Assistant State's Attorney Brooks said:

"It was a fair verdict. The fairness of the state's attorney has been presented in court and the issue found in the state's favor. It was a great piece of work on the part of Mr. Rathbun, Pat Roche, and every one connected with the investigation."

State's Attorney Swanson said last night when he was informed at his home of the verdict:

"The verdict was entirely satisfactory and was the result of hard work on the part of my assistants. All of them, Brooks, Rathbun, John Holman, Roche, James E. McShane and others, put in long weary hours to clear up this case. I am confident the case will stand up under the scrutiny of the high courts of the state."

Discussion Centers on One Point.

While the jurors would not talk about the case, it was said by one of them that there was one point of evidence, one fact in the case, which caused most of the discussion among them. He would not state what that was. It might have been the inability of the state to prove the motive for this murder. It might have been the failure of Brothers to take the witness stand.

This is probably one of the few murder trials on record where a verdict of guilty has been reached, or one sought, without direct evidence of some kind leading to the reason for the killing.

This secret was locked in gangland, Mr. Brooks told the jurors, and the court instructed them that they could find a verdict of guilt without it.

Identification Is Issue.

The whole case pivoted on the question of identification. The state presented eight witnesses who identified Brothers, and through their evidence he was found waiting for Lingle at the southwest entrance to the subway, behind him in the subway, throwing the gun away after the shooting, running up the east stairs of the subway into Michigan avenue, running across the avenue into Randolph street, down an alley near Wabash avenue, emerging near State and Randolph, and found at last hiding in a store.

The defense presented seven witnesses to rebut this, each one of them declaring that Brothers was not the man who fled from the scene of the murder.

Attorney Piquett, speaking for the defense staff last night, said:

"We are not satisfied that the verdict rendered was not a compromise, and we are preparing now for a new trial which we are sure will be granted to us. Such men as Patrick Campbell, under indictment for conspiracy to rob, and Clark "Red" Applegate, a race track habitué, will not be allowed to take the stand again if we can prevent it. We have by no means given up proving to the world that Leo Brothers had nothing to do with the murder of Lingle."

The defense charged a "gigantic frameup" in this trial and told the jury they would prove it. The state challenged them to prove it. That was another issue settled by this verdict.

Jurors Strictly Guarded.

Two features made the long jury wait unusual in the Criminal courts. The first was the dearth of actual news from the juryroom. The second was the tenacity with which the unattached public clung to the courtroom and the nearby corridors.

The jurors were three guarded doors away from the public and no one except the bailiffs could get by even the first door. Sheriff Meyering had sent his most trusted men to the job of guarding this jury and they were doing it in a thorough manner.

"It is water tight," said one of these guardians.

The Mysterious "Reports."

It is hard to explain then the various "rumors" and "reports" that were circulated throughout the day, unless they may be attributed to imagination or deduction from the two known facts, one that the jurors had not agreed, and the other that they were occasionally in loud argument, in which no words could be distinguished.

The "regulars" at the trial, including a dozen women, were on hand at 7 o'clock in the morning when the courtroom opened. They remained all day, their numbers augmented hourly, until by noontime the court was crowded as on a trial day, with people blocking the entrances and standing against the walls.

There was nothing for them to see except the attorneys, bailiffs, and newspaper men, milling around and yawning and gossiping.

Attorneys Visit Courtroom.

Defense Attorneys Piquett, Krum, Harry Cantwell, and Robert E. Cantwell Sr., were in court toward noon, and Assistant State's Attorneys Brooks and Rathbun also dropped in about this time. Roy Arnold, investigator for the states's attorney, and Henry Christy, investigator for the defense staff, had remained near the courtroom all night, waiting to relay word that a decision had been reached.

Judge Sabath appeared in the courtroom from his chambers at 10 o'clock. He looked over the littered benches and ordered the bailiffs to clean the courtroom, which looked in spots as though a picnic had been held there.

Brothers' father and his mother appeared early. They remained nearly all day, Mrs. Jessen getting into a card game in one of the side corridors.

Object to Calling Jury.

Judge Sabath would not indicate during the morning how long he would keep the jurors out. They had been in the jury room all night, with coffee and sandwiches sent in occasionally. Later he said, if attorneys for both sides agreed to it, he would call in the jury and ask them what progress they were making toward a verdict. The attorneys for the state objected to this, so nothing was done during the day.

At noon Judge Sabath ordered a good lunch served to the jurors. They had clam chowder, whitefish, hot cross buns and coffee.

Shortly after lunch the jurors sent out for paper, which was taken as an indication that they had run out of balloting paper and were going to try it again.

Brothers awoke in his cell about 8 o'clock. He donned a blue suit and brushed his hair carefully before he was taken over to the prisoners' room outside the courtroom to wait for the verdict. He appeared to have slept well, and those who have come in contact with him say that he has nerves of iron.

If he had been acquitted Brothers had before him the prospect of another murder trial, this one in St. Louis, where he was to be taken to stand trial for the murder of John De Blasi, taxicab driver, during a union war there in 1929. Two St. Louis policemen were waiting to escort him and he was so anxious to get away from Chicago that he had agreed to go without extradition papers.

The Leo V. Brothers case, which ended last night in the conviction of the St. Louis gangster, will go into criminal history not only as a great trial but as a great man hunt which for the first time in Chicago brought a gang killer to justice.

The search for the murderer of Alfred J. Lingle began an hour or two after the shooting in the Illinois Central pedestrian subway on the afternoon of last June 9, and extended to the underworld of many cities, and even beyond the borders of this country.

It was a typical gang murder, utterly without warning and with no open clews to follow, and the hunt at times seemed hopeless. But it was never given up until Brothers was captured on the morning of Dec. 21, when he was lured from his apartment at 4827 Lake Park avenue by a telephone call to walk into the arms of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and his aids.

Stirs Hopes of Crime Fighters.

"Many gang killings in this city have gone unsolved," said State's Attorney Swanson at this time, "and perhaps this case can be made a fulcrum upon which an unrelenting search for other gang murderers can be made."

How the murder scene was reconstructed, how the city was searched for true witnesses who would be courageous enough to go into court, how the various descriptions narrowed down to this one description, and how the man was finally found, make material for a great document on crime.

After Brothers' arrest the task of convicting him became no easier, for he never revealed his associates, never admitted knowledge of the crime, facing everything with silence and defiance.

The announcement of Brothers' arrest was made on Jan. 8 by the state's attorney and he was indicted four days later on the testimony of Warren Williams and Otto Swoboda.

The Man with Two Moles.

It was Swoboda, one of the chief witnesses for the state at the trial, who had had good occasion to look closely at the killer of Lingle, and who told the investigators:

When Brothers was found and Swoboda saw those moles the case was closed for him.

"I'm just as sure of it as I'm sittin' here," said the fat little Bohemian cook on the witness stand.

He was only one of eight weeded out of the millions of citizens in the searching process of the investigation. Seven other witnesses were found, and the attorneys for the state felt they had a perfect case of identification.

Brothers, they were convinced, had been hired to kill Lingle.

He was the best man in the United States to do the job, Roche said, for he was unknown in the Chicago underworld.

Brothers had come to Chicago, the investigation showed, in July, 1929, following a taxicab war in St. Louis in which he was accused of the murder of John De Blasi on Aug. 2, 1929, on the King's highway.

Admits St. Louis Wants Him.

Brothers was one of the "heavy men" for the St. Louis taxicab drivers' union and De Blasi was killed because he was running an outlaw cab.

Brothers admitted that he was wanted for this killing, also that he had committed two robberies and had been picked up on suspicion many times.

After coming to Chicago Brothers led an idle life, receiving money from the St. Louis union, with occasional income from other sources. He frequented the race tracks, the golf courses, the beaches, and the cabarets, and had a job as a sort of bouncer at a north side cabaret last summer. He was coming to be known as a "good man" in the Chicago underworld, but had no definite connections here until the Lingle murder.

As soon as he was arrested attorneys appeared in court on his behalf, and every legal advantage was taken for him on the pathway to his trial.

State Gets Ready for Trial.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who, with Roche and staff, had set up a special office in the Temple building from which to conduct this investigation, began the preparations for the trial.

On Jan. 17 Attorneys Tyrrell Krum and Louis Piquett, who had taken up the defense, announced that Brothers had an alibi, that he was hurt in an automobile accident a few days before the Lingle killing and had bandages on his face that day.

This was never brought to proof. An investigation showed that the accident had occurred weeks before the killing.

On Jan. 19 Brothers' attorneys asked delay of the executions of Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan, who, the attorneys claimed, could give evidence that would exonerate Brothers. This, too, failed to materialize.

Arraigned on Jan. 21.

Brothers was arraigned on Jan. 21 before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. He stood mute on advice of his attorneys and a plea of not guilty was entered for him.

It was announced that Judge John Prystalski would hear the case. A motion was presented before him seeking to force the state to produce a bill of particulars indicating the evidence which would be presented, but this was overruled. Later a change of venue was asked from this court by the defense, and was granted.

Chief Justice McGoorty then assigned the case to Judge Joseph Sabath, senior judge of the Criminal bench, and the trial was set for March 16, after one postponement due to the prior claims of the Three Fingered Jack White murder case.

The Brothers case began on the date set and selection of a jury was found comparatively easy. A relatively small proportion of those who passed through the jury box sought to evade service in the case. The question of "fixed opinion" was not a great obstacle, even in the face of the great publicity which had followed the case from the beginning.

Defense Gets Witness List.

The names of all the witnesses who were to testify for the state were presented to defense counsel before the trial began, and many times the trial was interrupted to give the attorneys for Brothers an opportunity to examine witnesses in private before they went on the stand.

Eight witnesses formed the bulk of the state's case. The first was Warren Williams, formerly a policeman in Michigan City, later a motorman on the South Shore electric line. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks was selected to lead the prosecution. He was aided throughout the trial by the advice of Mr. Rathbun, who sat with him, and by the legal expert of the staff, John Holman.

It had been found necessary, the state told the jury at the opening of the case, to keep Williams in the city, and, as he did not have a job and an investigator was needed to look at suspects, he was placed on the state pay roll at $200 a month. Much was made of this by the defense throughout the trial.

$300 Given to Swoboda.

It was also necessary, Mr. Brooks told the jury, to help out Swoboda, a cook out of work, who had a large family to support and who had been offered a job as railroad chef between St. Louis and Mexico City. The state did not want to lose him and so gave him enough money at various times to keep him in town. The sums in all amounted to $300, paid by Roche.

Williams said that Brothers, in running away from the murder, passed within a foot and a half of him, and he identified him positively. Swoboda, who was loafing in front of the public library a moment before the murder, saw Brothers standing by the tunnel entrance, smoking, and another man with him whom Swoboda said was Frank Foster, another suspect in this case and now under indictment as an accessory.

Later, in the tunnel, Swoboda said Brothers ran into him, brushed by him so roughly that he knocked a cigaret from Swoboda's hand, causing him to give the man a "good look." Swoboda saw Brothers again running up the east stairs after the shooting. Swoboda was positive as a witness.

Other Identification Witnesses.

Another man who was standing nearby was Patrick Campbell, a truck driver and plumber. He said Brothers answered the description, but was not a positive witness.

Daniel Mills, a young university graduate and cab driver, was a strong witness for the state, since he identified Brothers without hesitation as the man he had seen running out of the subway entrance, looking for a way of escape.

Clark Lewis Applegate, a race horse trainer and friend of the slain Lingle, was a much buffeted witness, but he said that he would know the face of Brothers in his sleep, so well had it been impressed upon him as he walked behind the killer in the tunnel, heard the shot, and saw him throw down the gun and run up the stairs.

Marcus David, who was waiting for a bus at the corner in front of the tunnel entrance, was also sure that he had seen Brothers emerge.

The Rev. Father John Reynolds, instructor of history at the University of Notre Dame, said that Brothers answered the description of the man he saw running on Randolph street that day.

Kelfsirom Clinches Case.

The clinching state witness was Albert W. Kelfstrom, buyer for the Taylor Trunk company, 28 East Randolph street. Of all the witnesses he was the one who had the greatest opportunity to study the features of the killer, for Brothers, he testified, was seen by him hiding in a dark part of the store. Kelfstrom waited on him and talked with him and escorted him to the washroom. He positively identified Brothers as the man who had been in the store.

The evidence lasted six days, the defense taking only one day and seeking only to show by seven negative identification witnesses that Brothers was not the man. Through their witnesses the fugitive was pictured as a man with extremely blond hair, shorter and lighter in build than Brothers, who stands 6 feet 1 inch. The state brought rebuttal evidence against five of these witnesses and argued that another, a woman, had been led into her testimony by her tender heart. Arguments from both sides brought the trial to an end on Thursday afternoon and the jury retired to its deliberations.

ST. LOUIS WILL TAKE BROTHERS AFTER HIS ILLINOIS CELL TERM

St. Louis, Mo., April 3.—(AP)—No effort will be made to return Leo Brothers, convicted in Chicago of the murder of Alfred Lingle, to St. Louis to stand trial on a murder charge until after he has completed his prison sentence in Illinois, Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller said tonight. Brothers is charged with murder in the slaying here on Aug. 2, 1929, of John De Blasi, service car driver.

"The hold order that has been placed on Brothers will continue in effect," Miller said. "It will be attached to his prison record, and when his time is up in Illinois he will be held for St. Louis authorities. He then may be tried on the St. Louis murder charge."

CLEVELAND JURY GIVES GANGSTER KILLER LIFE TERM

Cleveland, O., April 3.—(AP)—"Pittsburg Hymie" Martin was found guilty by a jury here today of first degree murder of former Councilman William E. Potter. The jury recommended mercy and thereby fixed the penalty at life imprisonment. The jurors deliberated 11 hours and 59 minutes.

though they were for many hours, indicates in their final judgment public indignation is rising. At last we have seen a gang killing solved and the slayer convicted. The for decency should be heartened.

DR. WALTER DILL SCOTT, president of Northwestern university: "The jury is to be applauded for courage in breaking the unhappy tradition of the past and returning a verdict of guilty in a gang murder. State's Attorney Swanson, the prosecutors in the case, and the detectives who unearthed the evidence deserve the thanks of the community."

HARRY OLSON, former chief justice of the Municipal court.—"The outcome was a triumph for State's Attorney Swanson, Prosecutor Brooks and their associates in the case, but at the same time, a sad commentary on the deficiencies of the Illinois criminal code. From my first view of the defendant's photograph, I was convinced he was a victim of degenerate praecox and a cold-blooded killer. And yet, in his argument to the jury, Mr. Brooks was prevented by the criminal code from referring to this significant circumstance."

STRAWS POINT CERMAK VICTORY BY RECORD VOTE

Big Lead on North and West Sides.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Again yesterday, for the 22d day, THE TRIBUNE straw vote showed Anton J. Cermak a decided favorite with the electorate in the race for mayor. Only once—and that when straws were collected exclusively from the colored districts—either before the campaign started or since it has been going full tilt, has Thompson been in the lead.

Thompson's advantage in the first four wards, according to the straw vote, will not be a deciding or even a major factor in next Tuesday's election. These four wards, if the election is properly conducted, probably will not cast more than 75,000 votes, which in turn will be less than 6½ per cent of the total polled throughout the city. THE TRIBUNE poll indicates that, outside these four wards, Thompson will not carry another area of equal size.

Not Close to Winning.

Taking the city as a whole, there is nothing in THE TRIBUNE polls that indicates that Thompson will even come close to winning. In fact, the straws forecast that Cermak will obtain the largest majority any candidate for mayor of Chicago ever received.

If the straws can be relied upon this time Cermak will have a larger lead next Tuesday. In 1923 THE TRIBUNE straws indicated Dever's election by 97,362 and he actually won by 105,319. In the 1927 mayoralty contest THE TRIBUNE straws forecast Thompson's election by 74,932 and he actually won by 81,823, and in the Republican primary of last February THE TRIBUNE poll showed that Thompson would win by 61,735, and his actual plurality was 61,311. It is not claimed that the straw votes always prove correct, but THE TRIBUNE mayoralty polls have been unusually trustworthy.

Thousands Vote in Poll.

In this contest more than 34,000 persons were asked for their views before the campaign started, and since the campaign got under way 61,661 other persons have been asked for their preferences.

Of these 9,897 were asked for their choice yesterday on the street corners of the west and north sides of the city. Summarized, the totals for each candidate were as follows:

Cermak, Dem.	6,329	63.93
Thompson, Rep.	3,568	36.05
Totals	9,897	100.00

WOMEN PARADE IN LOOP TODAY TO BACK CERMAK

Quiet reigned in the headquarters of the independent women's committee for Cermak and the Democratic women's headquarters yesterday because of Good Friday. Today, however, women supporting Cermak will turn out en masse for the gala rally and parade, climaxing the efforts on the women's part in the mayoralty campaign.

Additional plans for the rally were announced yetserday by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the independent women's committee, and Mrs. George Bass, chairman of the meeting. Two hundred women, each carrying a broom, will march in the parade which is to follow the massmeeting.

The massmeeting will begin at 2 o'clock at the Auditorium theater. Mr. Cermak, Miss Harriet Vittum, Francis X. Busch, Judge Harry Fisher, Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, and Mrs. Fairbank will speak.

The women will form in a parade starting at 3:30 at the plaza in Grant park at the foot of Van Buren street. A band will give a concert from 2:30 on. The parade will pass north on Michigan avenue to Monroe, west on Monroe to State, north on State to Washington, and west to the Clark street entrance of the city hall.

Loftus, Ex-Policeman, Leaves for U. S. Prison

John W. Loftus, former Chicago police lieutenant, who was convicted more than a year ago on charges of violating the Dyer automobile theft act, left for Leavenworth penitentiary last night to begin serving a four year term. He was accompanied by nine other federal prisoners in custody of Deupty United States Marshal Joseph Spizzirri. Loftus also was fined $5,000.

BREEN OPENS FIGHT SEEKING RETURN OF SERRITELLA RECORDS

First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen yesterday started a fight on behalf of the city hall administration to recover the records seized in the offices of City Sealer Daniel Serritella, Capone lieutenant, by State's Attorney Swanson on Wednesday. The city attorney filed a petition before Acting Chief Justice Joseph W. Burke asking that the subpœna duces tecum on which the city hall raid was made be quashed for legal defects.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty, who issued the subpœna, will hear arguments on the petition today. Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele, who has charge of the inquiry, said that the subpœna was legal in all forms. The assistant prosecutor also said that he could see no reason why the administration should be anxious to keep a grand jury from inspecting city records unless the records contain some damaging information.

Prosecutor Keele continued to question witnesses yesterday in search of evidence of the charge that Serritella and some of his employés were involved in a city wide short weighting scheme. The prosecutor refused at this time to divulge his evidence, but said he expected definite grand jury action within one week.

RETURN ROONEY MURDER VERDICT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict holding that William J. Rooney, 42 years old, business agent for the Sheet Metal Workers' union, had been murdered by unidentified persons. Rooney was shot and killed on March 19 in front of his home at 1517 North Austin boulevard.

AWARD CUSTODY OF GIRL, AGE 7, TO "GRANDMOTHER"

Superior Judge E. I. Frankhauser yesterday awarded the custody of seven year old Rosemary Todd to Mrs. Mary Martin, 6224 Kimbark avenue, who until a few weeks ago was supposed to be the child's grandmother. The girl has been the central figure in a court battle which began six weeks ago.

The girl's father, Ralph Todd, a salesman, had sought the aid of the court in taking the child away from her mother, Mrs. Gladys Todd McCaubrey, 7030 East End avenue, who remarried after divorcing Todd in 1928. Todd alleged that Mrs. McCaubrey kidnaped the girl from the home of Mrs. Martin, Mrs. McCaubrey's mother.

The trial was dramatically interrupted two weeks ago when Mrs. Martin declared from the witness stand that Mrs. McCaubrey was not her daughter. She said she did not know who the woman's mother was and that she had been given to her when a small baby in England.

PRESS FIGHT TO OUST SQUATTER FROM CHURCH

The fight to oust Clarence Spierling and his family, as squatters, from the Hickory Corners Methodist church, three miles east of Antioch, was carried to the Lake county court at Waukegan yesterday.

An information charging Spierling with malicious mischief was filed by State's Attorney A. V. Smith. The hearing was set for April 9. A similar charge was preferred against Spierling when he was held to the October term of the grand jury in the justice court.

Spierling and his family continue to live in the church meanwhile. They moved into the church on Feb. 26 after their home nearby was burned by fire. Spierling said church authorities had voided their right to tenancy of the church through failure to hold regular services. He asserted that the land rights reverted, as a result, to his mother.

REVOLT LEAVES MAYOR WITHOUT OLD STANDBYS

Democrats Find Opponent Deserted by All.

With only three days left before the election, the Democratic inner council took stock of the opposition yesterday and concluded that the revolt against Mayor Thompson includes almost all the headliners of his former campaigns, among them even his closest friends of bygone days.

Not only, they said, is he without the support of the big Republicans now in office, such as Gov. Emmerson, Senator Glenn, Attorney General Carlstrom and the congressmen from Chicago districts, but he also is minus the aid of the personal associates who were his confidential advisers in former contests.

Pike Departs from City.

It was pointed out that one of the latest turns in events that surprised many was the departure from Chicago of Eugene R. Pike, former city controller, the last of Thompson's boyhood chums to withdraw from participation in his political activities. It has been reported that Pike left the city saying he would not be back until after the election.

Another lifetime friend, George E. Harding, former controller and former county treasurer, is in the city but he has not lifted a finger in the campaign. He has not visited Thompson's headquarters, his offices or his hotel rooms. He has not endeavored to swing his strength behind his old friend. Yet it is reported every effort has been made to bring him into line.

The conferring Democrats said these two instances of sundered alliances were the clearest demonstration of the situation in which Thompson finds himself on the eve of election. But they went on to say that there were many other illustrations of the widespread absence from the Thompson camp of former supporters, many of whom ranked temporarily, at least, as his friends.

Others Stay Out of Race.

Among those named in this group were Sheldon Clark, millionaire oil man and yachtsman; Charles C. Fitzmorris, who served as Thompson's chief of police and as his controller; George F. Getz, who for a long time was considered one of Thompson's business advisers; two former presidents of the board of education—H. Wallace Caldwell and J. Lewis Coath—and Richard S. Folsom, his first corporation counsel.

But, the Democrats said, when they turned from the list of Thompson's friends to the bigger list of those leaders who have been with him in past years, the list of absentees from his lineup now was found to be almost interminable.

County Chairman Snow, upon whose shoulders ordinarily the task of electing the primary winner would fall, has not shown himself anywhere in the campaign. Neither has Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, who has his own organization on the north side. Nor has Charles V. Barrett, with material strength scattered through a number of west side wards. Dr. John Dill Robertson, another west side leader who used to be Thompson's health commissioner and also president of the board of education, is openly fighting him now.

Not a word has been heard from former Senator Deneen and his aides, among whom are Roy O. West, national committeeman and former secretary of the interior; Edward R. Litsinger of the board of review, Thomas J. Healy, United States Marshal Laubenheimer, District Attorney Johnson, State's Attorney Swanson, and Postmaster Lueder.

In addition to the complete silence of all these former participants in former drives, the Democrats said, there has been a remarkable quiet for some time in the vicinity of some of those who on paper are listed as with Thompson. Among those in this class the one most frequently mentioned has been Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. He is listed as with Thompson, but he has not spoken for him from the platform or on the radio.

No Primary Celebration.

One phase of the Democratic comment was that this year the Republican love feast customary after a primary battle was completely missing. Thompson did not even call a general conference or effect a meeting of the city members of the county central committee.

The result has been, said the Democrats, that there has been no material augmentation of Thompson organization strength since the primary. They said the chief additions to his forces have been the "political racketeers" and the "reform racketeers." Among those listed in the former category were Ernest Stout of the "American National party," and W. F. Gailing of the "People's Republican organization." In the latter category were listed the Rev. Elmer Williams, E. J. Davis, and the Rev. John H. Williamson.

Notes of Campaign

Four group meetings of the Jewish Women's Progressive league will be held in different sections of the city this afternoon in support of the candidacy of Anton J. Cermak. One meeting is to be held at the Park Lane hotel, one at 2214 E. 69th street, another at 6121 Rhodes avenue, and the fourth at 928 Winona avenue.

The Edward Hines Jr. chapter of Disabled War Veterans is sponsoring a ball at the Drake hotel tonight in honor of Anton J. Cermak.

The United Service Men's league is arranging a noon day rally for Mr. Cermak on Monday at the Apollo theater, at which Col. A. A. Sprague will be chairman. Senator Lewis and Sheriff Meyering will be on the program with Cermak.

Mayor Thompson will speak over station WIBO at 6:15 p. m. tonight. His speakers' bureau has arranged for other broadcasts over WJJD at 6:30, WBBM at 6:30, WCFL at 7:15, and WGES at 9:45 p. m.

Peter J. Brady, Democratic nominee for city clerk, has pledged himself to establish neighborhood branches for the distribution of city automobile license tags if he is elected.

George E. Falkenthal, Republican precinct captain in Thompson's home ward, the 46th, has mailed an appeal to all Republican voters of the ward to support Cermak for mayor, criticizing the action of Thompson in deserting the party during the senatorial election last fall.

IGNORE PARTIES TO BACK CERMAK, SPRAGUE'S PLEA

Says Independents Will Decide Issue.

Disregard of party labels next Tuesday was urged yesterday by Col. A. A. Sprague in a statement urging independent voters to aid in the election of A. J. Cermak.

Col. Sprague is chairman of the independent business men's organization which has lined up thousands of leaders and active workers in the commercial and industrial life of the city in favor of Cermak. He has enrolled substantial groups from numerous branches of business in support of the Democratic nominee.

Faith in Voting Public.

"I have always believed," says the Sprague statement, "that people who have the mental courage and ability to think for themselves are the people who constitute the great mass of independent voters. They cannot be induced to follow blindly the dictates of any one political party; they refuse to act at the mere nod and beck of any single political personality. They are guided solely by what they sincerely believe to be for the best interests of society.

"These people have long since realized that the crisis which confronts Chicago today is not a question of the Republican party against the Democratic party; nor is it a conflict of one personality against another. Reduced to its simplest terms, it is a contest in which the great mass who favor decency and lawfulness are arrayed against the all powerful few who cherish their selfish desires above the rights of the 3,000,000 individuals who make Chicago their home.

"It is a struggle in which party labels and previous political affiliations must be swept aside. It is a battle in which the only hope for Chicago lies in presenting a united front against Thompson and all that he signifies to Chicago and the world at large.

Republicans Turn on Thompson.

"People who have been ardent Republicans all their lives have turned against Thompson, not with the painful conscience of a deserter, but with the peace of mind that accompanies the performance of the duties of citizenship and patriotism. They have done so with the realization that Thompson has hampered not only the progress of Chicago, but the progress of his own political party. Every thinking Republican who has turned against Thompson has done so to rid his party and his city of the corruption and lawlessness of the present city hall machine and to make possible the reorganization and rebuilding which the Thompson regime has necessitated.

"It is clear to the independent voters that under our representative system of government no man has a perpetual right to an office which he fills in a manner that brings disgrace and ridicule upon the people who have elected him. Voters who are guided by their better judgment rather than by political labels revolt against the campaign tactics of the present mayor.

Rebel Against His Manner.

"They rebel against the swaggering manner in which he heaps insults and slander upon Chicago's most highly esteemed citizens merely because they have expressed a desire to purge the city of its evils. The voters who refuse to be domineered have seen Thompson revealed in his true light. During the recent weeks of campaigning they have seen the portrait he has painted of himself—a perfect likeness of a demagogue.

"Law abiding citizens have been compelled to stand by helplessly while they watched the development of crime as a highly specialized and profitable industry in Chicago. They were powerless to preserve their self-respect as they watched a great city sink deeper and deeper into extravagant debt until it finally hit the bottom—a state of virtual bankruptcy. They keenly felt the tragic irony of Chicago's preparations for the World's Fair while congress, the legislatures of other states, and foreign governments were so rapidly losing confidence in our city that they refused to make appropriations which are necessary to insure the success of that project.

Business Men Indorse Cermak.

"They have seen this same attitude which prevails throughout the whole world gradually closing in on the people of Chicago, who have themselves lost confidence in the present administration. The observant people of our city have seen this reflected in the continued refusal of the voters to accept proposed bond issues necessary for the beautification and improvement of Chicago. Nonpartisan business men who have watched their businesses dwindle amid the deplorable economic conditions which have attended the reign of Thompsonism have voluntarily indorsed Mr. Cermak for mayor.

"Next Tuesday the voters of this community will sit as a great legislature which rules for a day. They must act as their better judgment dictates. They must make their choice carefully, for they must abide by it for four years. Party lines will be rent asunder. The balance of the power will rest in the hands of the independent voters, and this time their course is clear and obvious—the overwhelming election of A. J. Cermak as mayor of Chicago."

Burglars broke in to the Healy & Burns real estate office at 708 West Marquette road yesterday. Finding nothing, they moved to the Marquette Drug store at 6656 South Halsted street, nearby, and stole a parrot, an English bulldog, $375, and merchandise valued at $1,500.

BURLINGTON ROAD TO GIVE JOBS TO 1,500 MORE MEN

F. E. Williamson, president of the Burlington railroad, announced yesterday that 1,500 men are to be put to work at once in the maintenance department of the system.

Railroad statisticians estimate that the average wage of these workers will be $75 a month and that the total will reach $112,000 every four weeks.

Mr. Williamson also announced that the Burlington will within a short time inaugurate a door to door delivery of all shipments of more than three tons in which industrial plants are both consignors and consignees.

BANDITS 'CLEAN' BANK, BUT LEAVE RING IN BATHTUB

Hold Banker and Family Prisoners in Home.

Town Marshal Clayton Tiffany of Mundelein is looking for the man who belongs to the finger prints left on Mrs. Grace Mott's skillet, for the man who handled the Mott frying pan is a partner of three other bandits who staged a drunken soirée in the Mott parlor and then went to Mr. Mott's bank at daybreak yesterday and stole $30,000.

Marshal Tiffany is also searching for a thief wearing blue striped trunks, for those fancy underpants belong to Milan G. Mott, cashier of the State Bank of Mundelein, who spent a nerve-wracking night playing host to his four unbidden guests.

The Ring in the Bathtub.

There is one other clew, and while it may not be very useful, Marshal Tiffany is thinking about having an expert from the Northwestern university crime laboratory come out and take a look at it through a microscope in the hope that it will reveal something of the brazen personality of one of the bandit gang. The clew is a dark ring around the Mott bathtub left by one of the culprits who soaked and scrubbed there for an hour while he waited for the sun to come up and for the bank's time lock to open.

Mr. and Mrs. Mott and their sons, Neal, 23 years old, and William, 17, were sitting in their parlor on Thursday night listening to Cyrena Van Gordon, grand opera star, singing "The Star Spangled Banner" over the radio at the Golden Gloves tournament in the Chicago Stadium, when there was a knock at the door. Mr. Mott sent William out to answer it. A man with his hat pulled down over his eyes stood on the porch.

"I want to see your father on business," he said.

Gunmen Invade Home.

When Mr. Mott went to the door he found three others on the porch. Two displayed guns and the bandits pushed their way into the hall. They said they wanted Mott to go with them and open the bank, so that they could rifle the vaults, but they weren't surprised when he explained that the bank's time lock wouldn't open the vaults until 7:30 the next morning.

"That's what we expected," said the leader. "I guess we'll have to make a night of it."

Paul Mott, 22 years old, another son, arrived home two hours later and was forced to join the family circle in the parlor. He found a strange scene. The room reverberated with the cheers of spectators at the boxing tournament which came over the radio.

Their cheers were louder than the occasion seemed to require, Paul thought, but their ribaldry was explained by the presence of two bottles of whisky standing in the parlor. The bandits "brought their own," but they had to take it neat, for Mr. Mott, who isn't a drinking man, had no mixings to offer them. He politely declined the invitation of one bandit to take "just a little nip."

Robber Takes a Bath.

As the liquor supply dwindled the gunmen became bolder. Remarking that he "hadn't had a bath in two weeks," one went upstairs and climbed into the tub while two others shooed Mrs. Mott into the kitchen, where they found eggs, bacon, and coffee and prepared a midnight lunch.

About 5 o'clock the three sons were bound to posts in the basement and Mrs. Mott was tied to her rocking chair. While a guard stayed in the home to watch the captives his three companions took the cashier to the Mundelein bank. At 7:30 a. m. the robbers entered the vault, scooped up $10,000 in currency, bound and gagged Mr. Mott in the basement, rejoined the guard at the home, and drove away in a big maroon sedan.

Lake county police, who scoured the lake region and the North Shore all day yesterday, found no trace of the bandits.

MOTHER KILLED; BABY HURT.

Wabash, Ind., April 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henrietta N. Neer, 34, of Indianapolis, was killed and her nineteen months old baby was seriously injured when an automobile was struck by a train.

VETERANS' LOANS TO BE A BILLION BY END OF JUNE

Sixty Millions More than Former Estimate.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The President's governmental financial problems were complicated still further today by the receipt of information that veterans' loans under the new adjusted compensation law may total a billion dollars by June 30. In such an eventuality the deficit now expected to reach close to 800 millions by the end of the fiscal year would be boosted another $60,000,000.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, gave President Hoover the latest figures on bonus borrowing during a late afternoon call at the White House. He stated with this week's payments 375 million dollars will have been paid out to veterans under the law permitting loans up to 50 per cent of the face value of policies. A total of 820 millions is already in sight, Mr. Hines added, with loan applications still coming in.

View of Administrator.

The veterans' administrator predicted that a billion dollars would be in the hands of the veterans within the next three or four months. He estimated that checks to be mailed out this week would run between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000.

According to information left at the White House by Mr. Hines, less than half of the veterans entitled to loan extensions have applied thus far. He pointed out that the passage of the 50 per cent bonus loan legislation has stimulated many veterans to apply for adjusted compensation certificates who up to this time had neglected to take advantage of the bonus law.

May Increase Deficit.

A total of 924 millions stands to the credit of the veterans in the sinking fund formed to pay off the certificates as they become due. In case a billion dollars is loaned out prior to June 30, the difference between that and the credit of 924 millions would go to increase the deficit.

Demands upon the treasury to meet these loans, as well as other cash requirements for government expenditures, will prompt new treasury financing next week. The character of the new government offerings has not yet been divulged.

New hospital facilities at Danville, Ill., and Milwaukee have been included in the veterans' administration priority list for early construction, Brig. Gen. Hines announced. A new 350 bed barracks will be built at Milwaukee at a cost of $300,000. At Danville $500,000 will be expended on new hospital facilities.

HOOVER DENIES ANY OF CABINET PLANS TO RESIGN

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—No vacancies in the Hoover cabinet are anticipated at the White House despite the persistent cropping up of reports that several members of the President's official family planned to resign. It was stated authoritatively today by a person in a position to know that there was no truth in rumors that Secretary of the Interior Lyman D. Wilbur, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, or Attorney General William D. Mitchell would resign. Likewise the perennial reports of Secretary Mellon's retirement.

CARTER HARRISON JOINS PLEA FOR CERMAK VICTORY

Rule of Thompson Condemned by Ex-Mayor.

"Insull has not let him reduce gas rates, but he did help him settle the transit question—that is, Mr. Insull got an ordinance passed which he let the mayor sign. Do you remember why he signed it? To give immediate employment to 150,000 idle men. That was his assertion ten months ago. So far the only man I can recall who got a job from it was Walter L. Fisher!

"If there is any prosperity floating around it must be confined to the bootleggers. And that reminds me, Thompson is dead against prohibition—because of it he can't drive the crooks out of town!

Aid to Dry Cause.

"I want to let him into a secret: his loss of nerve is as much responsible for prohibition as anything I know of. For many years, 41 years if my memory serves me, Chicago lived with so-called continental Sunday observance; anything lawful on week days was permitted on the Sabbath. A law on the books, unobserved, unenforced for 40 years, called for the closing of saloons on that day. Laws under our system of government in the last analysis are made by the people.

"It was my theory that a law left unenforced for 40 years at the behest of the citizens was repealed by common consent—in what was tantamount to a general referendum. Naturally there were always some who wanted strict enforcement and with the election of each new mayor the attempt was always made to bring about Sunday closing, the grand jury usually being resorted to as a sort of a final thumbscrew.

"Up to 1915 each mayor had gone about his business and let the threats of indictment go hang! In that year 'the works' were applied to Thompson; if I am correctly informed, his friend, E. J. Davis of the Better Government association being right on the job. Thompson lost his nerve and pulled the biggest bonehead play in Chicago's official history—he asked his corporation counsel, Richard Folsom, for an opinion!

A Boon to Prohibition.

"Naturally, there was but one legal opinion that could be given, the letter of the law. Whereupon Thompson, for the first time in 41 years, closed Chicago's saloons on the Sabbath—a pulmotor for the prohibitionists! If they could enforce observance of a law, a dead letter for almost a half century, in a cosmopolitan city like Chicago, they could accomplish anything! They went to work with new courage—they owe thanks to Thompson for his timely aid.

"The present contest was epitomized the night of the primary when the city hall sang, 'Tony, Teny, where's your push cart at?' That song forecast the kind of campaign that has developed, an attack on the Americanism of every citizen who does not bear an Anglo-Saxon name, on every family that has named a son after one of the dearest saints in the calendar, on every man who has come up, or hopes to come up from modest beginnings, on the constitutional declaration of the equality of men.

Sees Even Higher Taxes.

"Can there be more than one answer to such a campaign?

"This is a time when a comparison of men, a study of parallel columns of their records is instructive. If the people of Chicago will just stop, look, and think before they vote, there will be a rainbow of hope for the unfortunate taxpayers whose taxes last year were trebled over the 1915 figures, whose taxes this year will be 20 per cent higher than they were last year, whose taxes under another four years of Thompsonism would amount to practical confiscation of their homes. Vote for Tony Cermak!"

Plan for Strenuous Finish.

In observance of Good Friday, Cermak and his associates kept off the stump and off the radio, and there was no campaign activity except for some conferences on plans to make the final three days before the election the most strenuous of all. As an indication of what is projected, Cermak is scheduled today to make eight speeches over a period of thirteen hours.

He will open at the Union Stockyards and from there will go to the loop to address a noon meeting at the Garrick. At 2 o'clock one of the spectacular events of the campaign is scheduled. The women's independent committee has undertaken to fill the big Auditorium theater and, after the speaking there, to parade through the streets to the county building where resolutions will be presented to Cermak.

Afternoon and evening meetings follow and the day will wind up with a midnight massmeeting in the Garrick theater.

Prepare to Combat Attacks.

The energies of the Cermak organization until election day also will be directed to nailing a flood of eleventh hour roorbacks known to be in preparation in the Thompson camp. One of these is to be a circular showing that although Cermak is a Presbyterian some of his relatives have been baptized in the Roman Catholic church.

Thompson's principal efforts during the day were at two noon meetings, one at the Illinois theater and the other at the Harris. Both were said to be disappointing to the Thompson managers. The Illinois was not filled and, although it had been announced as a meeting of public school teachers who were released from their duties because of Good Friday, the Harris meeting consisted almost entirely of men attracted by a bandwagon.

Thompson confined his speeches almost entirely to his stock attack on THE TRIBUNE, his new attack on State's Attorney Swanson, and an additional assault directed at Coroner Bundesen.

SUE TO KEEP ALL ARMORY PROFITS FOR THE STATE

National Guard Charged with Irregularities.

More charges of irregularities in the Illinois National Guard were made yesterday in an equity bill filed in the Circuit court, which seeks an injunction to restrain the diversion of armory rentals from the state treasury and also to restrain the use of the armories for nonmilitary purposes.

The Broadway armory, at 5875 Broadway, which figured prominently in the recent trial of Col. Charles J. Kraft, former commander of the 202d coast artillery, on charges of embezzling $100,000 in federal funds, is one of those mentioned in the allegations. Col. Kraft was acquitted.

Attacks Renting Practice.

The bill, filed on behalf of Edwin A. Green as a taxpayer, by the law firm of Krinsky, Levitan & Glassner, alleges that the armories of the Illinois National Guard are created for the sole use of the state militia, and that the practice of renting them out to private concerns for athletic events, auto, dog, and food shows and trades conventions is unwarranted.

It is further asserted that all income from the use of the armories, if any, should be turned over to the state treasury. The bill charges that at least three of the armories, the 131st Infantry, at 1546 South Michigan avenue; the Washington Park, at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, and the Broadway, are rented to private concerns and that the proceeds are turned over to so-called armory or regimental funds.

Guard Officials Named.

This diversion of funds from the state treasury, it is charged is done by and with the consent of Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black, in direct charge of all the armories; Col. Charles C. Dawes, new commander of the 202d Coast Artillery; Col. Francis M. Allen, commander of the 131st infantry, and Col. Thomas S. Hammond, in charge of the Washington Park armory. Gen. Black and the regimental commanders are made respondents.

The bill charges that in the last few years the Chicago Bruins basketball team has paid $6,500 for the use of the Broadway armory; that the amateur athletic union has paid $4,500, and that the Knights of Columbus Basketball league has paid $13,000, none of which has gone to the state treasury.

The 131st infantry armory is regularly rented for auto shows, dog shows, food shows, boxing and wrestling events, and conventions, and the Washington park armory receives $75 a night for basketball games, it is charged.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the Illinois National Guard, is not named a respondent.

NO CLEWS FOUND TO SERIES OF MURDERS, FLORIDA SHERIFF SAYS

Clearwater, Fla., April 3.—(AP)—Sheriff Roy Booth said tonight he knew of no evidence that might connect an alleged band of professional floggers with unsolved murders in this area.

Pinellas county authorities today were quoted as saying their investigations into two recent floggings had developed clews indicating members of a whipping gang may have caused the deaths of Dr. Archie McAllister, Tarpon Springs, and George Pritchard, St. Petersburg.

An investigation was begun several weeks ago, after a complaint to St. Petersburg police by R. W. Oxford, automobile mechanic, of that city, that he had been taken to a lonely spot and whipped. He said his assailants accused him of familiarity with women.

Facts unearthed indicated, authorities said, the professional whippers were obtainable by any one who offered a victim and paid the price demanded.

MAX EISEN, RADIO COMPANY HEAD, ASKS PROTECTION

Max Eisen, 1953 Humboldt boulevard, owner of the Humboldt Radio company, yesterday appealed to the state's attorney's office for protection from persons who have a grievance against Maxie Eisen, head of a fish peddlers' organization, who is involved in the special grand jury investigation of an alleged city hall conspiracy to defraud the public with short weights and measures in markets. Max Eisen said that he is the only one of that name appearing in the telephone book and that for many months he has been subjected to threats of bombing, violence, and has even been taken to the federal building and before the grand jury by mistake. It even caused him to be blacklisted in a lodge until he convinced the members that he was not the labor racketeer, he said.

"I am going to change my name to Pete Jones or something like that unless something is done to the real Maxie Eisen," he said. "I fear that some crank may harm some member of my family through a mistake."

AWARDS $750,000 COMPENSATION IN SALE OF ALTON

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday entered an order awarding additional compensation of $750,000 to the receiver, special master in chancery and various law firms connected with the nine year old receivership of the Chicago and Alton railway.

The order is final, with the exception of possible additional compensation as the result of the appeal from the sale of the road to the Baltimore and Ohio, certain stockholders having objected to the terms.

Attorney Silas H. Strawn of Chicago headed the list with $200,000. Other leader recipients of the additional compensation were William A. Wheelock, receiver, $51,500; Herbert A. Lundahl, special master, $50,000; the law firm of Burry, Johnstone, Peters and Dixon, $80,000; the firm of Taylor, Blanc, Capron and Marsh, New York, $80,000; the firm of Patterson, Eagle, Greenough & Day, New York, $75,000.

A. F. OF L. SAYS BANKERS WANT WAGES REDUCED

Monthly Survey Finds the Slump Is Ending.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—A more definite climb upward towards prosperity this fall is predicted in the April survey of business prepared by the American Federation of Labor. The opinion was expressed that the bottom of the depression has been reached and that improvement may be expected in the future.

R. C. STEPHENSON [Bretzmai Photo.]

The federation touched also upon the controversy concerning a reported movement to cut wages. It was contended that union labor had faithfully kept its promise to avoid unfortunate agitation and that wage reductions were uncalled for and would only delay business recovery.

Charge Move to Bankers.

"Reports from 800,000 union members," the federation said, "show that in the worst depression months this winter the number of members on strike or lockout has never been above seventh-tenths of 1 per cent.

"Much talk has been heard lately about wage cuts. Until now there has been strong feeling against wage reductions in manufacturing circles. Present advocates of wage cuts come largely from banking circles, but at least one leading manufacturer who declared against wage cuts ten months ago is now publicly announcing that he expects to reduce wages."

Banker Denies Charge.

South Bend, Ind., April 3.—[Special.]—Charges that the banking interests were using their influence on industry to cut wages were denied here today by Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers' association.

"Every intelligent banker," Mr. Stephenson said, "knows that to preserve the present status of living our wage earners should receive all the compensation the industry can bear. The American Bankers' association and its thousands of members are friends of the workingman and interested in his happiness and prosperity, for upon his status depends the happiness and prosperity of all our people."

Patrick Costello, Police Sergeant, Killed by Fall

Police Sergeant Patrick Costello of the traffic division died at the Alexian Brothers hospital last night of a skull fracture suffered a few hours earlier when he fell from the step of a surface car at Van Buren and La Salle streets. Sergt. Costello, who lived at 1915 School street, was 43 years old. He was chauffeur for Morgan Collins during his administration as commissioner of police.

GIRL, 6, KILLED BY BUS; TOLL FOR 1931 NOW 300

Marion Kaplan, 6 years old, 216 South Kildare avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by a Chicago Motor Coach company bus at Jackson boulevard and Kildare avenue. The police said that the girl apparently became confused while crossing the street and stepped in front of the bus. Two other children who were walking with the girl escaped injury. The driver, Michael Raupp, 4807 North Fairfield avenue, is being held.

This death and four others increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 300. The other victims:

Yolande Giacobbe, 6 years old, 2327 Grenshaw street. Died at the county hospital from injuries received last night by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop. A license number taken by Minnie, 9 year old sister of Yolande, was reported to the police, who sought Charles Gavdzek, 718 Temple street, to whom it was issued.

Edward O'Rourke, 42 years old, 2445 West Congress street. Died at the Mother Cabrini hospital of injuries received March 6 when he was struck by a truck driven by Nathan Bluestein, 1500 South Tripp avenue.

Herbert Dickey, 4 years old, 2150 West 24th street. Died at St. Anthony's hospital a few hours after being struck by an auto at 23d place and Leavitt street. The driver was Frank Plazek, 1708 West 17th street.

Jake Waskiewicz, 40 years old, 1631 Gerard street. Died at the county hospital of injuries received March 30 when he was struck by an auto at Elston and North avenues.

Mrs. Gertrude Bulger, 50 years old, 6949 South Irving boulevard, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding with her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude McShaffery, was struck by an Indiana Harbor Belt Line train at 123d street and Cicero avenue in the village of Alsip.

DRYS LED ASTRAY BY THEIR NOSES, JUDGE DECIDES

He Gives Agents Points on Rum Raiding.

When Prohibition Agents Carl G. Hambach, Walter T. Miller, and Benjamin F. Mills drove past the truck farm of Henry Deiterman at 203 New York street, Bensenville, in Du Page county, several months ago, their trained noses detected the unmistakable aroma of mash.

The drys parked their car and set out afoot on the trail of the illicit scent. It led them to the barn at the rear of Mr. Deiterman's house. Without a search warrant they crashed open the barn door and, just as they suspected, there was a still within.

Mr. Deiterman said he had rented the barn for $18 a month to Stemerwett & Son, who wanted to use it for storing lumber and machinery. Mr. Deiterman had a lease to substantiate his story, and he protested that he knew nothing of the still, but he was arrested.

Indicted by U. S. Jury.

Mr. Deiterman was indicted by the federal grand jury, and the true bill, drawn up by Eugene A. Tappy, assistant United States attorney assigned to the liquor call, charged him with the following offenses: Possessing and manufacturing intoxicating liquor, owning property used in the manufacture thereof, and maintaining a nuisance, all "against the peace and dignity of the United States."

Mr. Deiterman appeared in Judge James H. Wilkerson's court yesterday. He was not represented by counsel.

Mr. Tappy handed the court the indictment and the report given to him by the prohibition agents, which set forth the facts hitherto related. The court read the document with visible interest, and then looked at Mr. Tappy.

Judge Assails Dry Agents.

"You have no evidence on which to hold this man," he said. "Obviously there is a large gang engaged in this enterprise, yet none of the criminals are brought in. Why don't the prohibition agents, instead of smashing in this way, wait around, and try to apprehend the real offenders, as the secret service agents do in counterfeiting cases? Why be in such a hurry?"

Mr. Deiterman stood up. "Your honor," he said, "I offered to let them wait in my house and watch for the men."

Mr. Tappy then addressed the court. "Your honor," he said, "I move that this defendant be dismissed." The motion was granted.

BALTIMORE TO GET HOME RULE; BLUE LAW ENDS

Annapolis, Md., April 3.—[Special.]—With the approval of Gov. Albert Ritchie, the long fight over home rule for Baltimore ended today when the lower house of the legislature by a vote of 67 to 26 adopted the Michel blue law repeal bill which passed the senate yesterday, 16 to 13.

Baltimore's strict Sunday observance laws are as old as the city, coming down from Puritan days. A strong Protestant church element successfully defeated numerous repeal bills in the legislature for twenty years or longer.

Gov. Ritchie immediately after the final passage of the Michel bill said he surely would sign the measure giving the citizens of Baltimore the right to decide for themselves on the Sunday question.

The mayor and city council of Baltimore now is authorized to enact ordinances, subject to referendum, permitting Sunday games, entertainments, including moving pictures, and the sale of food and other necessary articles on Sunday.

BOY HERO TO BE HOOVERS' GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

Invite Lad Who Saved Lives in Blizzard.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Bryan Untiedt, 13 year old hero of the recent Colorado blizzard in which five children perished, will be a guest of President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House in about two weeks.

Tremendously impressed by the story of the boy's heroic efforts to save the lives of his schoolmates snowbound in a bus, the chief executive has asked him to spend a night at the White House.

Mr. Hoover was convinced by accounts of the boy's actions that he would have no trouble making the trip to the capital alone. Hospital authorities at Lamar, Colo., where Bryan is recuperating, said he would be able to leave in two weeks and the boy's mother has given permission for him to make the visit.

Saves Lives of Several.

When the school bus from the Pleasant Hill school at Towner, Colo., stalled in the raging blizzard of March 26 the driver, Carl Miller, went for help. He left Bryan in charge after solemnly warning him of the danger to himself and the other children. Miller never returned. He froze to death trying to find help.

Bryan made every effort to keep his companions amused and active. He started boxing matches and other forms of entertainment, but as night fell the penetrating cold pressed in. One of the first to freeze was Bryan's brother, Orlo.

When airplanes found the bus five of the children had frozen to death and the others, including Bryan, were suffering agony.

Bryan had done all he could. He had removed his own clothing and placed it on the others.

"Great," Says Boy Hero.

Lamar, Colo., April 3.—(AP)—Propped up in bed at a hospital where he is recovering from exposure and freezing, the 13 year old hero of the Towner, Colo., bus tragedy, Bryan Untiedt, tonight thrilled to the prospect of a visit with the President of the United States.

"Gee, won't that be great?" he told a nurse.

"That certainly is mighty nice of President Hoover to invite me back to Washington," Bryan told interviewers. "I never expected anything like this. I don't see why the rest of the kids cannot go along, but I guess they can't take us all."

Hospital attendants said it would be ten days before the boy could leave the hospital. Both arms and legs were frozen.

It was Bryan's father who first discovered the marooned bus.

Fort That Defied Guns of '61 Capitulates to Ocean's Fury

Pensacola, Fla., April 3.—(AP)—Lashing seas have done for old Fort Pickens that which enemy gunfire couldn't do. The last casement of the sturdy fortification, guardian of Pensacola harbor for a hundred years, appeared on the verge of tumbling into the Gulf of Mexico today.

Army engineers said it might stand until the next heavy sea, but no longer.

For two days this week gigantic waves whipped and battered the historic ramparts. When the storm spent itself only the defiant casement remained.

Old Fort McRae was built under the direction of Capt. William H. Chase in 1831. Another fortification, Fort Pickens, was built on Santa Rosa island, just across the bay.

From 1832 until the war between the states the two forts stood without firing a hostile shot.

At the beginning of war fate played a queer trick on Capt. Chase. He was made a general in the confederate army, with orders to capture Fort Pickens from the federal troops who had evacuated McRae.

Gen. Chase sent a garrison to Fort McRae, and the fortification was fired on for the first time on Nov. 8, 1862, being caught between the cross fire of Fort Pickens and two federal men of war off shore.

At the end of the first day of fighting more than 3,000 shots had been directed at Fort McRae from the more powerful guns of Pickens, and the fortification was badly damaged. The battle proved Fort Pickens could only be captured at a tremendous cost.

Gen. Chase decided not to attempt the capture and evacuated McRae, leaving the federal garrison occupying Pickens, which they held until the close of the war. That fort was the only one in the south which did not fall to the confederacy.

All but one of the walls of Fort McRae went down during the hurricane of 1906, and several persons lost their lives there.

CAPONE VAGRANT CASE DROPPED; LACK EVIDENCE

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne told Judge Frank Padden in the Felony court yesterday that he was unable to find any policemen who could give evidence of illegal activities of Al Capone, public enemy No. 1, within the last 13 months. The prosecutor said he therefore must ask for the dismissal of the vagrancy charge against Capone and the court allowed the order to be entered.

MAYOR WALKER EVADES COMMENT ON GRAFT CHARGE

Here on Way Home to Face Scandal.

James J. Walker, dapper mayor of New York, arrived here yesterday, returning to his home city from a California vacation to answer before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt the charges of graft preferred against his administration by a New York civic committee.

The New York mayor and an entourage of seven persons arrived at 8 a. m. in the private car Chicago, attached to a Rock Island train. Slipping out of pajamas of robin's egg blue, he donned a trim street suit and was escorted to the Congress hotel by a squad of five detectives.

Makes Trip to Notre Dame.

Then, being reminded of the proximity of South Bend, Ind., where his old friend, Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, lay on his bier, the mayor decided to make a trip there to offer his sympathy to Rockne's widow. Questioned about the New York municipal scandals, he evaded replies with smart cracks.

"Do you expect any fireworks on your return to New York?" he was asked.

"Not before the Fourth of July," he popped.

"Well, what about Gov. Roosevelt's demand for an explanation?"

"I've had a wonderful time in California," came the answer.

Comment on Rockne Death.

Commenting on Rockne's death in an airplane crash last Tuesday, Mr. Walker averred the news had "set me back three weeks from the gain in health my vacation afforded me."

It had been his plan to attend Rockne's funeral but, when erroneously informed the service had been postponed until Wednesday, he made arrangements to return to New York this morning, and could not revoke that plan when later advised that the funeral would be held this afternoon, his secretary said.

Having spent the night at the Congress, Walker and his party planned to leave for New York at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Traveling with him are A. C. Blumenthal, a movie executive; Mrs. Blumenthal, G. S. Collins, Irene Calbert, George Stinson, a valet, and a chef.

PUPILS MOURN BOY WHO DIED TO SAVE THREE

LORADO CLAVELLI.

Lorado Clavelli was mourned a hero by his fellow students at the Schubert elementary school yesterday. While on duty as a school patrol boy at Laramie and Wrightwood avenues Thursday morning, Lorado, who was 12 years old, was run down and fatally injured by a truck. Before he was struck he had pushed three younger children out of the path of the truck.

As a tribute to Lorado's heroism, a group of the patrol boys from the Schubert school will act as pall bearers at the funeral services on Monday morning at the home of the boy's parents at 5230 Drummond place. The accident was unavoidable, a coroner's jury found yesterday, and the driver of the truck, John Tylman, 2442 North Luna avenue, was absolved of blame.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING DIES.

Harry Allen, 45 years old, colored, 876 North Franklin street, died yesterday at the county hospital of wounds suffered on April 1 when he was shot by Cora Jones, colored, in the basement of a building at 644 North State street.

BLAMES DRY LAW FOR DOUBLING OF PRISON INMATES

Deputy Warden Tells Views at Riot Inquiry.

Q.—Some convicts testified to that effect. A.—I've never believed a convict yet and I never will.

Convict Causes Uproar.

Earlier in the day, "Big Joe" Moran, Chicago bank robber serving a life sentence, threw the committee into an uproar with his tales of selling of paroles and the inconsistencies in the action by the state board of pardons and paroles.

"The motto of this place," said Moran, grinning, "is 'Pay or stay.'"

Moran, who appears to be the voluntary spokesman for the convicts who think they have grievances, said the stock report around the prison was that it took $1,000 to get a case heard before the parole board.

"Well now, Moran," said Mr. Little, the committee chairman, "do you know of a case where any man paid to get out of here?"

"I know a lot who didn't pay and got plenty of time," Moran retorted.

Warden H. C. Hill interrupted at this point. "I might tell the committee," he said, "that when I came here I heard lots about this paying for paroles and I told the men then, 'If you'll tell me one case where that occurred I'll go to the governor and ask for your pardon.' I haven't been taken up on that yet."

Moran drew the committee aside at one point in the proceedings and told them the name of a witness who, he said, had valuable evidence on the triple killing. Two members went post haste for the witness and returned with Mrs. Irene Zona, 636 Van Buren street, Joliet, whose husband is a guard at the women's penitentiary. Mrs. Zona operates a restaurant near the spot where the men died but could give no additional testimony.

"Upkeep" on U. S. Racketeers Put at 12 Billions a Year

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—[Special.]—Racketeers are levying an annual tribute of from 12 billions to 18 billions on the nation, according to the report of the state crime commission submitted to the legislature today.

The racket in fraudulent securities in New York state alone is known to total 400 millions a year, according to the report.

Howard W. Amell, United States district attorney for the eastern New York district, is quoted in the document as authority for the statement that racketeers are taking from 200 millions to 400 millions in annual tribute from almost every business in New York City.

Commenting on these figures, the commission says: "The figures are astounding, and it is the public who pays them. It would seem that corrective measures can be formulated, but the subject should be investigated so that necessary steps can be taken intelligently."

Wants Laws Modernized.

The commission recommends further study of the causes and prevention of crime, criminal procedure, the correction law, police administration, and prison punishment.

The New York state code of criminal procedure, not revised since 1881, is said to be in a "chaotic condition." It is described as a "heterogeneous collection of penal provisions, exceptions, special provisions, and addenda." As an instance of the need for recodification, it is pointed out that a person who is convicted of violating a traffic ordinance has a "criminal record."

The state prison law has not been recodified since 1909, the commission points out.

Board's Labors Over.

The report of the commission is in the nature of its swan song, since it expired officially April 1 after five years of service, during the greater part of which it was headed by former Senator Caleb R. Baumes. The fruit of the labors of the commission is to be found in seventy-four laws enacted prior to this year. These range all the way from the famous Baumes fourth offender laws to minor changes in criminal procedure.

This year thirty-one bills have been introduced on behalf of the Baumes board, but none has yet become law.

While revision of the mandatory features of the fourth offender laws have not been officially sponsored by the commission, members of the board, including former Senator Baumes, have individually advocated relief modification measures.

SOVIET LUMBER WILL BE LANDED, BUT UNDER BOND

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The Russian schooner Anverzoise, due to arrive at Providence, R. I., April 15 with a cargo of soviet lumber, probably will be permitted to land its cargo under bond, it was learned today. Formal entry of the cargo into the United States will not be permitted, however, until after a rigid investigation of the cargo and the circumstances surrounding its origin.

Information reaching Washington indicates that efforts are to be made to prove that the soviet lumber did not come from the districts where convict labor is employed. In event the treasury is convinced that the lumber did not come from the district north of the 60th degree of latitude, it probably will be permitted to enter.

This cargo will be the first to reach the United States since Secretary Mellon issued a finding that convict labor was being used in that section of European Russia north of the 60th degree of latitude and therefore could not be imported.

The treasury department had advised government authorities at Providence to hold up entry of the lumber cargo pending an investigation. It had been expected that the schooner would reach this country last week, but ice floes retarded its progress.

The importer then has the right to go into the federal courts in an effort to bring about a revocation of Secretary Mellon's order.

Pair Holds Up Girl Cashier and Watchman in Hotel

Two robbers invaded the lobby of the apartment hotel at 1140 North La Salle street yesterday and fled with $50 and a revolver. The money was taken from Miss Olive Schumacher, 4034 Sheridan road, the cashier, and the gun from Steve J. Murray, a watchman.

ECONOMIC CRISIS PAST IN POLAND; TRADE PICKS UP

Fewer Jobless as Orders for Goods Gain.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, April 3.—Poland has passed the worst part of its economic crisis, and from now on the situation will steadily improve, according to Wipolit Gliwic, former finance minister of Poland and president of the Bank Handlowy of Warsaw. Gliwic reports conditions in the Polish iron and steel industry and in Lodz, the textile center, have shown marked improvement. Unemployment figures show a slight decrease and increasing orders have been reported by several branches of industry.

"The present crisis is really three crises in one," the banker explained. "First is the usual industrial crisis which occurs periodically every seven years. Second is the agricultural crisis, which occurs at longer intervals. The last one in Europe followed the conclusion of the Franco-Prussian war, and recovery was very slow. The third crisis is the result of the greatly decreased gold production.

Worst of Crisis Past.

"I think that the third crisis should be met by banks decreasing their reserves instead of holding 60 per cent of the reserve capital. Fifty per cent would be sufficient, and would greatly aid in bringing back normal financial conditions. In Poland we have passed through the worst part of the industrial crisis.

"Although the soviet government dumped products abroad which affected the exports of Poland and other countries, I still do not think that bolshevism can be blamed for demoralizing markets which were already demoralized. There is much that is mischievous about soviet trade operations, especially their practice of buying on credit and selling at any price for cash. This matter has already been discussed at Geneva, but little was accomplished because of Germany's objection. With Berlin working together with Moscow, the chances for European coöperation against bolshevism is out of the question.

"At present world unemployment has reached the total of 20,000,000, and this means that 60,000,000 people are nonproducing and do not know what they are going to do tomorrow. This is the result of three crises developing at the same time.

Farm Relief Problem.

"In Poland we believe that the agricultural crisis is the most difficult to solve and we believe we have found a partial solution. Poland called a meeting of the five agricultural countries of eastern Europe. Rumania, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, and Hungary attended, and the Baltic states sent their representatives. This meeting recommended the forming of an international agricultural bank at Basel, Switzerland, which would finance the conversion of the present short term credits granted to agriculture into long term loans at low rates of interest.

"Agriculture's chief need in Europe at present is cheaper money. In recent years agriculture and industry have been operating on short term credits. When short term credits carrying high rates of interest must face conversion into long term loans, bearing low rates of interest, a crisis naturally developed. The revolving fund, with which Europe was operating, objects to becoming basic capital. That, I think, is one of the chief causes of the present general crisis.

"When we can give agriculture cheap money then we are on the road to the solution of the industrial crisis. To counteract the effects of the gold shortage I again suggest the banks free a portion of their reserve funds."

Gliwic said that Poland is not afraid of the five year plan to industrialize Russia.

"Egypt built the pyramids with slave labor and when they were completed of what use were they?" he asked. "Russia today is also building huge industrial shells with slave labor and of what good will these factories be when they are completed? Where is the skilled labor and management to operate them? And if they do succeed in the tremendous task of operating these factories, how will their output be distributed? I have a number of friends among the German industrialists, who are now visiting Russia, and I am eager to hear their opinion when they come out."

Pity Russia's Dreaded G.P.U.! Everything's Blamed on Them

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, March 10.—[By Mail.]—Everything in Russia is blamed on the G. P. U. Those poor boys in the secret police haven't got a single friend, anywhere, but every one must be some lonesome mother's darling. Day after day, week after week, month after month, and year after year, certain circles of the capital buzz with reports of wholesale arrests and car lot executions and innumerable offenders sent into exile.

One wonders how the housing shortage can exist in a city, which is also depleted nightly by the raids of the sinister secret police, although it has been explained to me that the G. P. U. sometimes installs dummy agents, carefully made up and disguised, as substitutes for the persons it arrests.

But the system has its advantages. Gents remaining out in convivial company much too late tell their wives they have been rounded up and taken to the Lubianka [the G. P. U. headquarters] and were only released after hours of questioning.

How Husbands Trick Wives.

"Then how come your breath smells so strong of vodka?" retorts the irate wife.

"Sh-sh-sh, not a word," says the errant papa in a whisper. "I just naturally set the boys up to a lot of drinks to celebrate my liberation."

One tired business man ribbed up a G. P. U. alibi for nearly a year after he got a fair damsel as a secretary and began to lead a double life, one with her and one at home. About three times a week, when he failed to check in at the family domicile, he announced he had been pinched and questioned all night long by the dreadful police.

Tries Gag Once Too Often.

One night hubby loped home after a night off and sprang the aged gag.

"Did you see my father at the Lubianka, they arrested him, too, last night," replied his wife sweetly.

"Sure I did," answered the husband, figuring sure the old guy was still in as they don't often release suspects within a couple of days.

"Well, he didn't see you and they turned him loose this morning in time for him to be here for breakfast," replied mama tartly.

And next day when she went to market she pranced in and bought herself a divorce for 65 kopecks.

The fearsome G. P. U. exerts a morbid fascination over most Russians, especially the "white" members of the bourgeoisie under the imperial régime, the intelligentsia, and the foreigners. Somehow the lower strata don't seem to bother much. Perhaps they have more important things to worry about.

It was the same way before the revolution, in the czarist days, except that the czar's secret police was named the Okhrana. About the only difference in the two organizations lies in the name.

Write Anonymous Letters.

Like most Europeans, Russians have a penchant for writing anonymous letters to the police. Even in Paris, one of the chief officials of the surete generale once told me they reckoned their anonymous mail by the bale, annually. You don't even have to stamp a letter addressed to the police.

It's free, like ringing up the telephone company to make a complaint.

The communist movement, breaking up apartments and flats into separate homes of one room each with all the tenants using the kitchen and bathroom together, helps the racket along. Everybody gets a chance to be as nosey as he or she likes and pries into the business and affairs of every one else in the flat.

A woman pecks in her neighbor's room and sees a gold cigaret case, an heirloom of better days, or some gold rimmed specs. She writes a letter to the G. P. U. denouncing her friend as hoarding gold and perhaps in due time the place will be raided and searched and the precious article confiscated.

Reports Errant Rail Worker.

How do you suppose the authorities enforce the order that all men employed on railways in the last five years report back to work for transportation service? Why, through anonymous letter. Mr. Mugski is trying to get an additional room in the flat, where he is quartered, so his indigent son-in-law will move in there and support his daughter instead of sponging on the old folks forever.

He gets thinking about it and then remembers the man in the next room was once a brakeman out in Omsk, Tomsk, or what have you.

"Quick, Ivan, the pen and ink," and he indites a missive to the G. P. U. telling them a railroad deserter is lurking in the next room. When the man is drafted to throwing switches in Uzbekstan Mr. Muggski grabs the vacated room for his son-in-law.

RUSSIA MASSES 250,000 TROOPS ON CHINA BORDER

District in Turmoil; Fears Red Invasion.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 3.—Soviet Russia, self-advertised protector of down trodden orientals, is now maintaining an army of a quarter million troops along the 1,200 mile border which separates Russian Siberia from Chinese Manchuria. This information was supplied by the military intelligence corps of the Chinese northeastern frontier defense corps, with headquarters at Mukden.

The report states that in addition to the 250,000 troops maintained on the Chinese frontier, Russia also maintains an aviation squadron of 34 bombers, most of them equipped with machine guns, and a fleet, consisting of 26 river gunboats, which patrol the border streams, chiefly the Amur, Sungari and Ussuri rivers.

Soviet Troops Listed.

Soviet 7th division—Mixed infantry and artillery brigades, totaling 17,000 men, stationed across the Manchurian border from the Suifeng-Tungning-Meihan region, with headquarters at Vladivostok.

Soviet 14th cavalry division—Tank and field artillery corps, more than 10,000 strong, stationed in the region along Hangkai lake, with headquarters established across the Amur river from Fuling.

Soviet 8th division—Infantry corps, totaling 17,000 men, stationed along the Ussuri river, with headquarters at Su-er-ku.

Soviet 11th division—Infantry corps, with 2,000 cavalry troops, totaling 20,000 strong, stationed along the Siberian bank of the Heiho opposite the Chinese Sibwei district.

Maintain Force at Manchuli.

Just across the Chinese border from Manchuli, last station on the western branch of the Chinese Eastern railway, are stationed the Red 34th and 63d divisions, one cavalry division, and an additional artillery corps of 7,000 men. This strong unit, part of which was used against the Chinese troops in the "war" of 1929, is equipped with 270 field guns, cannon, 14 tanks, 30 armored railway cars, each containing heavy mortars, and a squadron of 34 modern bombers.

Against this formidable Red military and naval establishment the Chinese are able to muster only about 70,000 Manchurian troops, most of which are used in patrolling the 1,200 mile Chinese Eastern railway and providing protection against bandits.

See Little Chance for Chinese.

The ease with which a well equipped soviet army of 40,000 troops defeated the Chinese army on the boarder and drove into Chinese territory for a distance of nearly 200 miles in 1929 indicates that China would stand little chance in a conflict with Moscow's present formidable army. The movements of these troops, with constant demonstrations, target practice, and air maneuvers, within sight of the Chinese boundary has had the effect of keeping the Chinese frontier districts in a turmoil, leading to frequent reports of soviet plans to invade Chinese territory.

The Chinese claim that the soviet military activities are for the purpose of impressing Moscow's ideas in respect to negotiations with the Chinese authorities regarding the administration of the soviet controlled Chinese Eastern railway and other diplomatic and commercial questions outstanding between the two countries.

Nine out of Ten Thought They Could But—the Actual Results Proved that Nine out of Ten Could Not—Tell the Originals from the Reproductions

The Contest Ballots from the Regal National Compare Contest have been tabulated and checked, and the winners in all cities (except the Pacific Coast) have been notified.

The widespread National interest and enthusiasm was a surprise even to us. The windows were blocked from early in the morning until late at night. Thousands of men studied the most minute details of every shoe. One expert shoe man used a magnifying glass to count the stitches and perforations.

Now our only object in inviting the whole wide world to compare these shoes was to absolutely convince everyone that it was practically impossible for anyone to tell the difference. We believe that every man who accepted our invitation is now fully satisfied that Regal Shoes are faithful reproductions of the most expensive models produced by the best custom bootmakers in the world.

We put in the windows of one hundred Regal Stores eight of the most Expensive and Exclusive Styles for Spring, designed by the best bootmakers in Europe and America.

And right beside the Expensive Hand-Made Original Models, we placed the Regal $6.60 Reproductions of the same Styles, made in the Regal factory.

All identification marks were removed and we invited everyone to try and pick the Originals from the Reproductions, and the actual tabulated results from ninety stores proved that nine out of ten men couldn't tell the difference.

It was the boldest, most daring idea to demonstrate and dramatize a Merchandising Policy ever tried in this country. We made an open challenge to every man who wears shoes, in every city where we have a store, and the final results of the contest proved conclusively that nine out of ten men who tried couldn't tell the Expensive Hand-Made Originals from the Regal Reproductions.

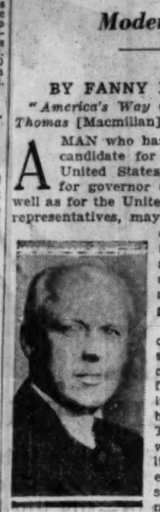
Thomas Tells His Remedy for Politics, Trade

Writes as Socialist and Moderate.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"America's Way Out," by Norman Thomas [Macmillan].

A MAN who has been a Socialist candidate for president of the United States, for mayor and for governor of New York, as well as for the United States house of representatives, may be regarded not only a representative Socialist but a man of outstanding political acumen in his party.



NORMAN THOMAS.

What he thinks of the present status of his country and of its future possibilities commands a hearing. Mr. Thomas' book would do that in its own right even if his personal history did not do it for him.

"America's Way Out" is written with a lack of bombast or bias. It is a serious social study, presenting a serious social program which, in many of its phases, is oddly unrevolutionary. His enemies would have expected something more bizarre from his pen. His friends could ask for nothing more likely to gain a serious consideration of his theories.

Charles Evans Hughes once said that "Our government is the most successful contrivance the world has ever known for preventing things from being done." Mr. Thomas quotes that remark. After surveying the causes of it, he makes some concrete suggestions for making our government over into one that will work toward the goal of "liberty and justice for all—not only for the influential and the well-to-do."

Mr. Thomas says, "A socialism worth confidence must offer a philosophy, a program, and an organization equal to the task of winning plenty and peace and freedom, not indeed without suffering or struggle, but without a suicidal and self-defeating degree of violence."

Marxian principles are outmoded. Newer times, more progressive methods, he says, although he couches that phrase in more extensive and explanatory words. "It takes," he says, "more than shouting 'class struggle' effectively to organize a Socialist world or even a Socialist party."

Communism is a "secular religion," he feels, and the experiment in Russia has not proved it to be what we need. "The communist religion gives the crowd and its manipulators new warrant for their own intolerance and lust," he declares.

Democracy, as exemplified in the world to date, specially in the last war, he argues, can give way and did, to dictatorship under stress.

He therefore, offers socialism, as he describes it in the paragraph already quoted, as a program for America's future.

In that socialism he says there is first "the absolute necessity of planned control of the resources and machinery of the world in the common interest." In other words, the state first must acquire, then control whatever man needs for his life in common with other men.

For the individual, socialism, as proposed by Mr. Thomas, is to "strike from him the chains of poverty and economic insecurity."

Mr. Thomas answers the question, "Does socialism necessarily mean virtual conscription to certain jobs?" "Not at all," he asserts; "we may indeed try William James' 'moral equivalent for war' and ask of young men so many years of peace service in the sweaty, uninteresting jobs. Even there, machinery is so lightening toil that the number of hours of compulsory work will be small. Far more men will probably be attracted to such jobs by special pay or shorter hours. . . . On the whole men will pick their callings much as now, with the advantage of fuller information about jobs and better vocational guidance. . . . We must use the newer discoveries of psychology to help to guide us to work, and the perfection of machinery to lighten the amount of monotonous labor and increase leisure."

Meetings and Lectures

The life and work of J. D. Beresford will be discussed at the meeting of the Bookfellows tonight at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

Robert Lee Eskridge will be the guest of honor and speaker at the meeting of the Woman's City club on Monday at 2 p. m.

Robert Morss Lovett of the department of English at the University of Chicago will start a series of five lectures dealing with "Values in Fiction" on Tuesday evening at 6:45 at the Art Institute. This week's topic will be "Values of Knowing: Science." The series is being sponsored by the University of Chicago and the lectures are held in Fullerton Memorial hall of the Art institute on Tuesdays and Friday.

"Poetry, Interpreter of Life," will be discussed with illustrations from recent books of poetry by Ethel M. Colson Brazelton at the Evanston Woman's club on Tuesday afternoon.

On Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the Lyon & Healy concert hall Miss La Mar Warrick will talk about "Chicago's Influence on Poetry and Prose."

The Dickens Fellowship will have a dinner at the Great Northern hotel on Saturday night, April 11, at 6:30 o'clock. Louis A. Crittenton will speak on "David Copperfield." All Dickens lovers are invited to attend. Miss Florence Walters, 512 West 72d street, Chicago, is president of the Fellowship.

John S. O'Brien, author of "By Dog Sled for Byrd," will talk on his 160 mile trek in the antarctic before the Junior Collectors' club of Geneva tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 at the Geneva Golf clubhouse.

The illustrations by Boris Artzibasheff for "Behind Moroccan Walls," adapted by Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, and to be published in the near future by the Macmillans, will be on exhibit at the Chicago Woman's club today.

Author Adds Movie to His Yarns of Sea

Villiers and Others at Gotham Teas.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—When Alan J. Villiers came over from Australia a couple of months ago, for the publication of his third book, "Vanished Fleets," he brought along a reel of moving pictures made on the trip which his previous book, "By Way of Cape Horn," describes. Filling a few lecture engagements at clubs, he showed the pictures, and the combination was so popular that he was obliged to extend his stay and his lecture tour.

A. J. VILLIERS.

Mr. Villiers is a young Australian journalist who went to sea on a sailing ship for love of it. The film has been shown three times in New York, by request, the third time last Saturday night at an evening party given by Elsie McKeogh and Charlotte Barbour, partners in a literary agency.

Mrs. Barbour and Mrs. McKeogh gave the party for their authors, and because, they said, they felt like having a party, which is a very good reason.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes, Montague Glass, Fanny Heaslip Lea, Guy Holt, Mrs. Wallace Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Will James, Vina Delmar, John and Margaret Farrar, Rita Welman, John O'Hara Cosgrave, Baroness von Hindenburg von Nostitz, the Marchesa de Bonis [who writes under the name of Vahdah Bordeaux], Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Poole, Alice Brady, Du Bose Heyward [who has just finished a play for Miss Brady], Katharine Brush, Rena Dean, Earl Chapin May and Stella Burke May, Harrison Smith, Herschel Brickell, and Hammett Dashiell.

Rupert Hughes spends two or three months in New York every winter. "You see, I am a native New Yorker; I was born in Missouri and have my residence in Hollywood," he explained. Vina Delmar has been in Hollywood for some time also. Du Bose Heyward has almost finished a new novel; it isn't named yet. His play is to be called "Brass Ankle."

On Friday afternoon Alfred H. King, the publisher, gave a tea for Mrs. Evelyn Miller Pierce and Louis C. Whiton, both having first novels scheduled for early publication. Mrs. Pierce is a Texan in her twenties; her novel is called "Hilltop," and is placed in Texas. Mr. Whiton has written his first novel at seventy! It is a story of New York. Mr. Whiton has lived all his life in New York, practicing law, and he writes of old New York. But he has a close connection with the literary world; he is the father of Ann Watkins, the literary agent. Ann Watkins is now entirely surrounded by literature, as her son has become a publisher.

Irving Fineman, author of the Longmans Green Prize novel, "This Pure Young Man," returned from Bermuda a week ago with a novel half done. In an evil hour he confesses having succumbed to the spell of Virginia Woolf's "To the Lighthouse," and is now deeply involved in the problem of style. His new book isn't named, but he admits it is a modern love story.

MISS BENSON DOES ANOTHER BOOK AND WINS NEW PRAISE

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The latest choice of the English Book society has fallen upon Miss Stella Benson's new novel, "Tobit Transplanted," which is a modern version of "The Book of Tobit," and which contains, as well as the modern version, "The Book of Tobit" itself. There is thus no excuse at all for readers who are unfamiliar with the Apocrypha to say that they cannot understand Miss Benson's story. And it must be admitted that Miss Benson's courage and candor is exemplary.

STELLA BENSON.

The book certainly will have a great vogue. It was unfortunately published here at the same moment as a number of other highly distinguished novels—for example, that long book, "Hunger and Love," which Bertrand Russell has described as being the work of an intellectual proletarian; L. A. G. Strong's "The Garden"; Miss Fannie Hurst's "Back Street," and a new very long novel called "Albert Grope," by an author whose name is F. O. Mann. This last book is recommended very highly to me as being the next masterpiece of humane letters.

Its chief admirer [for it is not yet published, and the number of its admirers is as yet limited] thinks it will sweep the world. And so it will, if it is as good as he says it is.

Another new novel which I have been examining with great interest is John Brophy's "Flesh and Blood." Mr. Brophy is a young author who already has published a number of books; and this is his fourth novel. I have read only one of its predecessors, a delicate, but not wholly successful study of post-war conditions called "Peter Lavelle." "Peter Lavelle" began excellently, but it lost strength as it proceeded. The new book marks an advance. Mr. Brophy regards it as his first real novel.

As he candidly says, "The Bitter End" [his first novel] was to some extent autobiographical. "Pluck the Flower" suffers from stodginess, and I went to the other extreme with "Peter Lavelle."

A writer who can speak of his own work in these terms is one who has the power of self-criticism; and his future is one that is to be watched with expectation.

Finally, the new Mundanus book [this is a series of paper-bound, low priced books with which Victor Gollancz is trying to lead the English public into the book buying habit] is called "An Angel in the Room," and is the work of Gerard Hopkins of the Oxford University Press. Mr. Hopkins has published several previous books, none of which has been fortunate enough to carry the general suffrage as Mr. Hopkins' admirers had hoped, but the new one has already been acclaimed, before publication, by a writer in the London Observer as likely to rank among the season's best novels. Apparently it will have to be very good indeed if it is to surpass these others of which I have just been speaking, and it seems probable that "Tobit Transplanted" will have the first and the widest success of them all.

NEW YORK 'GOES SMALL TOWN' TO LURE TOURISTS

Electric Lights, Cut Rates and Prices for Summer.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—Yes, sir; the old latch string is going to hang outside this summer and the welcome on the doormat will be spelled out in electric bulbs as big as searchlights. New York City has gone small town and turned Broadway over to the boosters. They are planning a couple of wound stripes for the statue of civic virtue and red, white and blue bunting for the big street. It is all to lure the tourists to the "greatest summer resort in the world," it become known today.

Life in Father Knickerbocker's town, once the temperature begins to rise, will be just one big excursion. There will be, according to the boost-New York committee, cut rate railroad fares, a series of weekly parades in costumes, band concerts, a shoe week, a fur week, a lingerie week, an artificial flower week, and a lot of Saturday nights. Advertisements, special postage stamps, a mammoth carnival, and more tinsel and painted banners than a hundred county seat towns could use in a lifetime will be used to lure the out of town buyers to Manhattan.

Concerted Drive Made.

It is going to be a season of special sales. "Every industry will coöperate in a concerted drive to stimulate summer trade," said the committee chairman. "Hotels and railroads will arrange excursion concessions and wholesale and retail groups will offer special inducements to buyers."

Something like this was tried here a couple of seasons ago and Broadway laughed so hard it blew out the lights in the great electric "welcome" sign over 42d street and Times Square. There is no doubt, however, that Coney Island has moved to Broadway. All Times Square lacks is a shoot the chutes.

Most of the visitors will find it just as easy to get indigestion on Broadway as at Coney, for there are almost as many hot dog stands. The drink problem has been solved. There are orange drink, pineapple drink, tomato cocktails, clam broth, grapefruit juice, and apple drink bars on every corner.

Broadway a New Coney.

As far as food is concerned, Broadway already has Coney licked. There are more nationalities in the feeding business on Broadway than there are ingredients in the hash they sell. The automats are ritzy in comparison.

And, for entertainment, the summer visitors will find among other features the flea circus on 42d street, plenty of shooting galleries, half a dozen penny arcades, and a staggering art exhibition known as the Spanish Inquisition show. After they have spent all their money they can go look at the empire building. That's free.

On Broadway the barkers stand out in front of the movies just as they do on the board walk and inside the lobbies you can get a voice test, your fortune told by a machine, or your picture made in two minutes.

Heretofore most of New York City's hospitality has been offered by gyp taxi drivers and cappers for sucker night clubs. It is going to be different this summer. A customer will be given a run for his money.

REPEALER TITLE HELD LEGAL BY STATE'S EXPERT

Springfield, Ill., April 3.—[Special.]—Constitutionality of the title of the O'Grady-McDermott bill to repeal the Illinois prohibition law was maintained today by Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau, which prepared the measure. He declares the title follows the exact wording of the repeal acts of 1874, which repealed some 500 laws at the time of the Hurd revision of the statutes through a commission of three created by the legislature in 1869.

The repealer is now before Attorney General Carlstrom who is to submit a report on its constitutionality to Gov. Emmerson. The report is expected next week.

The drys are contending the title is faulty. It reads: "A Bill for an Act to Repeal Certain Acts Therein Named." The drys argue this does not conform to the constitutional provision that the subject of the bill shall be expressed in its title.

Mr. Billman, the bill drafting expert, holds that "repeal" is the subject of the measure, and that repeal has in existence some 57 years were taken as a pattern, the title being "the same to the word." Some other legislative authorities also maintain that if the bill becomes law and should be held invalid, it would create a great muddle among the revised statutes, and a resurrection of ancient laws.

HUNT GUN GIRL FOR TAKING CAB DRIVER'S PANTS

A young gunwoman was sought by police last night for the robbery with Irwin Kolar, 106 North Hamlin avenue, a taxicab chauffeur, reported earlier, with blushes and without pants.

Kolar was driving in Chicago avenue when the woman hailed him, and climbed his machine. She was smartly clothed and attractive, he noticed. Not far from Dix street the passenger signalled Kolar to stop.

She stepped from the cab, opened her purse, and drew out a small revolver. Kolar handed over $7.50 on command, and a moment later, with considerable embarrassment, doffed his trousers and handed them over also. Meanwhile a small machine drew up, the girl stepped inside, and was driven away with Kolar's $7.50 and trousers.

Four King Alfonso's Aunt, Aged 80, Paralysis Victim

MADRID, April 3.—(AP)—The Infanta Isabel, aunt of King Alfonso, aged 80 years, is in delicate health and her physicians fear that she is a victim of a progressive paralysis. For a long time she has remained a recluse in the palace, abstaining from court ceremonials.

RUMORED DRINK OF GIRL TYPIST STARTS DRY OFFICIALS' ROW

Newark, N. J., April 3.—[Special.]—Deputy Prohibition Administrator Lewis J. Tutt of New Jersey and United States Commissioner Joseph F. Holland are not "doing business" with each other any more, and a girl stenographer is the cause.

Mr. Tutt announced today that no more prohibition violation cases would be taken before Commissioner Holland until the young woman had been transferred to other duties. The stenographer, whose name was not mentioned, is said to be in charge of the issuance of search warrants in the commissioner's office.

Mr. Tutt alleges that she visited a speakeasy with two prohibition agents and that the trio didn't go to the place on official business.

Subsequently the agents were transferred to other states, Mr. Tutt said.

Commissioner Holland, answering Mr. Tutt's statement, declared that no proof had been offered that the stenographer had been to the speakeasy, and asserted that he refused to discharge or transfer the young woman on hearsay evidence.

Mr. Tutt took the controversy to John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, and Mr. Pennington took the matter to Commissioner Holland.

Said Commissioner Holland:

"I was given orders by Mr. Pennington to discharge my stenographer.

"I informed him and Mr. Tutt that if they had any charges to make against any one in my office they should be made definitely and proven, and that I would not discharge any one on such a story as they had recited to me."

And there the matter rests.

SCIENTIST FINDS WINE NECESSARY TO PROLONG LIFE

Says Dry Law Causes Many U. S. Deaths.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 3.—The ultraconservative faculty of the French Academy of Medicine, which, contrary to the general body of medical opinion in this country, has stood out for years against the use of alcohol in any form, is the latest deserter from the dry ranks of the world.

One of the most distinguished members of this august body, Dr. Charles Feissinger, now says that he believes the habitual drinking of wine or beer in moderate quantities prolongs life.

"Long years of experience have convinced me that wine has an extremely important physiological action," says Dr. Feissinger. "It stimulates the liver and helps along the internal secretions, particularly those of the thyroid gland.

"I believe that after the age of 45 man cannot get along without wine and that the older he gets the more he needs it. My confrère, Dr. A. Gentot, celebrated his 99th birthday some time ago and after putting away his quart a day throughout his whole life he is still healthy and actively engaged in his profession. I, myself, have felt much better since I stopped drinking water. To my mind prohibition is probably the chief factor in the unusually high number of deaths from cerebral hemorrhage in America."

ALCOHOL FAILS TO HARM LIVER, DOCTOR LEARNS

Cleveland, O., April 3.—(AP)—After keeping hogs drunk for 15 years and observing experiments for 35 years, Dr. F. B. Mallory of the Boston City hospital has failed to find that ethyl alcohol does injury to the liver.

Injury known as alcoholic cirrhosis is probably caused by some impurity in the alcohol, Dr. Mallory told members of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists.

"I have kept hogs drunk for fifteen years in an effort to find out what impurities in alcohol cause cirrhosis, but so far have not succeeded," Dr. Mallory said. "I am certain, however, that pure alcohol has no deleterious effect on the liver."

He said he believed liver trouble had increased since prohibition because of manufacturing moonshine whisky in copper stills. Copper, he said, is a deadly poison to the liver.

Bares Habits of Cancer.

Cells of cancer, in their ravages on the human body, bear a resemblance to dogs which can be taught tricks when young, but learn no new ones in old age.

They are also like parsnips which grow tough as they grow older.

This is revealed in the study of 1,500 cancers in autopsies by Dr. Shields Warren, instructor in pathology at the Harvard university medical school, upon which he reported at the closing session of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists here today.

Adopt Selves to Issue.

Immediate cancer cells bear but little resemblance to the cells of living tissue to which they are attached, while as they mature the resemblance increases, Dr. Warren's studies revealed. When they are more mature they are less likely to change their place of activity or "learn" to adopt themselves to other types of tissue.

"When there is such a close likeness between the cancer cell and the normal cell to which it is attached the diseased growth is more likely to remain in that part of the body," Dr. Warren said.

"When there is little resemblance the disease is much more likely to spread throughout the body and to appear in other organs."

ALDERMANIC ELECTIONS.

On Tuesday 21 aldermen are to be chosen. Citizens who appreciate the importance to the city and their own interest of having a competent and honest city council will not overlook these contests. They will find the most reliable guide in the report and recommendations of the Municipal Voters' league. In some of the wards the selection already has been made. In twenty-one there are contests and the candidates recommended by the league are as follows:

5th ward—Ald. Charles Scribner Eaton.
6th ward—Ald. Guy Guernsey.
8th ward—David L. Sutton.
11th ward—John P. Wilson.
12th ward—Former Ald. Bryan Hartnett.
15th ward—Former Ald. James F. Kovarik.
17th ward—No recommendation.
18th ward—Ald. Walter W. Morris.
19th ward—Ald. Orley Elbert Northrup.
23th ward—George D. Kells.
32d ward—Joseph S. Kobrzynski.
33d ward—No recommendation.
35th ward—Charles A. Mugler.
36th ward—George W. Robinson.
37th ward—Former Ald. Wiley W. Mills.
39th ward—Walter J. Orlikoski.
41st ward—James C. Moreland.
44th ward—Ald. Albert E. Loescher.
49th ward—Ald. George M. Williston.
50th ward—James R. Quinn.

Among these contests several are especially deserving of attention. In the 5th ward the principle of rewarding faithful service should insure the reëlection of Ald. Eaton, whom the league recommends as "honest, sincere, and conscientious."

In the 6th ward the reëlection of Ald. Guernsey is a matter of moment, not only to that ward, but to the whole city. The league says of Ald. Guernsey: "Alderman for thirteen years with excellent record. His constructive thinking, analytical mind and constant watchfulness have been of great value to the city in his work as member of the finance committee, often blocking the passage of iniquitous bond issues and other vicious measures. Should be reëlected that the city may continue to profit from his ability and experience."

In the 8th ward the contest is between Andrew Metzger, a Thompson henchman of dubious record, and David L. Sutton, business man and ex-service man, whom the league recommends emphatically as "energetic, able, and well qualified to discharge the duties of alderman independently and intelligently."

In the 36th ward George W. Robinson, described by the league as "an aggressive, energetic young business man" who has the training and natural ability to make a good alderman, is running against Ald. Nuzzer, with a "consistently poor record" as a blind follower of the Thompson machine.

In the 37th ward former Ald. Wiley W. Mills' good record should insure his election over Ald. James H. Tayler, who has shown complete subservience to the city hall gang, and the league says "doesn't know what it's all about."

In the 49th ward Ald. Williston, who the league believes has given promise with experience of development, is running against Daniel J. O'Connell, a member of the Thompson machine and secretary to Building Commissioner Paschen, now under indictment for income tax frauds.

In the 50th ward James R. Quinn, ex-service man and lawyer of high character, "well qualified to make an excellent alderman," is running against Ald. Curtis F. Mellin, supported by the Thompson machine, and with a "mixed record" in his first term.

Hartnett in the 12th ward, Kovarik in the 15th, Morris in the 18th and Northrup in the 19th are all recommended on the basis of good records in the council or other public office. In the 23th the league prefers George D. Kells, as "qualified to make a good alderman," over Busch, who "has no particular qualifications" and is a Thompson organization candidate. In the 35th former Chief Bailiff Mugler, whom the Legislative Voters' league approved in his term in the legislature, and in the 39th Orlikoski, chief clerk of the county recorder, are recommended.

"No matter who may be elected mayor," says the league, "it is of vital importance that the city council should be strengthened." The league has studied the qualifications of the candidates and its indorsements are the best guide for the conscientious voter. The city council is an important factor in the prosperity and progress of the city. Citizens should be careful and public spirited in voting for its membership.

THE BEST OF VACATIONS.

Applications are now due for enrollment at the citizens' military training camps to be held in July and August. Unfortunately every applicant cannot be given training. That is the result of the meager and shortsighted policy of congress. Last year 1,743 were enrolled at Fort Sheridan out of 3,300 who had applied. In the 6th corps area, including Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, there were 4,700 trained out of 9,100 applicants. There are already over 5,000 applicants for the area for the 1931 camps, 1,500 for Fort Sheridan. There may be only about 1,600 accepted for the latter camp, but selection is not based on date of application alone and any citizen who wishes to take the training but has not yet filed has the opportunity still open.

The experience to be had from these training camps is one which any healthy and spirited young American will profit by and enjoy. It will build up his body and his character, help to prepare him to defend his country if called upon in war and to do his duty as a citizen in peace. Not only is military training provided, but inspiration to intelligent patriotism. Also sports are organized for relaxation and entertainment during the period. Health is carefully conserved and weaknesses disclosed. The training camp, in short, offers one of the most enjoyable and lastingly beneficial vacations an American youth could have. It is a pity every young American could not have the privilege of the camps for at least one period.

DEATH DEALING JOKES.

On the fire alarm boxes the following notice is conspicuously shown: "Firemen have lost their lives responding to false alarms. Pull this box only in case of fire."

This warning does not prevent some individuals from expressing their sense of humor by turning in false alarms. The night of April 1 such a false alarm was turned in from 71st and Prairie avenue. Responding, the driver of truck No. 5, trying to avoid injuring passengers in an automobile at 75th street, ran into an iron trolley stanchion, injuring six firemen in the truck, one of them perhaps fatally. If a new squad wagon replaces the one smashed it will cost $4,000. Add to this the doctors' and hospital bills and the cash cost of that joke will come to about $5,000. This is to take no account of the pain suffered by its victims and the sorrow and anxiety of their families.

Flogging and imprisonment would be justice for the joker if he could be caught. Unfortunately, it is difficult to find those who commit these offenses. The fire department is trying to reach them by warning and appeal. Citizens and especially our youth should help. Turning in a false alarm is not clever or funny. There is nothing to excuse it. Any one who lets it be known that his humor is likely to turn in that direction should be rebuked by his associates. If he has committed the offense he should be reported to the authorities.

MR. BROOKHART IN PANAMA.

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa had a severe attack of morals in Panama the other day and endeavored to make virtue as obnoxious as possible. Mr. Brookhart's gift for this is undeniable. His ability is one of almost incredible genius. If any person could cast a reproach, even on the accepted code of right living, it would be Mr. Brookhart in his frequent displays of perfect goodness. He makes the truly good too unpleasant to be followed, an achievement of doubtful value to the higher life.

Mr. Brookhart's inspiration seeing Panama was, naturally, in the direction of legislation. In the heat which an attack of morals always produces in the senator he said he would see to it that a law prohibited American soldiers and sailors (why not all Americans?) from entering any country where liquor was sold—a neat and purposeful postscript to the Kellogg pact which would give it real effectiveness. The Panama government takes exceptions to Mr. Brookhart's remarks and is considering a protest to the United States. The only reply Mr. Stimson could make would be that the American government, having no control over senators, and many of them having no control over themselves, has no responsibility. He probably will not add that countries to which Mr. Brookhart is undesirable may turn him back at their ports or frontiers. This has been done in less provocative cases and if it should be in the case of the Iowa senator it will not be regarded as an unfriendly act.

Editorial of the Day

STORE DOOR DELIVERY.

[Traffic World.]

Southwestern lines, it has been inferred from reports from St. Louis, as to their plans, seem to think that creation of door to door service is the solution of the troubles into which the railroads have fallen. There are several folks in Washington who, if pressed, would probably say that that was only the beginning of an era more satisfactory to the carriers on iron highways owned by them, even if motor vehicles were regulated. Their general idea is that freight trains must be speeded up.

Support for that idea is found in the testimony of J. M. Pogue and Richard Breckenridge, vice presidents of the Cincinnati and Lake Erie (electric), in the motor transport coördination hearing. A slow moving freight train, uttering all the groans speculatively attributable to a giant engaged in giant tasks, may be majestic. So is a creeping glacier. Both suggest great might, but not the nimble alertness, busy with errands of its master.

Pogue weaned drivers of their own automobiles away from their conveyances by having his trolley cars pass them on the highway between Springfield and Columbus, O., at such speed as to make their owners think their cars were standing still, though they might be making fifty miles an hour. Breckenridge played the pied piper to the shippers by sending their freight, in truck body containers, over the level land of western Ohio at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour. He got their trade even without offering door to door service by speed between termini. A truck could not make a sustained speed of thirty-five miles an hour. By running his light merchandise trains at that speed he more than doubled the number of persons he could serve with second morning or earlier delivery—from 2,237,806 to more than 5,000,000 persons, to use his figures.

A thought is that consignees of freight want what they want in the shortest time possible. They don't seem to care how the quick service is achieved, whether by truck all the way or by a combination of trolley flat car service carrying loaded truck bodies that can be snatched by the shipper to his shelves in the shortest possible time. If the Chinese coolie could beat any other combination there might even be serious consideration of a resort to the standard Chinese transport facility.

It may be fine literature for one to inquire what a hurrying person intended to do with the three minutes saved by his hurry. However, it would not do to make such an inquiry of a merchant who had customers standing, first on one foot and then on the other, while he waited for a truckman imbued with the spirit of such an inquiry in undue measure to get to his shop with the merchandise for which the customers were waiting.

SPRING TONICS.

THE urge to take a spring tonic is a part of folklore—more narrowly, of folk-medicine. All folklore has some basis of truth, and this goes for folk-medicine. The truth may be smothered in error, or we may not be able to see it because we are too ignorant, but it is there.

Of the latter statement, the highbrow physician's attitude toward spring tonics is a good illustration. He was a scoffer and he could justify his scoffing until the importance of vitamins was discovered. With those scientific demonstrations the highbrow physician had to take off his hat to the old woman who brewed her teas in the springtime. Having acknowledged that he was wrong because he was too ignorant to be right, he humbly bows to the old lady and asks her to change the ingredients of her brew and her method of brewing it.

The spring tonics she used contained vitamins C and B complex. The way she made them saved some of these vitamins and accompanying minerals. The people needed what she gave them. Many of the ills and blemishes for which she gave them were due to vitamin deficiency. The consumers were often cured and sometimes by the brew.

However, there are better sources of vitamin C and B complex, and better ways of preparing the brew. Fresh spring vegetables and fruits are the best sources of vitamin C. Herbs and roots taken in the spring from the woods are good, but early radishes, English peas, onions, and strawberries are better and they taste better. Some of them are eaten raw, and raw foods are superior to cooked as a source of vitamin C. The best sources of vitamin B complex are sprouted grains, malted products, wheat germ, yeast, eggs, and lean meat. These make fine spring tonics for those who have the skin blemishes and assorted pains that call for the accustomed teas.

The old ladies' brand of spring tonic was generally short on vitamin D. In the early spring most vegetables are below whatever level in content of this substance that they may attain in the fuller sunshine of later months. The custom has been to supply this with cod liver oil. We are now told that sardines and, possibly, all fat fish contain it. Maybe we have been taking a spring tonic without knowing it when we ate sardines and mackerel.

SOAKS LICE IN ALCOHOL.

Mrs. G. S. writes: I have a way of killing lice that is simpler than yours. Wet the hair thoroughly with alcohol at night. Wrap the head to hold in the alcohol fumes. Remove the cloth in the morning. Repeat on the third night and again three nights later and your trouble is over.

REPLY.

The objection to your method is that it calls for three applications and requires one week, and necessitates a good deal of alcohol.

Alcohol is expensive and not easy to get for this purpose. Besides, it may contain wood alcohol or other poison. You are right in one thing. Lice are fastidious and don't like it.

DIETING A MINOR ROLE.

L. A. B. writes: Is dieting of value for catarrh or rheumatism? If so, what things should one eat and also avoid eating?

REPLY.

Dieting plays a minor role in dieting for most of the diseases called rheumatism. It is of no value in the treatment of most of those called catarrh.

INCOME TAX RETURNS.

Chicago, March 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a person buys a small store in September, 1928, and sells or loses it in April, 1929, is he forced by law to file an income tax return? 2. Must he file one for 1928 and another for 1929? 3. If he loses the business through misfortune and has nothing left, what must he do? 4. In case he did not file a return what is the punishment?

C. C.

1. Depends on his income.
2. Yes, if he made enough income in those two years.
3. If he has made a taxable income and has not retained enough money to pay the tax he would be subject to penalties.
4. We suggest that you read the printed suggestions accompanying the form for return. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REFUSE COLLECTIONS.

Chicago, March 26.—[Friend of the People.]—Our alley is always in a disgraceful condition except for a few hours after it is cleaned up. The people leave their ash cans and garbage cans empty and use the alley for dumping purposes. A big flat building in the 622 block on St. Lawrence has no cans of any kind. J. L. M.

Report is made that regular service is given in this district as per schedule, weather conditions permitting. Refuse complained of has been removed, and within a short time a survey will be made of the neighborhood and, where necessary, notices served to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

PARKING PROBLEM.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am the owner of a corner apartment and store building. On the one side there is a paved sidewalk about 8 feet wide; between the sidewalk and the street curb there is a strip of lawn about 7 feet wide, which I have planted with trees and endeavor to keep covered with grass. It has become a practice for drivers to park their cars either wholly on the strip of lawn on this side or partly on the lawn and partly on the street, resulting in ruination of the lawn. The same difficulty does not prevail on the other side, which is under the jurisdiction of the Lincoln park commissioners. 1. Have I any rights over the strip in question? 2. Can I call on the police to remove cars parked thereon, as some of them are parked all day and night? 3. Can I prevent cars from parking on the street opposite the store fronts and the entrances to my apartments?

P. W. E.

1. You do not own it.
2. In our opinion the police ought to act.
3. See No. 2.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

EVERYBODY OUGHT TO PRAY SOME TIME!

And, indeed, they ought, but we had never thought so much about it lately until we heard them telling us that over the radio the other night. Once in a while you hear something from that loud speaker that lifts you up and makes you a nobler man or woman, and so on, and makes up for a lot of hoole that often crowds in on the ether. We were fooling with the dial the other night when we heard an announcer say that a lot of colored people who work in a tobacco factory down in Richmond, Va., were going to sing some of their spirituals. We thought we'd give them a try. And they were great. Not professional singers, but they seemed to sing right out of their hearts. We heard Moses begging with hard-hearted old Pharaoh to "let mah people go," and loved it. But the next song was one that a listener can't get out of his head for days and days, "Everybody Ought to Pray Some Time." There's no use trying to describe a song, but we merely want to say that that night we pinned a flower on the loud speaker instead of giving it our customary kick in the pants.

THIS RELIEVING WORLD.

From janitor to White House chief,
They talk of nothing but relief:
It's drought relief and flood relief,
And dust relief and mud relief,
And wet relief and dry relief,
And roup and Hessian fly relief;
Relief from unemployment,
Relief from unenjoyment,—
Relief for farms,
For babes in arms,
And ma relief and pa relief
(They stand out bold in bas-relief),
Police relief and judge relief,
Scandal and shame and smudge relief,
Regret relief, remorse relief,
Wedlock relief, divorce relief,
Relief from inhibitions,
Relief from politicians,
Relief for vets,
Relief from debts,
And French relief and Dutch relief,
And wheel relief and clutch relief—
Oh, it would give so much relief

EOLUS.

ADD GOOD NEWS of Good Times: Henry Ford's profits for 1930 were fifty-five million dollars. Prosperity may be hiding around the corner for most of us, but Hank knows which corner it is, and he's around there right now making Prosperity snap lumps of sugar off its nose and sit up and say uncle.

THE REDS have barred Rachmaninoff's compositions in Russia and likewise tied a can to the great pianist himself. He is making too much money in America and the Reds think that is just too bad. However, the story was first paged all over France, England, the U. S. of A., and points west yesterday which will help Rachmaninoff to make much more money. Every knockski from the Ruskies is a boostski in capitalistic countryovitches.

THE SILK HAT comes forth tomorrow; the Easter parade brings it out again. The silk hat seems gradually disappearing. It was a lovely thing—so black and glossy—but we fear in time it will go up on the museum shelf along with the dodo. When you pass one tomorrow, sniff (in a well bred and inaudible manner, of course) and see if you smell anything like moth balls.

EARL CARROLL is going to build a forty story building in New York (sezze) and there isn't going to be a single window in the building. Earl is tired of low policemen always peeking in his windows to see if he is going to pull off another bathtub party.

SIR HUBERT WILKINS, who is going in a submarine to the north pole, will for one dollar take any letter you send him and mail it back from there the moment he arrives. It's a grand idea, but we often get letters just as cold as any that could come from the north pole: "Unless you see fit to pay this account immediately we shall be obliged to place it in the hands of our attorney."

EASTER RAIMENT.

Oh! Easter's here, and when we stroll
A-down the avenue,
I have a brand new outfit
All picked out for you.

The southern breeze will be your gown,
And sunshine be your hat.
And who would want an Easter rig
Daintier than that?

MARJORIE F. W.

LAGNIAPPE.

WE KNOW WHAT the trouble was. Wall street stocks swore off going up during Lent. And how heroically and sternly they stood by their promise. But Lent is over tomorrow, and then—ah, then we shall see what we shall see.

AND TOMORROW the dear little rabbits will all be laying Easter eggs. All right, go ahead and tell the dear little children that the bunnies do not lay the pretty Easter eggs. Our advice to the dear little children is to soak anybody in the snoot with an Easter egg that tells 'em that. For bunnies do lay Easter eggs. They do so. R. H. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 4, 1915.

BERLIN. — The American steamer Greenbrier, from New York, struck a mine in the North sea and sank a few hours after it left Bremen, according to word received by United States Ambassador Gerard. Its crew is reported to have been saved. The Greenbrier is the third American vessel destroyed by mines in the North sea. The others were the Evelyn and the Carib.

LONDON.—A blow that may send Bulgaria, Greece, Italy and Rumania tumbling into the European war has been struck along the Serbian-Bulgarian frontier. Bulgarian regulars invaded Serbian territory, the Serbian war office announced, and gave battle to Serbian troops along the Vardar river. Dispatches reported losses on both sides in excess of 200 killed and wounded. About 2,000 men are reported engaged. Rome dispatches said that Greek troops had been hurried northward toward the scene of the fighting, a few miles from the Greek frontier.

BERLIN.—At every point along the Franco-Flanders battle front in the last 24 hours attempts of the allies to make gains have failed, according to the official statement from the war office.

LONDON.—Whether by government inspiration or on their own initiative, several English papers appeared with articles saying that the Anglo-French warships have encountered serious resistance at the Dardanelles. These statements admit that the Turkish forts have not been damaged seriously.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 4, 1901.

PEKING.—The Chinese government has formally notified Russia that China, owing to the attitude of the powers, is not able to sign the Manchurian treaty. Prince Chang asserts that every Chinaman except Li Hung Chang was against signing the convention. Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching have sent to the court for approval a list of the names presented by ministers of the powers for punishment as a result of the Boxer uprising. The death list has been reduced to four names for degradation and to 91 for loss of office.

MANILA.—Aguinaldo is preparing a manifesto asking the insurgents now in the field to lay down their arms and accept the sovereignty of the United States. When this is done a proclamation of peace is expected to be issued, probably by June. It is reported here that President McKinley has invited Aguinaldo to visit the United States and that the former rebel leader may sail from Manila on April 15.

CHICAGO.—More than 100 Tuscarora club Democrats invaded the Palmer residence on Lake Shore drive and congratulated Honore Palmer, the new alderman of the 21st ward. Incidentally, they made the acquaintance of Mrs. Potter Palmer and a dozen other society women and listened to short speeches from Mayor Harrison and others. They also were served with liberal quantities of punch and champagne and ate freely of sandwiches.

CHICAGO.—Chief of Police Kipley is to be left out of Mayor Harrison's new cabinet and Controller Kerfoot will retire of his own accord. Inspector Hartnett seems to be the leading candidate for Kipley's place.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 4, 1881.

DANVILLE, Ill.—Robert M. Bishop of Paris, Ill., died this morning. Although only 39 years old, he had long been regarded as one of the leading lawyers in eastern Illinois.

SIDNEY, Neb.—Reddy McDonald, head musician at a dance house and a noted cutthroat, was taken from the county jail by vigilantes and hanged to a tree in the courthouse yard. It is hinted that two more prisoners who have committed foul murders will be taken out and made into good men by lynching them.

CHICAGO.—The new Union station, at Madison and Canal streets, was brilliantly lighted for its entire length for the first time and thus signalized its completion. For the first time trains of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, Chicago and Alton, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads will arrive and depart from this depot today.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TURN ABOUT.

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—Why not have a Russian write articles about the United States for THE TRIBUNE? He could describe Chicago scenes relatively as terrible as the church containing the kulaks described by Mr. Wales. So far as the logging camps are concerned, it seems to me that under existing conditions the Russian logging camps are superior to those in the United States. Of course our local lumbermen will try to point out the superiority of our logging camp food, but that is a matter of opportunity and taste. Less than 25 per cent of the people in the United States eat as well as the average French taxi driver. All and all, food for the common people in the United States is rather awful. Furthermore, with a tremendous surplus of foodstuffs, we are engaged in starving a considerable section of our population.

I hold no brief for Russia, but I do hold one to see that, so far as possible, the truth is told about these United States. And if you wanted to send me back to somewhere, you should have started three hundred years ago.

ADDISON LEWIS.

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA.

Chicago, March 31.—The unspeakable horror of conditions in soviet Russia, described by Henry Wales in the March 30 issue, paralyzes the mind. Surely the civilized world will pause and give heed to the pitiable plight of these kindly and talented people of Russia, bereft of personal liberty and the land they hold most dear; exiled to strange occupations in an unknown land; trapped and hopeless; denied the consolation of religion; driven relentlessly by the armed forces of lawless invaders of their country who have set up the Third Internationale and made of Russia the U. S. S. R.

Can we, as a people who have always been true to the great principles of honor, equality, and liberty, allow the importation into our country of that which is the product of such conditions as the Third Internationale imposes? Can we not appeal, individually, to William Mitchell, who, as attorney general, could advise us, or to the solicitor general of the United States, who represents each one of us in legal matters in Washington, and find out what steps can be taken to assure us against the ill-timed recognition of this U. S. S. R. and to stop the shipment into our land of that which is being stolen from this helpless race, ground out of the very lives of the people?

We cannot continue longer to be an accessory after the fact without suffering for the crime. RACHEL HOLMES,

OUR SUPERIORITY.

Chicago, Ill., March 31.—In reference to the recent uncensored news from Paris regarding conditions in Russian lumber camps, I cannot help but wonder whether it is capitalistic propaganda or a sincere effort to convince us that we Americans are such a superior people.

When such men as Dean Wallace Brett Donham of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration begin to speak of the necessity of a national industrial plan, it becomes self-evident that we Americans have important economic problems to be solved. Let this be food for thought to some of the so-called "constructive elements" in our country such as Matthew Woll and Representative Fish. RALPH BUCKE.

UNCENSORED.

Bloomington, Ind., March 30.—Again my old friend THE TRIBUNE scores. Today's Henry Wales' uncensored article is a valuable service to all Americans. Every one should get to read it. We are all waiting for his true story when he gets back. HAYS H. BUSKIRK,
Vice President, First National Bank of Bloomington.

HER PREFERENCES IN SERMONS.

Green Bay, Wis., March 30.—I am on the road and must therefore attend a church of another denomination when I do not find one of my own, which is often the case. For I do believe in going to church on Sunday. What I want to know is this: Why don't the preachers give us a good, old fashioned sermon any more? All we may listen to now are lectures on this, that, and the other thing. Even on Palm Sunday, when I thought I would surely hear about Christ, the subject was misleading, for all I got out of it was a lecture on modern psychology. I could have wept. Don't think I am old fashioned, that I don't care to hear good lectures. I do, but not on Sunday mornings in church. I can read all about these other things in the papers and the libraries, and I do. But I am old fashioned enough to want the crucified Christ on Sundays in church. I often wonder whether the ministers themselves do not believe in the Christ any more. We hear so little of Him. I know many who feel just as I do about this matter. If they must speak about current events let them use the midweek service for that. So please, please, "we would see Jesus."

BREAD WITHOUT CIRCUSES.

Evanston, Ill., March 30.—The American people would consume twice as much bread if they could get it cheap and in wholesome shape, not puffed up with air and moisture, but millers and bakers are driving the people away from bread eating.

Forty years ago bolted white flour cost more than whole wheat or graham. The reasons given were logical: It cost more to bolt it and the bran did not bring as much as the flour. Now white wheat or graham costs two or three times as much as the white. What caused this sudden change? All health authorities advise whole grain foods, especially for growing children, but when one tries to get such bread or flour he has to pay a penalty, and one get it only in five pound lots. Give the American people a square deal on flour and bread and they will soon solve the farmers' wheat problem. Let the government buy the grain and turn it into flour and whole bread as cheaply as possible. That is the best way to help the farmer and all the people.

200 U. S. WOMEN AND CHILDREN FLY FROM QUAKE AREA

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 3.—American women and children, for the last three days under temporary shelter in the shattered city of Managua, today were rushed by airplane from the quake area to Corinto, on the sea coast.

Two hundred wives and children of United States marines were included in the flights from the Nicaraguan capital, which was leveled in Tuesday's earthquake and fire with a loss of 2,000 lives.

Marine and pan-American airplanes were used to carry the homeward bound American refugees to Corinto, where they were awaited by the United States transport Chaumont, which will go to San Francisco, and the U. S. S. Relief, which will proceed to New York.

Chicagoans Among Evacuated.

Among those evacuated by airplane were Mrs. G. J. Boyle, 5242 South State street, Chicago; Mrs. Vleit and son, Chicago; Mrs. Thurman and two children, 2613 73d street, Kenosha, Wis.; Mrs. Stamper, 403 Washington street, Jacksonville, Ind., and Mrs. Ashley and two children, Syracuse, Ind.

Nearly all of the injured have been removed to the city of Granada, only a few serious cases remaining here.

With the departure of the American women and children, the American marine forces again concentrated their attention on the relief and rescue work still remaining to be done. Ernest J. Swift, Red Cross official, arrived here today by airplane from Miami to direct the relief work.

The excitement caused by yesterday's report that brigands were advancing on the city from the hill country subsided today. However, extra precautions were taken, and marines with sub-machine guns were guarding the city. Officers discounted the rumors of raids and said they could take care of any such situation.

Lay Plans to Rebuild.

While some residents were talking of rebuilding their destroyed homes, special attention was being given to sanitation. Water is being provided from the brewery, which has the only pure supply left, and from Lake Managua. The lake water has to be boiled before use.

It was expected that tomorrow will see some signs of rehabilitation in the city. The Tropical Radio company was planning to send equipment back to Managua from the temporary station set up several miles outside the city. Some natives also are talking of returning as soon as the fire danger is over and more settled conditions prevail. Bodies were still being taken from the ruins today. Fire was still smouldering in many places.

The bodies of 40 washerwomen were found this afternoon in a small lake situated in the crater of an extint volcano above the city of Managua. Crowds of women were accustomed to doing their washing in this lake. Those found today were so occupied at the time of the earthquake and were swept by a landslide into the water, where they were crushed or drowned.

One of the most unusual accidents of the quake was that of Maj. Robert Illig of Virginia, whose leg was fractured. He was not struck by anything, his leg simply being twisted by the movement of the earth under his feet.

Asks Anti-Toxins in a Hurry.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—A request that large quantities of anti-toxins be rushed by air to earthquake devastated Managua was received by the navy department tonight from Ernest J. Swift, Red Cross official directing relief work. He requested that 7,500 cubic centimeters of anti-typhoid toxin, 8,000 cubic centimeters of small pox anti-toxin, and 20,000 tubes of chloride of lime be sent by the tri-motor navy transport plane which has been "standing by" at Philadelphia ready to leave on order. It was estimated the trip to Managua would require 24 hours flying time, with four stops planned.

BUENOS AIRES, April 3.—A severe earthquake shook the provinces of Tucuman, Salta, and Santiago del Estero this morning. The tremors threw the population into a panic. Little damage was done and there were no casualties.

Several Injured in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—(AP)—Dispatches from Pinotepa, state of Oaxaca, say that a number of persons were injured at 1:20 o'clock last night. Another temblor shook the town at 4:30 a. m. today. Neither movement caused serious damage. Tremors also were reported in Guatemala City and in various parts of Salvador, while volcanoes in various parts of Central America showed signs of activity.

Japanese Volcano Erupts; Residents Flee to Coast

NAGASAKI, Japan, April 4 [Saturday].—(AP)—Steamers arriving here today brought reports that Mount Iliuba, on Kuchinoerabu island, south of Kyushu, had been erupting for two days. Villagers and farmers living near the base of the volcano were reported fleeing to the coast to escape the rain of ashes and stones. Kagoshima prefecture officials left here by special steamers for Kuchinoerabu to begin a survey and render needed aid. No reports of fatalities were received.

Ulster Forbids Graveyard Meetings for Dead of 1916

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 4.—(AP)—The Ulster government today prohibited the holding of meetings next Sunday in Milltown cemetery, Belfast; Brandywell cemetery, Derry, and in graveyards at Newry, Dungannon, and other centers. The purpose of the graveyard meetings was to honor the memory of those buried there who fell during the Easter week rising in 1916 or in the fighting of 1920 to 1922.

PURPLE PARROT SUPPRESSED BY N. U. AUTHORITIES

The publications committee of Northwestern university announced yesterday that the April number of the Purple Parrot, the university's magazine of humor, had been suppressed. It was scheduled to appear on April 10 and the committee action was taken before any copies had been printed in final form.

The April magazine was to have been subtitled "Religious Number." The brief statement of the committee read: "Because of the nature of the contents of the proposed theological number of the Purple Parrot the board has decided that its publication as a university periodical is inadvisable."

Irving Bregor, editor of the magazine, resigned, and the May and June issues will be in charge of Richard Oldberg.

GERMAN 'STORM TROOPERS' MASS TO FIGHT HITLER

Fascist Rebels Mount Guard in Berlin Home.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 3.—Berlin's Fascist "storm troopers" mounted guard tonight in an elegant house in an aristocratic street of the capital. The residence has been turned into a regular "army" camp by Capt. Walter Stennes and his faithful followers who are determined to throw off the yoke of Adolf Hitler.

As in a bivouac, groups of 20 to 30 men stood around a single candle awaiting orders at the improvised Stennes headquarters where hundreds of "brown shirts" took an oath to "carry on a real Fascist party," which they allege has been betrayed by Hitler.

"We are not splitting from the Fascist party," the stalwart "storm troopers'" chief announced. "We are the original National Socialists, whom Hitler has forsaken. Paul Goebbels today was kicked out of the Berlin leadership by us.

Claim "Revolt" Spreading.

"In handbills, which are being issued tonight, we are appealing to the Berlin Fascisti to disregard Goebbels and to obey Ernst Wetzel, a member of the city council, whom we have appointed the leader in north Germany. The telegrams we have received convince us that the 'storm troops' throughout Germany are with us and not with the traitor to Fascism—Hitler."

The word "traitor" also plays a prominent part in the proclamation issued today by Herr Hitler. He charges that friends of Capt. Stennes, whom he expelled as generalissimo of the "storm troops," plotted to violate the government's emergency dictatorship edict.

Demands Oath of Fealty.

"I promised to respect the law of the country, and I will not let this former police captain, Stennes, make a perjurer out of me," said Hitler, who only last October coined the phrase, "heads must roll in the dust," before the German Supreme court.

Capt. Stennes tonight denied the charge, asserting that he only protested against the extravagance of the Munich leaders in wasting the money, which had been collected by the hard working Fascisti.

Hitler today also issued an ultimatum that all "storm troopers" in Germany must send a written oath of allegiance to him personally before April 12, threatening to expel them if they fail to obey.

Mexico Plans Drastic Law to Curb Organized Labor

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—In a third attempt to settle the tangled labor situation in Mexico a special session of congress has been called for April 30 at which time a bill recently constructed by Aaron Saenz, secretary of industry and commerce, will be discussed.

Wide publicity has been given the proposed law and labor unions and industrial organizations have been invited to submit their observations on it before April 20 in order to facilitate the debate. Hopes are held that this session of congress will settle Mexico's long standing labor problem, and clear the field for a revival of industry.

Rubio Supports Bill.

The bill has received the approbation of President Ortiz Rubio, members of his cabinet and the chief leaders of the national revolutionary party, and reflects strongly on the period of reconstruction on which Mexico has entered.

It attempts to reach a balance between the employer and the laborer, and to cut from under organized labor the power to terrorize over employers and capitalists of nonunion laborers and nonconforming rival syndicates.

The object of the law is to force a reorganization of labor along lines favoring the development of agriculture and industries and to encourage the investment of capital in Mexico. If the bill becomes law, and it is predicted it will, it will clip the wings of labor leaders and make the rule of another labor dictator like Luis Morones, who was the minister of industry, commerce and labor in the cabinet of former President Plutaro Calles and organizer of labor under the Obregon régime, impossible.

It is the hardest jolt organized labor has received, for in this bill provision is made that nonunion laborers may not only work in unionized establishments, but also may enjoy the privileges granted the union in whatever contract the latter may have with its employer.

It is made a penal offense for labor leaders to attempt to force unwilling laborers to unionize. Another provision which lends itself to fighting arbitrary unionism is that an employer shall deal directly with a union having the largest number of members of the several unions existing in his establishment.

It makes possible the building up of a rival union to fight an arbitrary one, thus breaking the solidity of labor, such as existed under Morone's dictatorship, when an employer had no recourse but to submit his demand to the union no matter how arbitrary and unjust it was.

Tends for Mutual Benefits.

Two years ago a labor bill was presented in congress by President Emilio Portes Gil. The bill was intended to strengthen organized labor, but the present bill takes the stand that labor and the employers of labor exist for mutual benefit and have mutual obligations.

Members of a union may withdraw from their union and still retain employment. The causes for justifying strikes have been reduced to a minimum and sabotage and force has been made illegal. Officials of a company and persons in the confidence of a manager, or a director, are expressly exempt from belonging to a union.

Only in case where an employer signs a collective contract with a union can a union prevent the employment of nonunion men.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary sentimentally into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she intends, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judith, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim De Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive Hilary the next day to visit Judith.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

A LITTLE REMINDER.

Hilary, reading John's letter over and over, felt all her fears dispersing. He might have known that he had not selfishly shelved the question of Judith, whether for her sake or his own, and she was curious to know how the masterly Gertrude had further enraged him. Poor darling! Hilary could guess what a relief it would be to him to make a stand at last and be free.

From her own greater knowledge she saw, too, that it would be simpler than he supposed. The little girl, according to Prudence, had always longed to go to school, so that it would be no hardship to uproot her again with that in view.

The reference to the schools did puzzle her, however. He had no thought, apparently, of bringing Judith to Greenwood, or had that doubt of English schools been implanted in him by Gertrude? Hilary recalled her own school days, and the five hundred girls, who had shared their ups and downs, wondering whether they had had to be vouched for by church and state before admission.

Going into her sister's room, she asked:

"Christie, were there any girls at St. Beth's with you whose families had pasts?"

"Thousands," said Christine, cheerfully. "My own roommate the last year had a father and stepfather who came to see her regularly. Jolly intriguing."

"Thousands," said Christine cheerfully.

"Were there any whose parents hadn't married at all?"

"Hundreds for all I know. Never asked 'em. Must have been, though, that sort of thing is so common."

Hilary laughed and went back to her letter. Christine's information was too wholesale to be reliable. She was afraid. Finally she wrote a note to her old head mistress.

"Dear Miss Howarth: Though you have been rid of me for twelve years, I hope I am not entirely forgotten, for I want to ask you to settle an argument. I have been so long away from England that I seem to be altogether behind the times.

"This is the problem. If you had a well behaved, carefully brought up girl from a decent home in the school, and some busybody came and told you her father and late mother had neglected the marriage service, would you send her away?

"Your affectionate old pupil,

"HILARY REVEL."

To this Miss Howarth in due course replied:

"My dear Hilary: Of course I have not forgotten you, though, if the conclusion to your letter means anything, you might have had the grace to come and ask your conundrum in person.

"Had I such a girl as you describe in the school, I am inclined to think nothing but force would induce me to part with her, well behaved and carefully brought up children being distressingly rare. Circumstances alter cases, of course. If it came to my ears that a girl's parents were living an evil life or flagrantly defying the laws of society, I might be forced to remove her for the sake of the majority. This, I gather, since you speak of a decent home, using the word presumably in its literal and not colloquial sense, hardly affects your question.

"On reflection, therefore, my answer is emphatically in the negative.

"Believe me, dear Hilary,

"Affectionately yours,

"MARY HOWARTH."

Mrs. Livingstone, meanwhile, had not remained silent on the subject of her "ward."

John's threats, though she considered them in the worst possible taste, could not be taken seriously. But he was evidently in a bad humor and must be treated with tact.

She knew nothing of this trip to the north, and though deeply hurt by his ingratitude and ungentlemanly behavior to her, she sat down the morning after her visit and wrote him a forgiving little note.

"Dear John: Though I must confess to having been a little hurt by your reception of me yesterday afternoon, I realize that you have a great many things on your mind at present, and can excuse your loss of temper. There is no occasion whatever for you to feel anxiety about Judith. She is in excellent hands, and having a delightful holiday with her old nurse, who will take every care of her.

"It would be a thousand pities if your hasty interpretation of some careless word of mine really disturbed you at a moment when you are embarking upon a new life, full of the promise of happiness and fulfilment. Hilary is keen to know that she may give you your heart's desire is the sincere wish of "Your devoted sister,

"GERTRUDE."

When two days had passed without bringing any reply to this letter, Mrs. Livingstone was really vexed with her brother. His conduct was most peculiar.

Her conscience, of course, was clear, but perhaps she saw no harm in making it a little clearer. Servants, she reflected, even the best of them, were unreliable . . . lack of education . . . and therefore likely to misinterpret one's orders if not carefully overlooked. The check for Judith's board would be due in a day or two. Just as well, perhaps, to send the good woman a little reminder.

"Tracy," she wrote, "I inclose Miss Judith's board which is falling due, and imagine, since I have heard nothing to the contrary, that she is well and enjoying her happy time with you and the various little tasks you are undertaking her.

"Do not let her run wild too much and spoil her clothes. I like her always to be neat, and I know what children are. It would not do for any chance visitor to find her looking untidy. Not that I anticipate any such calamity, but one should always be prepared.

"If any visitors should find their way to the farm to see Miss Judith, you will of course inform me, so that I may thank them.

"Yours faithfully,

"GERTRUDE LIVINGSTONE."

If Tracy had little doubt of the meaning of this letter, Gertrude had serious doubts of her reply.

"Dear Madam, yours and check received and obliged. I will carry out your requirements as far as one pair of hands can do it.

"Begging your pardon for the question, would the visitor you are expecting be the young lady which I read is to marry Mr. John Falconer? If not, you'll excuse a poor woman as loved her as her own, madam, there's no one in this world with the heart of gold of my darling Miss Sylvia, but that I don't wish Mr. Falconer well, I'm sure.

"Yours respectfully,

"MAUD TRACY."

Mrs. Livingstone did not altogether like this letter. It sounded . . . one would almost think . . . but no; Sylvia might have been a sentimental little thing but never such a fool as that.

Good morning!

The hero is your boy and my boy. (Only I haven't one.) He is a lovable, exasperating, dog adoring, soap shy, ingenious, pugnacious, warm hearted youngster who inspires your chuckles and draws forth your tears. In one episode the heartbreak of an inconsolable little fellow is almost more than you can bear. Here is REAL GRIEF! You wonder what on earth they ever did to make the child suffer as you'd swear he does! Did he, perhaps, have a dog that REALLY died while the picture was in the making?

"Skippy" is bound to delight the world. It's a child's picture that grownups will be crazy about. The cast is principally composed of clever youngsters. There are, of course, some adults to make life difficult.

Jackie Cooper gives a marvelous impersonation of "Skippy." Coogan was great, but, harking back to the episode mentioned above, I believe that Cooper is greater. Mitzi Green and Jackie Searle do some laudable acting and Robert Coogan (Jackie's brother) has his moments. But his heart isn't in his work, and it takes no clairvoyant to predict that he'll never be the meal ticket his big brother was—and is.

The older players perform their duties ably. Dialogue clicks and the small town atmosphere is admirably maintained. Direction is sympathetic and intuitive. Mr. Taurog knows kids.

With all my heart I say, "See Skippy!".

Yankee and Canadian Rail Officials Meet in '33 Fair Building

Representatives of forty-two American and Canadian railroads were feted in the new administration building of the Century of Progress fair yesterday. They were told by Harvey J. Sconce, agricultural chief of Chicago's World's Fair, that the development of the middle west as the leading farming area of the world, would be depicted in detail at the 1933 exposition, with the assistance of state colleges, railroads, and leading agricultural scientists of the world.

"An accurate accounting of the progress of civilization in the last century can most effectively be portrayed in the display of the development of transportation," declared Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition. "With the basic importance of production methods in the heart of such an agricultural area as this, farming must be fittingly represented. Our plans contemplate just this."

Sconce announced that one of the newest developments in production of raw materials to be staged in detail will be that of Thomas A. Edison in making rubber from goldenrod. He has just returned from Florida, where Edison signed a contract to exhibit his process, with Henry Ford as a witness.

Florence Easton Sails as She's Supposed to Be in Hospital

New York, April 3.—(AP)—It was just the loveliest misunderstanding from beginning to end, Florence Easton, former Metropolitan opera company soprano, said tonight as she sailed away to Europe on the liner Olympic.

Miss Easton had been receiving telephone calls, telegrams, and special delivery letters all day from sympathetic friends because a hospital had permitted reports to be given the Associated Press and newspapers that she had undergone an appendicitis operation last night.

She explained that just about that time she and a friend, Miss Betty Martin, were trying to make up their minds to sail today.

It was another Miss Easton who had the operation, the radio and concert singer explained, and who, she added, probably was too ill to appreciate the dozens of bouquets sent to the hospital for her.

CLOSEUP

Today we have another movie theater with us. Its name is the Nortown, and it belongs to Messrs. Balaban and Katz. You will find it at Western and Devon avenues. The feature picture chosen for the premiere is "Stolen Heaven," with Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes. The Nortown opens at 1:30 p. m.

Michelson, Ill, Directs Tests of Light Speed

His Body Rests, but Mind Keeps Busy.

Pasadena, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—A frail little man of indomitable will, in the sunset of his life, is directing from his sickbed here one of the most fascinating and exacting experiments in science.

He is clocking the fastest thing known, the velocity of light.

The searching black eyes of Dr. Albert A. Michelson twinkle as he discusses from his bed with his research workers at least once a week the progress of what he calls his "last great experiment."

Meanwhile two physicians are vigilantly striving to build up the slow circulation and the weakened heart of the 79 year old scientist.

"He must stay in bed a month at least," says Mrs. Michelson, "but he is cheerful and is feeling better each day."

He went to his bed shortly after Albert Einstein left Pasadena, having been active in the rounds of dinners and research work of the noted German scientist whose theory of relativity grew out of Michelson's work and who acclaimed Michelson as the greatest living physicist.

Michaelson's colleagues say if ever interplanetary communication is established with Mars it will be based upon Michelson's discovery of light waves.

He was past 70 years when, operating revolving mirrors on Mount Wilson and Mount San Antonio, near here, 22 miles apart, he measured the velocity of light at 299,860 kilometers a second. That is 186,213 miles a second. His previous experimental measures and the generally accepted figure has been 186,173 miles a second.

The Mount Wilson figure is near precision, but not precise enough to satisfy the physicist. He says there may have been systematic errors due to the calculation of atmospheric effects, and the possibility that earth movements shifted a fraction of an inch the two mountains and thus affected the geodetic survey measurements.

At least six methods of measurements, with mirrors rotating at various speeds, and a score or more tests with each, are necessary to satisfy him.

These have been going on for more than a month, and at least another month will be required.

Wreaths Fall from Plane as Ashes of Lillian Leitzel Arrive

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—The ashes of Lillian Leitzel were brought home today on their way to their final resting place in California. There the circus queen had hoped to end her days with her mother after she retired from work on the aerial trapezes.

By a coincidence the Mauretania steamed up the bay with the ashes of the performer this morning only a few hours before the circus that she loved was scheduled to open in Madison Square Garden.

The circus people, however, had not forgotten her. As the ship lay at anchor at quarantine Fred Benham, acting for Lillian's late colleagues of the Circus Saints and Sinners' association, hovered overhead in an airplane and dropped three wreaths.

One of them landed upon the deck of the ship and two others fell into the water. But they were quickly retrieved by sailors.

Miss Leitzel, wife of another trapeze performer, Alfredo Codona, died in Copenhagen on Feb. 13 after a fall of 50 feet due to the breaking of an iron ring used to secure the rigging she used.

G. A. R. Fete Tonight to Recall Founding Sixty-six Years Ago

The Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War of Cook county will recall this evening at the Hotel Sherman the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic, on April 6, 1866, at Decatur, Ill. Three hundred guests are expected at this sixty-fifth anniversary. Commander A. C. Best of Princeton, Ill., of the Grand Army of the Republic, Mrs. Ethel M. Ehrhardt of Peoria, department president of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War; Commander Morton G. Slocum of Chicago, department commander of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, and others will be the guests of honor. William T. Church will be the principal speaker.

Cinema Art Theater Asks Scouts to Show April 4

The Chicago Boy Scouts will be guests of the Cinema Art theater on next Saturday, April 11, to view the photoplay "Jungle Hazard," it was announced yesterday by the educational department of the Chicago council of Boy Scouts. The play deals with the African Congo, visited by Dr. Daniel Davenport and two fellow physicians who went there to study sleeping sickness. Dr. Davenport's companions, Dr. Louis Newman and Dr. Jacques Maus, did not live to return. Dr. Davenport will speak during the picture, telling his experiences. Any Chicago Scout in good standing will be admitted on the presentation of his registration card.

Lent Day by Day

THE CROSS.

By the Rev. Fr. L. C. Diether
[Order of the Carmelites.]
[Pastor St. Clara's church.]

At one time the symbol of ignominy and shame, the cross has now become the glorious emblem of victory. By it the empire of Satan was overthrown, the world redeemed, and heaven re-opened.

It is the standard under which we march—soldiers of our crucified Savior, the banner to which as Christians we have sworn allegiance and which must never be lowered in capitulation or defeat.

Christ's crimson cross on Calvary proclaims loudly to the world the love of Him who hung upon it. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." To this high standard the Master has measured up! And in like manner is the cross, patiently borne by us, the best proof of our love for God.

By that blessed sign God ever marks His own. Christ shares His cross only with His friends. Nothing is so well able to ennoble, to purify, and to beautify the soul as suffering—the cross—will do. Michelangelo said to the bystanders when a marble block was brought to his studio, "There is an angel within that block and I intend to deliver him," meaning that with his chisel he would fashion that block into the statue of an angel. So the Master Artist with the sharp chisel of pain brings out the image of God inherent in every soul.

This is the solution of the mystery of pain. No other way than of Calvary can lead man to the glories of a spiritual resurrection; our Good Friday, too, is followed by a bright and happy Easter Sunday.

"In this sign shalt thou conquer" is true for us as it was for Constantine, who saw over a luminous cross in the sky this inscription and won his victory at the Milvian bridge after tearing the Roman eagle from his standard and placing upon it the cross of Christ.

Black Horse Troop Drills Before Crowd at the Riding Club

The Chicago Black Horse troop and mounted band of the Thirty-third division performed last night in the Chicago Riding club, 230 East Ontario street, before more than 2,500 persons, including several hundred cadets from the R. O. T. C. units in Chicago high schools.

One of the most difficult feats of the evening consisted of acrobatics on galloping horses. The troop also rode through arcs of fire, participated in jumping contests and in the manual of the saber. A full dress review before Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, was a part of the program.

The troop was commanded by Capt. Chauncey McCormick.

Portrait by Titian Sold at $20,500 in New York

New York, April 3.—(AP)—The three-quarter length portait of Archbishop Querini by Titian brought $20,500 last night in a sale of 90 paintings from the collection of the Erlich galleries. J. W. Ashley purchased the painting as agent for a private collector. A portrait of Ralph Leicester, Esq., by Thomas Gainsborough was purchased by the Ferargil galleries for $6,500. The Titian canvas came from the collection of the late Friedrich August von Kaulbach of Munich.

Members of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity are having a dinner at the Blackstone at 7 o'clock this evening, and are afterwards to attend the performance of "Stepping Sisters." The dinner is a stag affair, but the men will have women guests for the play.

Crowds Reach Washington for Close of Lent

Foreign Cities Observe Old Rituals.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The annual Easter pilgrimage to Washington reached flood tide proportions today. By tomorrow night 120,000 visitors are expected to be in the capital.

They are coming by rail, auto, and air. Foreign license tags are seen on many cars. They continue to arrive despite the disappointing fact that the Japanese cherry trees, one of the major attractions, have been unkind enough to insist on warmer weather and are not expected to bloom for another week.

For days the trees have been under constant and wishful surveillance, but they have refused to be hurried.

Charles Hemlock, former White House gardener, examined them yesterday and pronounced a final verdict in agreement with the opinions of department of agriculture officials and experts of the office of public buildings and parks. "No blossoms for at least a week, Mr. Hemlock declared.

The observance of Easter day will open with a service at 7:30 o'clock Easter morning in the amphitheater at Arlington National cemetery. President Hoover, members of his cabinet, and other officials will be in attendance.

It will be the first time that religious services have been held in the amphitheater. The services will be conducted by the grand commandery of the Knights Templar in the District of Columbia.

Following the Arlington services the President and Mrs. Hoover will attend the services of the President's own church, the Society of Friends, and then with their three small grandchildren will take part in Easter festivities at the White House.

On orders from the President the south grounds of the White House were thrown open to the public from noon until 1:30 o'clock today, and they will be opened for the hour and a half each day during the Easter season. It was an innovation in White House ritual which reserves the south grounds for the use of the President, his family, and guests.

The President and Mrs. Hoover waved a greeting today to about 300 persons, the first to take advantage of the new ruling.

All Quiet in Britain; Business Waiting Until Tuesday.

LONDON, April 3.—London and all Britain was in a state of suspended animation today.

Good Friday is observed here in a complete cessation of business activities and the holding of long and impressive ceremonies in all churches.

There will be practically no business transacted on these islands until next Tuesday except what is absolutely essential. Next Monday, Easter Monday, is a legal holiday, and about the only shops which will be open for a short time Saturday are those which supply provisions in residential areas. No morning or afternoon papers were printed today.

Bells of Malines to Ring Out Story of Service.

MALINES, Belgium, April 3.—(AP)—At Sunday's Easter service the silver music of the bells of Malines floating across town and miles of flat surrounding country will sing a song of half a century's beloved slavery.

Fifty years ago today Adolphus Denyn, official bellmaster of Malines for 30 years, suddenly went blind. It was inconceivable that an Easter Sunday should pass in this cradle of carillon playing without music from the chimes, but there was no one in Malines considered worthy of taking the blind master's place.

But Jeff Denyn, the blind man's son, was studying engineering at the university and the youth had been instructed by his father in the mysteries of the belfry bells. He was summoned and he answered the call. Now he is called the master bellmaster and has trained al lthe great carilloneurs.

Old Rites Mark Day in Seaport of Trapani.

TRAPANI, Italy, April 3.—(AP)—This picturesque seaport town of western Sicily celebrated Good Friday with a ceremony that dates from the sixteenth century, the "Procession of the Mysteries."

The ceremony began with the mass of the pre-sanctified in the Church of San Michele. The mass over, representatives of the various guilds took from niches, wherein they rest from one end of the year to the other, twenty life sized wooden statues of the principal characters in the tragedy of the death of Christ.

Physical Ailment May Cause Those Eye Wrinkles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's a funny thing about wrinkles around the eyes and the company you sometimes find them in. I've seen youngsters with them, deep ones—but only on undernourished children or children whose sleep allotment is not normal. With the youngsters, however, it is only a symptom of constitutional ills and is quickly cleared up with general body building.

Then, you'll see them on girls in the late teens and early twenties and this is explained again by constitutional disorder, undernourishment, and lack of sleep, or in an exceptional instance it was due to dissipation of one kind or another. These lines look fairly deeply imbedded while they last, but sleep and a reformed diet and general body building will remove them presently.

There are eye wrinkles that come along about the thirties. They are not especially deep and are really lines rather than wrinkles. Then, toward middle life, the lines become more and more deeply imbedded. The thought occurred to me the other day that you don't see many of the very wrinkled faces common to preceding generations of old women. Of course, that may be explained by the fact that we don't have any old women, or old ladies, any more. And for the last fifteen or twenty years women have trained themselves to the daily use of skin emollients that substitute, in a measure, for the natural oil drained skin.

If there is anything one sees more of than another in wrinkle defects today it is those exaggerated eye ones that have as companion, so often, dark circles and pouches [spare tires they call them]. Now, before expecting too much of cosmetics for this condition, constitutional investigation has to be made. The common association is with kidney trouble, but it may be other things, too, which only a medical man can prescribe for.

And among other things, the patient will be advised about the proper amount of rest, her diet, exercise, and fresh air. Then, the oculist should be visited, too. He often discovers that eyestrain is working terrific havoc in the entire eye neighborhood. With eye trouble and internal complications cleared up, the cosmetic aids may be looked to for local help.

R. S. Wrights Plan Return from Paris

BY THALIA

THE young Redmond Stephens Wrights, who have been living in Paris since shortly after their marriage two years ago, are coming over to this country for the summer, bringing their infant daughter, Glee Louise the second, with them. Mrs. Wright's father, Lawrence M. Viles, expects them to arrive the latter part of May, approximately the 30th.

They will come to Chicago first for a visit with Mr. Viles. In July, Mr. Wright plans a trip west to do some etching, while Mrs. Wright will go east for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Albert Smith of Long Island. Mr. Wright's mother, Mrs. William Van Doren Wright, and his sisters, Brier and Marion, are to remain in Europe until the fall.

Jane Pearce, Stuart Sherman Will Be Married Today.

The marriage of Miss Jane Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Pearce, to Stuart Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius B. Sherman of Winnetka, will be solemnized at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents at 209 Lake Shore drive. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Insignia for participation in winter sports were awarded at Princeton on April 1. Chicago boys who won letters and such were Richard Juergens, who received a 6 inch P for being manager of the hockey team; Ralph Poole Jr., who got 3 inch 1934 numerals for freshman hockey; Peter Fortune, who was awarded an APA for junior varsity basketball; and Webster Ball II of Winnetka, who was entitled to a 4 inch P for varsity wrestling.

Noble B. Judahs Among Those Returning from Trips.

Goings and comings: Col. and Mrs. Noble Brandon Judah will arrive home on Sunday from New York, where they landed on Tuesday on the Olympic. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Dickinson with her two daughters, Alice and Dorothy, will be back on Tuesday from a stay at the Pine Crest inn at Tryon, N. C. Mr. Dickinson will remain in the south until April 10. . . . The Misses Mary and Clara Cudahy of New York are visiting the Edward I. Cudahys at Hot Springs. . . . Melvin Brorby, who was expected to return on Sunday from Tryon, N. C., will not be back until the middle of next week. . . . The Albert B. Deweys of Washington, who have been at the Breakers at Palm Beach since January, have arrived at the Grove Park inn at Asheville, N. C., for a month's stay. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beacom [Margaret Pirie Withers] were to sail last night on the S. S. American Legion for a honeymoon in Bermuda. . . . The Arthur Meekers have returned from Santa Barbara, and Mr. Harry Lee Williams has returned from his annual winter stay in Phoenix. . . . Mrs. George W. Dulany is back from Florida, is hard at work "sculping" in her studio, and has also embarked on the private manufacture of modernistic plates, lovely things in gold and silver.

Society Women to Usher at Benefit for Bryn Mawr.

Ushers for the Bryn Mawr benefit theater party at the Blackstone next Monday night are Mary Elizabeth Johnston, Mrs. Francis Straus, Mrs. Cyrus Mark, Mrs. Stuart Snissen, Mrs. Evans Spaulding, Mrs. C. C. Haffner, Miss Margaret Gregson, Mrs. Lyell Ritchie, Bertha Alling, Ruth Crossett, and Mrs. Robert Hobart. I think that Mrs. Anson Cameron, chairman for the benefit, still has a few tickets for the play, which is Frank Craven in "That's Gratitude."

Apart the post-Easter affairs—Prince "Nick" Galitzine is in charge of the floor committee for the Lower North Community council benefit at the Bentley gallery on the 17th, and they're to have the same orchestra for the dancing as played at Bertha Palmer's coming out ball . . . A committee of lieutenant commanders has been appointed by Capt. Evers to be floor committee for the naval dance next Friday night at the Naval Reserve armory . . . The senior and junior boards of the Evanston center of the Infant Welfare have invited their subscribers to an open meeting and tea at the residence of Mrs. Henry M. Dawes at 101 Greenleaf avenue on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Philip D. Armour is to speak, and Mrs. Gilbert Smith and Mrs. Dennis Gent are to give a program of songs and duets. . . .

ELINOR DRANE KRYSS.

Mrs. Charles Lewis Drane of 25 East Walton place announces the engagement of her daughter, Elinor Drane Kryss, to Malcolm Bemis Conant of the Ambassador hotel. Mrs. Alvin C. McCord of 191 East Walton place will be hostess at a tea for Mrs. Kryss and her fiancé on April 18.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have had as guests Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson and their daughter and son, Miss Katharine and John Q. Jr. They came by motor from the southwest yesterday and left for their home in Connecticut today. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Doubleday of Glen Cove, L. I., also were overnight guests at the White House and went home today.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the interior, has sent out cards for tea Thursday afternoon, April 9, at the Mayflower.

Chicagoans Sailing.

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Forgan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forman, and Frederick F. Webster, all of Chicago, were passengers on board the White Star liner sailing for Europe tonight.

Chicagoans on board the Conte Biancamano of the Lloyd Sabaudo line leaving about the same time included Mrs. Florence Calmer, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Cattell, Mrs. Warren M. Crosby, Miss Caroline Crosby, Louis E. Dismond, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Donald Maxwell, Mrs. Peter A. Newton, and Miss Jane Newton.

Bach's Music, Stock's Version, Delights Critic

BY EDWARD MOORE.

PROBABLY Dr. Stock will not admit it, in fact, the chances are that he will say very little about it, but he is directly responsible for the finest thing on yesterday's program of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. It was the first performance on any stage of his orchestral transcription of the Bach Prelude and Fugue in E flat, otherwise and perenthetically known as "St. Anne's."

There are transcriptions and transcriptions. In the case of a good one, the transcribed must have a thorough knowledge of two things—the medium into which it is going and the original from which it came. And it is difficult to say which is the more important.

Luckily for us here in Chicago, Dr. Stock is an adept in both. He knows the modern orchestra with a completeness shared by few in the world today. Just at present the only names I can think of to be bracketed with his are Ravel and Respighi. And he has just as intimate a knowledge of Bach, what he was trying to express, how his expression was directed and adapted by the musical instruments of his time.

For Bach in his music is an entirely human, warm blooded sort of person. At the same time anything like flashiness or sentimentality is entirely foreign to him. The person who translates this music into terms of flashiness simply does not know his Bach.

So the problem confronting Dr. Stock was to take a composition of this sort, written for the organ—more particularly the grave toned organ of two centuries ago—and give it to the modern orchestra, where everything is inclined in the direction of brilliancy, to preserve its dignity, to keep it from getting into long-faced solemnity, to express its humanity, and to make it likeable.

A large sized order, but, as our best people are fond of saying, Dr. Stock knows his stuff. What came from the stage of Orchestra hall yesterday was something that the finest organ in the world would like to do if it were only fine enough, plus the added elasticity and extra color of the orchestra. It was sonorous, climactic, brilliant, it moved from gentle melody to thunders of piled up tone, and it never for an instant lost its basic dignity. All of which seems like something of an achievement.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This darling dress is one of the newest designs and is suitable for immediate wear. The short sleeves and cowl neckline, the narrow tie belt of ribbon, and the circular skirt that is gored at the front are all important details. For resort wear flowered chiffon, eyelet embroidered batiste, or silk crêpe will be lovely, and for more general wear choose one of the darker printed silk crêpes.

The pattern, 3040, comes in sizes 14 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material and 3½ yards of ribbon.

Your Child's Choice May Involve White Collar or Overalls

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How many people do you know who enjoy their work? and how many do you know who hate it?

And how many who, perhaps, do neither, but who go through their jobs with little zest, who suspend interested living while their working day lasts, and who really live vitally and enjoy themselves only in their leisure?

Too much can hardly be said on the subject we were talking about yesterday—that of letting children find out what they want to do as a job or profession—and then doing it. And too much can hardly be said against railroading a son or daughter into something because you would like him or her to do it to gratify your own ambition, or to follow a family custom.

One thing among others that often makes parents stand in the way of their children's choice of work is a silly, superficial pride. If what their son wants to do means donning a pair of greasy overalls instead of a white collar—if it involves hard physcial labor and outdoors and contentment instead of mental work and an office and discontent—let him do it.

And if it helps you any, remember that all "white collar jobs" don't mean advancement, and that often oreyall jobs do. As an instance, Willys of the Willys-Knight firm kept a small bicycle repair shop in Elmira some twenty years ago. See what he has accomplished. Not that money, success, or fame count so heavily. It's the satisfaction of doing each day for years the thing you can do and like to do that helps make life worth living. If big success, in the ordinary sense of the word, comes along, too, well and good.

It might be mentioned in closing that a wholesome thing to bear in mind is the fact that, even given opportunities, all young people do not find out early what they are best fitted for. Some know at 15 while some have not found their niche or profession at 25 or 35. We read constantly of instances of the latter. But we, as parents, shall have done our part if we've given them their chance.

Food Talk.

G. S. requests a recipe for molded fish. She wishes to serve the fish cold. L. K. wants a recipe for molded fish, but wants it hot. Both want ideas for an accompaniment. The mold that is good served cold is molded in aspic. Any flavored flaky fish may be used. An aspic for fish should be made of white meat stock [broth], as was discussed yesterday. Its seasoning should harmonize with the flavor of the fish. Vinegar or lemon juice gives the aspic the desirable acidity. The preparation of the fish for the aspic usually consists of pounding it to a paste or separating it into tiny flakes. This fish is then mixed with part or all of the melted aspic. When all the aspic is added an occasional stirring before gelation begins is necessary to keep the fish from settling. When the mixture begins to set, it is poured into the mold. This is a quick and easy way to make a fish mold, but it is not the most attractive.

A fish mold served hot is prepared much like a fish loaf in that it contains cream, white sauce, and egg whites or the whole egg, and sometimes bread crumbs to give body. It is baked or steamed in a mold. Often a fish shaped mold is used for this. This mold is served as the main meat course for either dinner or luncheon with a thin white sauce made of a combination of fish stock and milk or any other good fish sauce.

MOLDED FISH PUDDING.

1 pound raw fish	2 egg whites
1 tsp. salt	1½ cups hot fish sauce
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup cream

Use a white fish. Halibut is excellent. Clear the fish of any bone or skin, then put through the food chopper. Next pound into a paste. Add salt, pepper, and cream, and mix until smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and turn carefully into a greased mold. Steam 30 minutes, or bake. In the latter case set the mold into a pan containing hot water to a depth of an inch. Bake 15 minutes in a medium oven [350 degrees F.]. Unmold and serve hot with sauce.

Yield, four servings.

FISH MOLDED IN ASPIC.

1 cup cooked, flaked fish	sauce
1 hard cooked egg yolk	2 cups aspic
2 tbsp. cream	2 tsp. lemon juice
2 small anchovies, boned	Salt
1-3 tsp. peppery table	Pepper
	Paprika
	Nutmeg

Pound the fish to a paste with all the ingredients except the aspic. The amount of the last four ingredients will depend upon the previous seasoning of the fish, then add one cup of aspic to the fish, mix well, put through a coarse sieve and set over hot water to keep warm. Dip your mold in cold water, cover evenly with a coating of aspic, then put in aspic to a depth of ¼ inch. Set in a cold place for the gelatin to congeal. Add ½ inch layer of fish mixture. When this sets, add more aspic, and continue in this way until the mold is full, allowing each layer to stiffen before adding the next. Let stand until thoroughly congealed before serving, and do not put on to the serving plate until a few minutes before serving time. Keep cold until ready to serve. Garnish. Yield: 5 servings.

Diamond Not Vital, Marrieds Tell Engaged Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

On the question about whether an engagement is only half an engagement without a solitaire, which we expounded upon recently in this column, here is a little first hand testimony that should assuage the fears of those exacting young ladies who must have a diamond or the engagement is all off.

"When I was engaged, thirteen years ago," writes Mrs. C. W., "I was criticized because I had not received a diamond. Folks almost convinced me that my husband-to-be was a stingy one. But I had my doubts. And when I was married nine years my husband gave me the long awaited solitaire. It's gorgeous and so much more appreciated because it came after our love had stood a nine year test.

"I never was one who liked the idea of going into debt for things. Nor does my husband. Consequently I appreciated his state of mind when he said during our engagement period that he could not afford a diamond. It's silly, isn't it, for young men to get themselves into debt to furnish a diamond ring before marriage when you think of the significance of a nice big sparkler given after marriage?

"Certainly, my advice to girls would be not to let any influence of their own or other's making, persuade them into the belief that they are being cheated. It's more fun getting it as a reward than if you get it merely to seal a pact."

And another married woman, whose ten years of happy marriage still find her third finger left adorned only with the "make believe" solitaire, offers the testimony that you can't judge a man by the diamond he gives; nor, she adds, can you make any prophecy about the future from the sort of ring your engagement is crowned with.

The three "young huskies," as Mrs. B. Calls her brood, sparkle enough right now, for her happiness. And if it weren't for them, Mrs. B. suggests that her ever kind and ever generous darling would hang her in jewels. Instead, both are busy hanging the youngsters in shoes and stockings, suits, and schooling. And so, she reports, she hasn't much time or inclination to mourn the undiamonded finger.

And these two testimonials may quiet the trepidation "Blue Eyes," today's correspondent, feels over the what her sisters think.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Bud, 4, was playing with his sister and struck her. His mother asked him if he had, and he said, "No." She said, "You can go upstairs to bed for telling a lie. When he got up there he found his father resting on the bed and asked him, "Daddy, did you tell a lie, too?" U. J. W.

Spring Suits Unite Wool, Silk and Cotton

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—You are going to see many different materials combined this spring. That's one of the big departures in spring fashions. Cotton unites itself to silk and wool joins and makes a trio in many of the smartest spring suits now being shown in Paris.

An example of how this is going to be done is given in our sketch. This is a suit from Lyolene that recently met the public eye. The jacket is made of black and white checkerboard woolen, and it is a fitted Tuxedo type that doesn't entirely meet at the front closing. This failure actually to close is considered a chic habit in Paris coats and jackets this spring.

Under the jacket is a sleeveless fitted and flared vest-waist made of the new cross barred piqué in white. It is trimmed with slanting rows of rick-rack and buttons right up to the neck under eight pearl buttons. Lots of suit blouses this spring will be vests, really.

The skirt of this suit is made of heavy ribbed black crepe and it is flared at the two sides of the front by circular godets that are pressed into two knife plaits at the sides, where they are sewed to the skirt body.

The hat is made of dead white, rough paper straw, and it is trimmed with a draped sash of black patent leather.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturday) W-G-N will broadcast 2 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$1,000.00
2nd Prize		500.00
3rd Prize		250.00
Next 2 Prizes,	$100.00 each	200.00

Next 10 Prizes,	25.00 each	250.00
Next 100 Prizes,	10.00 each	1,000.00
Next 310 Prizes,	5.00 each	1,550.00
430 Prizes, Totaling		$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles, Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1715, Chicago, Illinois." All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Those with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may attach as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be consulted for the solutions at all Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of tie, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE NEXT TUNE TANGLE WILL APPEAR IN MONDAY'S TRIBUNE

INSTANT RELIEF FROM ITCHING

Followed use of Resinol

"For years I had a breaking out on the back of my hand. I tried various salves and ointments, and had several X-Ray treatments, but nothing seemed to heal the disorder. One night when my hand was itching unusually badly, my wife bought me a jar of Resinol Ointment which I used and obtained instant relief. I do not hesitate to recommend Resinol to anyone." (Signed)—

6 GRID HEROES TO BEAR ROCKNE TO GRAVE TODAY

Thousands Bow at Bier in Last Tribute.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

South Bend, Ind., April 3.—[Special.]—Thousands filed by the bronze casket of Knute K. Rockne in the family residence, 1417 East Wayne street, north, today to pay a last tribute to Notre Dame's great football coach. From early morning, when the body was brought to the home in a cold, drizzling rain, until far into the night throngs shuffled into the home to pause at the bier.

Plans were completed during the day for the funeral tomorrow. Six Notre Dame football players, including the entire back field of last year's championship team, will carry their coach to his grave in Highland cemetery. They are Tom Conley, end and captain of the 1930 team; Frank Carideo, all-American quarter back; Martin Brill and Marchmont Schwartz, half backs; Lawrence Mullins, full back; and Tom Yarr, center and captain elect for 1931.

Honorary Pallbearers.

Twelve members of Rockne's class of 1914 will form the guard of honor. Honorary pallbearers include coaches, players, and friends. The cortege is to leave the home at 2:30. At 3 o'clock the choir of Sacred Heart church, on the campus, is to start the service by singing "Improperia Populo Meus."

The body is to be met at the church door for preliminary blessing by the Rev. Michael Mulcaire, C. S. C., vice president of the university, as celebrant of the service. He will be assisted by the Rev. Ramond Murch, C. S. C., prefect of discipline, and the Rev. Thomas Steiner, C. S. C., dean of the college of engineering.

As the procession enters the church the choir is to chant "Miserere," and "Libvenite." Following prayers for the dead a sermon is to be delivered by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university. The body will be blessed and taken to the cemetery for final services. The entire service is expected to last more than three hours.

Admission by Card.

Admission to the church will be by card. The service at the grave will be public. All business houses are to close for the day. The church and the entrance of Notre Dame stadium have been draped with black and white.

Among those who visited the home today were Mayor James J. Walker of New York and Mayor Harry A. Mackay of Philadelphia, both friends of Rockne; scores of football coaches and hundreds of the school's players. A guard of members of the Monogram club of letter men maintained their vigil over the body.

Sir John De Villiers, Noted British Map Maker, Dies

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 3.—Sir John de Villiers, 67, noted among scholars for his researches of Dutch colonial history and for his work as mapmaker of the British museum, died today. Sir John was a descendant of a Huguenot family, which fled from France to South America by way of Holland. His mother was a Dutch Jewess. He was born in the east end of London and brought up in the Jewish faith. His skill as a research worker and mapmaker led the foreign office to use him in difficult boundary arbitrations.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Just a Misfit

ICE ON AIRPLANE BELIEVED CAUSE OF ROCKNE DEATH

Pilot in Air Near Ship Advances Theory.

Kansas City, Mo., April 3.—(AP)—An air mail pilot who flew through the murk over the flint hills of Kansas Tuesday side by side with the big red transport that carried Knute Rockne and seven others to death gave support today to the theory that ice forming on the wings of the Fokker monoplane may have caused the tragedy.

Paul E. Johnson, pilot for the National Air Transport, saw the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., liner maneuvering in an attempt to escape from the blinding clouds and mist a few minutes before it plunged to earth near Bazaar, Kas.

Ice was forming on Johnson's ship, weighting it down, and he said it must have been so with the other plane. Department of commerce inspectors have expressed the opinion that the plane may have been wrecked when a piece of ice shattered a propellor of the right outboard motor and caused vibration which tore away the right wing.

Overtakes Transport Plane.

Johnson, flying a slower plane and with a later start from Kansas City, overtook the Fokker west of Emporia, Kas. Johnson was alone, flying the air mail route to Oklahoma and Texas, via Wichita, Kas. The Fokker was bound for California with Wichita, its first scheduled stop.

For about three minutes, the two planes flew along together, gliding, climbing, and turning in an effort to find an opening through the clouds. Snow sprinkled about and it was turning colder.

The transport was about half a mile away. Johnson said at times the ships were as low as fifty feet from the ground and that the ceiling was only about 300 feet. Pilot Robert Fry apparently saw the mail plane, Johnson said, for when he turned and dodged, the Fokker followed suit.

Ice Burdens His Plane.

Johnson found ice burdening his plane, but it had been a case of picking up ice and losing it at intervals since his departure.

He decided it was too late to turn back for an emergency landing and to avoid the danger of striking the hilltops he climbed up through the murk. His last glimpse of the Fokker showed it wheeling about northward and Johnson believed Fry was heading for Emporia to attempt a landing.

Johnson reached an altitude of 1,500 feet with his motor opened wide. But the fast forming ice caused him to lose 300 feet of this precious height. For an hour the mail pilot flew blindly through the cloud banks. And then five miles from Wichita he emerged into sunshine.

C. A. Thoma, Long a City Employe, to Be Buried

Funeral services for Charles A. Thoma, 78 years old, for 27 years an inspector for the Chicago bureau of streets, will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the chapel at 3409 West Madison street. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Thoma had been a resident of Chicago since 1865. He and his wife observed their golden wedding anniversary six years ago. The widow and four children survive.

Funeral Services Today for Mrs. Mary Cowan

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ida Cowan, who died yesterday at her home in the Hayes hotel at 64th street and University avenue, will be held at 10 a. m. today in St. Clara's church, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue. Mrs. Cowan, who was 69 years old, is survived by her husband, H. D. Cowan, and one son. Burial will be at Chatham, Ont.

SEE $70,000 LOSS TO CITY IN LIGHT CONTRACT PLAN

Protesting the proposed award of a contract for the servicing and maintenance of approximately 5,000 curb traffic signals, the Citizens' association yesterday appealed to Michael Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity in Mayor Thompson's cabinet, to help in the saving of nearly $70,000 annually by advertising for new bids.

The association, in a letter to Kennedy, disclosed that the city was preparing to award the contract to a concern which demanded $3.74 a month for the maintenance of the finsh signals, although another responsible bidder had offered to do the same work for only $1.69, which would save the city $63,720 a year. This same concern had offered to install 600 new curb signals at $139 each, as compared with the offer of $148 from the other bidder, the association pointed out, a difference of $6,000.

The association said that the Welsbach Traffic Signal company, the higher bidder, had been paid $107,000 by the city during the last 17 months for repairs to signals it had installed.

Funeral services will be held today at the chapel at 2701 North Clark street for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Harris, 81 years old, who died on Wednesday in her apartment at the Park Lane hotel. The services will be private, and will be followed by burial at Rosehill cemetery. Mrs. Harris is survived by her husband, William L. Harris, to whom she had been married 60 years. Four daughters and a son also survive.

Widow Dies During Visit to Her Husband's Grave

A Good Friday visit to the grave of her first husband in St. Adalbert's cemetery in Niles ended fatally yesterday for Mrs. Josephine Banyay, 50 years old, of 1226 Dickson street. She was stricken with a heart attack as she stood at the grave, and died a few minutes later in the cemetery offices.

ALCOCK ASKS DATA ON POLICE FORCE FOR HOOVER CRIME BOARD

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, at the request of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, has ordered a survey of all active members of the Chicago police department to determine their nationality and the native land of their parents. Alcock said the law enforcement commission has undertaken a nation-wide survey to ascertain the percentages the national groups represented among policemen. The survey will determine the nativity of the policemen and their parents.

ENEMIES ACCEPT MACHADO'S BID TO TRUCE PARLEY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, April 3.—Opposition leaders today accepted the government's offer of conferences looking toward a truce and prepared to appoint an official representative for the negotiations. Clemente Vivancos, secretary of the interior, reiterated the government's desire to give amnesty to political prisoners, restore constitutional guarantees, and end military rule in exchange for peace.

Woman Takes Poison; Note Tells Story of Lost Love

Miss Nancy Buchan, 23 years old, 633 Deming place, was found unconscious last evening in a room at the Morrison hotel, where she had registered a few hours earlier. Beside her lay bottles that had held 150 grains of poison and on the dresser was a note stating: "I have loved and lost. This is the only compensation." At the county hospital, where she was taken, it was reported late last night that her condition was critical. George Lipsitz, manager of the apartment hotel in which Miss Buchan lived, said she had been there for several months, but that nothing was known of her affairs.

WRITER OF PLAYS CASTS HIMSELF IN REAL LIFE ROLE

If the next work from the pen of Playwright Crane Gilbert, 181 Lake Shore drive, is a melodrama Mr. Gilbert has available the episode of a lady gunman taken from real life. It is already written in the records of the Chicago avenue police station as Mr. Gilbert told it early today.

"I was walking home," he said, "and at Elm street and Lake Shore drive I met a young man who spoke pleasantly. We engaged in a brief conversation. When it was finished I started to walk on, and a little way off I saw a woman who seemed to be in distress.

"As I walked over to her I took off my hat. I asked her what I could do to help her. She drew a pistol and said that it would help her if I gave her my money. I gave it to her—$38."

"Is that all she took?" asked a sympathetic sergeant.

"No," said Mr. Gilbert, "I almost forgot to tell you. She took my $1,200 diamond ring, too."

MICHIGAN COP COMES TO CITY; GETS HIS MAN

Policeman Peter Bonekoe was directing traffic in his home town, Holland, Mich., Tuesday night, when he stopped a car containing three men. Two of them stepped out, prodded Bonekoe with revolvers, and forced him into their machine. They took his revolver, drove him seventeen miles out, and handcuffed him to a tree with his own handcuffs. When he was released at 7 a. m. Wednesday, after a full night in the open, he vowed he'd get his men, all three of them.

Last night Policeman Bonekoe and several Holland officers appeared at the detective bureau. He had claws. A half hour later Sergts. John Meyers and Edward Waller of the local force arrested Frank Miller of 711 Waveland avenue. They next seized Ben Tower of 421 Sheridan road and Joseph Kay of 724 Grace street. Bonekoe identified Miller and the latter confessed, naming Tower and Kay.

INJURED FLYER GIVEN A SLIGHT CHANCE TO LIVE

Ralph C. Wilson, who is unconscious at the Hinsdale sanitarium from injuries incurred on Tuesday, when his airplane fell 1,200 feet in Western Springs, had a remote chance for life last night, his doctors said.

Wilson, who is 23 years old, and a student pilot, has been unconscious since the crash. At 8 o'clock last night he passed into his 31st hour of unconsciousness. According to Dr. W. E. Bliss, the young aviator is suffering from a skull fracture, a broken neck, and other injuries, but has a chance for recovery.

Think of Hand-Made Lace on

Voile Blouses at $1.95

That's What These Blouses Have So They Go with the Distinctive Easter Suit

Seldom are "little" Blouses as crisp and dainty and attractively made. Some have little close collars with soft cascades of frills down the front edged in lace. Others have wide, face-framing collars of pleating with embroidery. These three styles are representative of a group. Those with hand-made lace may be had in white and eggshell—those with embroidery in white and pastel colors. Sizes 32 to 40.

Fourth Floor, Wabash.

CANADIENS BEAT HAWKS, 2-1, IN 1ST PLAYOFF

Shows Little Rock His Arm's Ready.

Blue's Record

LU BLUE'S batting record in the American league, with Detroit from 1921 to 1927 and with St. Louis from 1928 to 1930 follows:

1921	.308	1926	.287
1922	.300	1927	.260
1923	.284	1928	.281
1924	.311	1929	.293
1925	.307	1930	.235

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Little Rock, Ark., April 3.—The White Sox finally have captured a first baseman, who, unless there is an unexpected hitch, should be able to come up to specifications. The name of Lonnie Atwell Blue, who for the last ten years has divided his time between Detroit and St. Louis.

News of the veteran's purchase from the Browns for an unrevealed sum came to Manager Donie Bush from Chicago this afternoon just before his White Sox gave Little Rock a 6 to 2 thumping. To say Mr. Bush was surprised, as well as highly pleased, over the acquisition is putting it lightly. The only catch in the transaction is that Blue last season had an ailing arm. He'll join the Sox next Tuesday at Atlanta, Ga.

Arm Believed O. K.

The doubt about Blue's arm is not going to be of any concern to Manager Bush until he sees for himself. During the winter Bush talked with the 31 year old veteran and the latter brought up the possibilities of being transferred to the Sox. At that time Blue insisted his arm was as good as ever. He also expressed a desire to move out of St. Louis. Because of a cut in salary he refused to report to the Browns' camp this spring.

In 1928, when not bothered by a weak arm, Blue was about the most consistent performer on the St. Louis club. He batted .293 and fielded in the same sensational fashion that in previous seasons had made him a great defensive man for the Tigers. Granted that his fielding skill hasn't dwindled, he will be of marked assistance in putting his hands on some of the wild throws which Cissell and Appling, the second base combination, are likely to perpetrate until they settle down.

May Be Leadoff Man.

Having Blue as a member of the ensemble provides a simple solution of the Sox batting order. The ex-Brown and one time Tiger did his best work in the American league as a leadoff hitter. He still has the speed needed for that berth in the attack. Another leadoff candidate is Mel Almada, the new center fielder. Bush said today that he probably would use Blue at the top and Simons second. This means that Cissell will be dropped to fifth or sixth.

Blue was born March 5, 1898 at Washington, D. C. His first major league enrollment occurred in 1918 when he was treated to a cup of coffee by the Tigers. He then was shipped out for seasoning but was back in 1921 to become Detroit's regular first sacker. He remained there until the fall of 1927 when, with Eddie Mulvey, he was traded to the Browns for Rice, Vangilder, and Gallivan.

Thomas Exercises Arm.

The game today was just one of those harmstorming things and the only important item developed from its exercise was that Tommy Thomas, whose arm has been a source of worry, appeared to be himself for the first time since 1929. Tommy pitched the last four innings against the locals, most of whom are ex-major leaguers. He displayed a fast ball that was unmistakably deceptive and a curve of equal quality. He yielded only one run, this resulting from a triple by Walter French, one time all around star at West Point. Thomas was preceded by Red Faber, who was in charge for five rounds. He didn't extend himself, but got by, nevertheless.

Bush excused Jolley and Simons from the day's work so that Fothergill and Eichrodt could perform. The two subs filled in nobly. Fatty unloaded three singles, all of which figured in the scoring, and Eichrodt was the author of two singles that became runs. Leading honors, however, went to Burnside, who started off with a double, kept going on two singles, and concluded with a triple.

Another Game Today.

The home boys will be played again tomorrow, and Hal McKain is going to start. Lyons, another star with a conditioning pain in his shoulder, probably will finish. Jim Moore, who was purchased here last summer, will be used for the Sunday game, the idea being that his presence might stimulate business at the gate. Today's box score by innings:

Browns	112	200	000	6	17	0

Batteries—Thomas and Grube; Faber and Mancuso.

ANGELS DEFAT CUBS, 9 TO 2, IN FAREWELL GAME

Coast Players Pound Out Three Homers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—Our Cubs this afternoon said good-by to their baseball relatives, the Los Angeles Angels, and there wasn't much fraternalism displayed by the local fellows. In fact, they gave the Chicagoans the most impressive beating of the exhibition season to date. The score was: Angels, 9 to 2.

The first of the Cubs' runs was a gift in the first inning and the other was made after two were out in the ninth.

Root Allows Three Homers.

Root allowed ten hits in seven innings, including three homers, hit three batsmen, walked four, and committed an error. The Cubs made eight hits, three in the first inning and two in the last. They were held hitless in the second, fourth, sixth, seventh, and eighth innings.

The Cubs will play the Hollywood Stars at Wrigley field tomorrow and Sunday. Smith will pitch tomorrow and Blake will try his hand Sunday. The Cubs will leave for Fort Worth immediately after Sunday's contest.

The two ball nines came out of the first inning with one score apiece—the Cubs with one unearned marker and the Angels with a homer by Statz. Moore opened the game with a single to right, but went down with English in a double play. Hornsby's seventh hit in a row was a single to center. Wilson doubled to right, which would have put Hornsby on third, but Rogers ran on home when Barton made a wide throw.

Wilson Caught at Third.

Farrell went into deep short to retrieve the wild ball and Wilson sought to reach third, which he believed to be uncovered after Farrell left the station. Much to Hack's surprise, Shealy got to the bag in time to catch Farrell's throw and make the putout.

Statz knocked the ball over the center field wall as the Angel greeting to Root. Baker singled to center, but Farrell flied to Wilson. Barton was hit by a pitched ball, then Harper flied to Moore and Jacobs forced Barton.

The Cubs might have broken the tie in the first of the fourth except for some dense base running by Hornsby. After English had been fanned by Ballou, Hornsby got to second on Barton's muff. Wilson walked. Stevie then sent an easy fly to Harper and Rogers, possibly thinking there were two out, started running as fast as he was able. Harper could have carried the ball to second base to double Rogers, but he was a little tired, so he tossed to Baker.

Angels Get Two Runs.

Encouraged by the base running boner, the Angels came back in their end of the fourth and made themselves two runs. Barton opened with a single to right and went to third on Harper's single to the same spot. Jacobs walked, filling the bases. Dittmar singled to left center, Barton scoring and the bases remaining full. Schulte flied to Stephenson and Harper scored after the catch. Ballou bunted and Root made a bad throw to third and the bases again were full. Statz fanned and Baker flied to Stevie.

The Angels were merciless in their treatment of Root in the fifth. Farrell doubled to left and went to third while Jurges was throwing out Barton, and Harper was hit by a pitched ball, the third batsman to be hit by Root. Jacobs then knocked the ball over the left field fence, scoring Farrell and Harper ahead of him. Dittmar walked, stole second and went on to third when Hartnett threw the ball into center field. Schulte singled to left,

A world record for the 300 yard medley relay was established by the Lake Shore Athletic club relay team in the men's senior national A. A. U. swimming championships last night at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The time was 3:05.6.

Dick Hinch of Lake Shore led Wallace Spence of the New York Athletic club and Frank Walton of the Hollywood Athletic club in the 100 yard back stroke with a time of 1:04.2, giving his teammate, Don Horn, an advantage of a yard, which Horn lost to Tom Blankenberg of the Hollywood A. C. in the breast stroke event, which was timed at 1:09.7. Horn and Blankenberg finished the lap in a dead heat.

Walter Laufer of Lake Shore and Manuella Kalili of the Hollywood A. C. took off with an even start in the last lap, the 100 yard free style. The two anchor men fought a battle for two lengths of the tank and then Laufer started to crawl away on the third lap. Laufer was timed in :51.7.

Al Schwartz of the Illinois Athletic club, 100 yard champion, took the 220 yard free style event. Schwartz led. Schwartz, with two firsts, is leading for the all around championship which is held by Laufer. Summaries:

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., April 3. — Willis Clough, Arizona's gift to the Pittsburgh Pirates, promised to keep us posted on his experiences with Jewell Ens and his bold crew, and if he keeps jobs as well as he keeps promises he is all set for the next six months at least. He writes from San Francisco:

"Well, you would be surprised how happy it has made all the boys to know that I have signed a contract and am going to stay in the big show, and they all slapped me on the back and shook hands with me till I bet my hand feels like President Coolidge, and it is a good thing Manager Ens is not going to make me pitch yet for a while because my hand is so sore from shaking hands that I could not hold a baseball, much more throw it.

"Manager Ens asked me today who would I like to room with, and I said Paul Waner, but there is two Waners on the club, Paul and Lloyd, and they room together, as they are both brothers. Paul is the oldest, and they call him Big Poison, because when he was fishing down in Florida with Max Carey this winter he was bit by a stone crab and his leg got infested. They call Lloyd Waner Little Poison, maybe because he eat something that set up his stomack, so I don't know who I will room with yet, only I hope it won't be one of the newspaper correspondents, as they all act too smart." SENN, OAK PARK LEAD QUALIFIERS IN PREP RELAYS

Each Places Six Men in Track Finals.

Senn, Chicago city champions, and Oak Park, Suburban league champions, led the field in the preliminaries of the first annual Oak Park and River Forest relays at Oak Park fieldhouse last night. Nearly 500 athletes from 39 schools competed.

Finals in the seven individual events and five relays will be held beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Senn qualified six men in four different events, while Oak Park qualified six in five events. In the relays, in which no preliminaries were run, Oak Park is expected to make the strongest showing.

Two Upsets in Dash.

Two upsets were recorded in the 50 yard dash when Moore of Austin and Herman of Oak Park, favorites to win, were nosed out in their respective semi-final heats by Burling of Oak Park and Portman of Urbana. No spectacular times were recorded, however, and the favorites are expected to win this afternoon.

Seaberg and Pollard of Senn led the individual attack by qualifying in two events each.

Shot Put Record in Danger.

The shot put record is expected to fall in the finals, due to a three cornered battle between Stephen of Joliet, Seaberg of Senn, and Ovson of Oak Park, who are the best of Illinois prep weight men.

RUNNER, 65, GOES ENTIRE DISTANCE IN 26 MILE RACE

TORONTO, April 3.—(AP)—A 65 year old marathon runner, A. Monteverde of Mays Landing, N. J., shared the plaudits with the winner in the fourth annual Toronto marathon today.

Accompanied by his dog, Pal, Monteverde ran the entire distance of 26 miles over hard asphalt and cobblestones, and although he was the last to finish he was given a rousing reception by the crowd and was awarded a special cup for his feat.

Johnny Cuthbert, determined little Scot from Guelph, Ont., won the race in 2 hours 40 minutes and 55 seconds, finishing the grind apparently as fresh as when he started. Frank Hughes of Hamilton was second, a quarter mile behind, and Percy Wyer, 48 year old Toronto veteran, finished third.

Detroit Team Rolls 2,962 to Lead A. B. C. Tourney

Buffalo, N. Y., April 3.—(AP)—Scoring games of 915, 1,061, and 986, the Palace Recreations of Detroit rolled into first place in the five man event of the American Bowling congress here tonight. Their total was 2,962.

KNUTE ROCKNE
As I Knew Him
BY ARCH WARD, Sports Editor

Knute Rockne was born in Voss, Norway, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rockne. The date was March 4, 1888. They didn't know that he was destined to become the toast of a nation, so there is nothing about it on his baptismal record.

Rockne's father came to the United States ahead of his wife and family. He was a carriage builder and was ambitious to have an exhibit at the Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893. His exhibit won a medal and he was so delighted he decided to remain in America. So he sent for his family.

Rockne was 5 years old when his folks moved into the Logan Square district of Chicago. His mother still lives not far from the old neighborhood. His father is dead.

Here it was that Rockne got a start in the game which was to make him famous. He joined a corner lot eleven called the Tricky Tigers and they battled all the other tough teams in the district. He attended Brentano grade school and Northwest Division High school, now known as Tully. He played football at Northwest Division, but didn't set the town on fire with his brilliance.

Worked to Pay for Education.

Rockne was eager to obtain a college education, but he didn't have the money to finance his way when he finished high school. He had to work for it. He worked on a railway, a lake steamer, and finally he passed a civil service examination for the mail service. He received an appointment as a mail dispatcher. There are employes at the Chicago postoffice today who remember when Rockne was a fellow worker. One of them recently contributed to THE TRIBUNE a group picture of Rockne and other postoffice workers. Rockne was paid $100 a month. He stuck to the job until he had laid aside a thousand dollars.

Then he decided to enter college. But where would he go? Illinois was his preference. Notre Dame, a Catholic university, held no particular lure for a Norwegian Protestant. But Rockne gave in to the urging of two friends who were going to Notre Dame and wanted him to join them.

That was the beginning of a public career which had its ending in a tragedy that shocked the nation.

Rockne didn't break into intercollegiate athletics suddenly. He wasn't good enough to make the football team, but he won a track letter as a pole vaulter. He developed steadily, however, in football under the coaching of Shorty Longman and Jack Marks, who directed football the first two years Rockne was at Notre Dame.

Starts Partnership with Gus Dorais.

These were the days when he was teamed with Dorais in what generally is regarded as the greatest forward pass combination of all time. It wasn't until 1913 that Jesse Harper, a pupil of A. A. Stagg, was named head coach at Notre Dame that Rockne and Dorais got a chance to show what could be done with the new type of play they had perfected.

They had spent the previous summer as lifeguards at Cedar Point, O., where Rockne met Miss Bonnie Skiles of Sandusky, O., who later became his wife. Rock and Gus spent their spare hours throwing footballs up and down the sands, getting ready for the exhibition a few months later which revolutionized the sport.

It was in November, 1913, that the football world first heard of Notre Dame in a big way. The team was scheduled to play the Army at West Point in a game calculated to brush the cadets into shape for their annual battle with the Navy. Eastern fans censured the West Point officials for booking so weak a team as Notre Dame at that stage of the season. New York newspapers hardly gave the game a tumble. Not more than 2,500 saw the contest. This, mind you, was the start of the most famous intersectional series in football history. It has continued uninterrupted save for the war year, and annually thousands of fans are turned away from the largest stadia in the country. Last November 100,000 sat on icy seats in a drizzle to watch the teams play at Soldiers' field.

Notre Dame Upsets Army, 35 to 13.

Army men will tell you their team of 1913 was one of the strongest developed at the Point. Notre Dame was an unknown quantity. It had played only secondary teams in the middle west.

There are few who can't tell you the score of that game—Notre Dame, 35; Army, 13. It was one of the most amazing upsets in the annals of football. It wasn't entirely the size of the score that was so impressive. It was the way in which it was compiled. It was a battle of the old style of power plays against the new system of open attack. Dorais tossed passes all over the field and Rockne scooped them up. The Cadets' tongues were blistered chasing this pair up and down the gridiron.

The forward pass was in football to stay. Its successful execution had been convincingly demonstrated. The Army, always quick to make use of improved weapons, asked Rockne and Dorais to remain for a few days to teach the Cadet eleven how to whip the Navy. The Notre Dame men consented and the Navy was defeated. Rockne's work won the attention of Walter Camp, who seldom could see across the Alleghanies in those days, and he placed Rockne on the second or third string all-American.

"Rockne was the surest catcher of forward passes yet produced," Dorais says of him today.

After his graduation, cum laude, in 1914, Rockne was retained as assistant coach to Jesse Harper. He held this position for four years and when Harper resigned in the summer of 1918 to devote his time to his Kansas ranch Rockne was appointed to fill the vacancy. Meanwhile he also was serving as a chemistry professor, and if you think he didn't know his formulas, you didn't attend his classes.

Tomorrow Mr. Ward will tell of Rockne's early years as Notre Dame coach and the rise of Notre Dame football teams to national prominence.

Chicago Golden Gloves Squad Off on Visit to New York

Chicago's inter-city Golden Gloves champions traveled east yesterday as the guests of the boys from New York, whom they had beaten so decisively at the Chicago Stadium on Thursday night.

Arm in arm the warriors of both teams made their way to the La Salle street station and boarded a special section of the Century. They were whisked away toward New York shortly after noon.

When the inter-city battles were transferred from New York to Chicago, the boys on the Chicago squad were promised a trip east. They had been looking forward to a visit to New York from the time they began training for the sectional tournaments early last January. Twenty-four members of the squad were in the party which left yesterday.

Three members of the Chicago team were unable to make the trip. George Holden, Scotty Sylvano, and Tony Sutton have jobs they could not leave.

The Chicago boys will reach New York early this morning, spend the day sight seeing and tonight will be the guests of the New York team at a banquet. They will remain in New York Sunday and for part of Monday. They will stop in Washington on Tuesday for another day of sight seeing and will depart on Tuesday night for Chicago. They will be back with the home folks on Wednesday morning.

Everywhere in Chicago yesterday the intercity bouts continued to be the chief topic of conversation. Every one in the crowd of 23,000 or more agreed the neutral officials added much to the tournament. They also were of the opinion the Chicago team this year was the greatest developed in any of the Golden Glove meets.

The eight champions—six from Chicago and two from New York—form a powerful combination to carry America's colors in the international match with France in Chicago on May 12.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Les Canadiens, the Flying Frenchmen of Montreal, zoomed into the Stadium last night and flew all over the place while 16,500 customers watched them defeat the Blackhawks, 2 to 1, in the first game of hockey's world series, the Stanley cup playoff.

The Canadiens came to Chicago to defend the ancient mug they won last year in what was reported to be a battered condition, due to their recent scuffle with the Boston Bruins. But before last night's game was over they had the audience gaping at the speed with which they streaked up and down the Stadium ice. Howie Morenz, the Babe Ruth of hockey, didn't score either of the Canadiens' two goals, but his unescorted dashes into the mouth of the Blackhawks' cage left the spectators dizzy. And big Pete Lepine, who shoved across the Frenchmen's second goal with nary a bit of assistance, was as good as Morenz last night.

Hawks Fast, Canadiens Faster.

This is not written to imply that the Hawks were slow or lacking in the spirit which carried them into the cup competition for the first time in their young history. The Chicagoans played one of their best games of the year, but what can be done with a forward line that is hammering at your goal one minute and is back helping defend its own a half minute later? Add to that a pair of defense men like Burke and Silvio Mantha and round it out with George Hainsworth, the most unconcerned and one of the most efficient goal keepers in the league, and you have a difficult evening's work before you.

The Hawks' chances of bringing the Stanley cup back to these parts rest on the outcome of the game between the two teams at the Stadium tomorrow night. If the local boys can win that, they are granted an even chance in the remaining three games, all of which will be decided in Montreal.

The customers accorded the Canadiens a large hand when they skated onto the ice before the game, since the Montreal team made it possible for Chicago fans to have two more glimpses of hockey before the season ended by agreeing to come here for the first two games.

Canadiens Dazzle Fans.

The more demonstrative of the Blackhawk brethren either were absent from the game last night or else they were too dazed by the Canadiens' speed to make much noise. Then, too, the game was comparatively free of spills, due to the cunning of the Montreal boys, who made it plain that they did not care to play rough with the Blackhawks, preferring to outskate them.

One of the customers in the boxes back of the press coop went away with a memento of the game in the form of a welt across the side of his head. The puck bounced out of a scramble in the center of the rink during the second period, struck the top of the netting surrounding the authors, and caromed off the aforesaid customer's head.

The Blackhawk partisans had no opportunity to holler or unfold an avalanche of paper and hats until after eight minutes of the last period, when Vic Ripley scored the Chicagoans' goal. This was the result of a move which placed four Hawk wings on the ice. George Mantha had given the fans cause to groan in the first period, when he took Gagnon's pass and pushed it past Gardiner. Lepine added to the general woe in the second period when he stole the puck in center ice, streaked around the Hawk defense and made the score 2 to 0.

Hawks Grow Enthusiastic.

That goal of Ripley's fired the Hawks with a brand of enthusiasm that forced the Canadiens to play a more spirited game, and the contest was much more interesting from the standpoint of spills in the closing minutes than it had been during the first two periods. During those last few minutes they pestered Mr. Hainsworth no end, and he stood them off with the assistance of Mantha and Burke, who played a great defensive game throughout, stealing the puck from incoming Hawk wings time and again.

Gardiner played a good game

BRAVES DEFEAT ROBINS ON HOME RUN IN 11TH, 5-3

Worthington's Circuit Drive Ends Game.

Macon, Ga., April 3.—(AP)—Red Worthington's home run in the eleventh inning broke up a pitchers' duel and gave the Boston Braves a 5 to 3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today.

Worthington's clout sailed over the distant left field fence and came on the heels of Rabbit Maranville's single. Hollis Thurston was on the mound when the former Rochester slugger broke up the game. Worthington also figured in the Braves' three run attack in the first inning, connecting with a triple.

Brooklyn had chances to win the game in the seventh and again in the ninth and tenth innings, but failed to hit with men on base. Score:

PHILLIES BEAT MACKS.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3.—(AP)—Although outhit, the Phillies trimmed the world champion Athletics, 7 to 5, at Shibe park today as the two teams met in the first of a five game series for the championship of Philadelphia.

The Athletics clubbed Harold Elliott for fifteen hits, but the Phillies' hurler held the champions at bay until his teammates had established a safe lead. The Phillies got only nine hits off Walberg, McDonald, and Krausse, but two of them were home runs by Arlett and Davis, the latter's coming in the ninth with one man on base. Score:

ATLANTA, 8; YANKS, 4.

Atlanta, Ga., April 3.—(AP)—The Yankees' big guns were silent today as the Atlanta club of the Southern association won its second game of the spring season from the American league organization. The score was 8 to 4.

Spotted a four run lead in the first, which mounted to seven in the third, Johnny Morrison, once a big leaguer, and Paul Gregory held the Yanks to five hits. Blondy Ryan, Atlanta shortstop, played an important rôle in Atlanta's early attack, getting a home run in each of the first and third innings. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit. Score:

New York	000	210	100	4	5	3
Atlanta	403	000	01*	8	11	0

Batteries—Andrews, Weaver, Allen, and Padden; Morrison, Gregory and Autry.

OAKLAND, 6; TIGERS, 1.

Oakland, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers couldn't solve the delivery of Fred Ortman, recently of Portland, and were let down with two hits today as Oakland captured the second of a five game exhibition series, 6 to 1.

Marty McManus scored the lone Tiger tally in the fifth inning on a double, a steal of third and a fly from the bat of Hayworth. Akers contributed the only other Tiger hit, a single. Score:

Detroit (A.)	000	010	000	1	2	4
Oakland (P.C.L.)	010	040	10*	6	9	0

Batteries—Sorrell and Hayworth; Ortman and Deberry.

SENATORS TIE BIRMINGHAM.

Birmingham, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—General Crowder, first string Washington pitcher, hurled air tight ball today for six innings against Birmingham, but weakened in the final three and wound up with a 5-5 tie game in his glove. The game was called after the ninth because of darkness.

Sam West, Washington center fielder, banged out a home run and a single. The Senators will play the Southern association team again tomorrow. Score:

Birmingham	000	000	131	5	6	3

SEALS BEAT PIRATES.

San Francisco, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—San Francisco's heavy hitting Seals landed on the offerings of Heine Meine for 12 hits today to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 2.

The Pirate righthander checked the Coast leaguers for six innings, but weakened in the seventh when five hits and two errors accounted for five tallies.

Pittsburgh (N.)	000	010	001	2	8	4
San Fr'sco (P.C.L.)	000	000	51*	6	12	1

REDS WHIP LOOKOUTS.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 3.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds came from behind here today to nose out the Chattanooga Lookouts, 10 to 9, in the first of a two game exhibition series. The Reds came through with a batting attack in the seventh and eighth innings that netted them six runs and victory. Score:

Cincinnati (N.)	000	130	420	10	11	3

Charging his 110 pound wife with "extreme and repeated cruelty," George E. Trafton, 230 pound prize fighter and football player, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court. Trafton alleges in his bill that Mrs. Alyce S. Trafton, whom he married in June, 1929, frequently struck and clawed him, and on one occasion kicked him in the stomach.

The Traftons separated three different times, but became reconciled twice. When his wife hit him over the head with a ginger ale bottle, threw a chair at him, and attempted to take his life with a carving knife Trafton decided it was enough, the bill says, and so he left her for good.

Trafton's bill states that Mrs. Trafton married him with the knowledge that he was out of work and that she would have to work to support herself. Trafton is center of the Chicago Bears professional football team. Since becoming a fighter he has conquered Art (The Great) Shires, but was knocked out by Primo Carnera in 54 seconds.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: From 1878 until J. Irving Pearce sold the Sherman house, the basement now occupied by the College Inn was the rendezvous of Chicago's crack chess players. There almost any day yeuld could meet these old timers—Morgan, Goggin, Adair, Blanchard, Hasbruck, Furbish, Lee, Aledermann, Sonnenschein, Prof. Wells, Doc Phillips, Charlie Phillips, Mohle and others.

Mohle, by the way, was the automatic chess player at the old Eden Musee on Wabash near Jackson, playing all comers, very few of whom could defeat him.

In the Sherman basement, chess masters of the United States and Europe played—Capt. Mackenzie of New York, Matt Judd of St. Louis, Showalter of Louisville, Steinitz and Zuckerfort of Germany.

An interesting match was the game between Zuckerfort and Morgan. The German master was a slight, nervous man of about 130 pounds, while Morgan weighed at least 200. With no time limit on the moves, Morgan evidently set ou to exhaust his opponent. After each move of his opponent, he displayed unusual deliberation while Zuckerfort nervously paced around the room smoking pipe or cigarets. After two days, Zuckerfort, with much the best position, agreed to a draw and immediately left Chicago. A. W.

Referring to the recent communication of Helper Hansen on the first motor vehicle competition in Chicago in 1895, I remember distinctly the snowfall the evening before the race. I had been sent to Wabash avenue near 18th street to install a transmission belt on the H. Mueller & Co. car. Owing to the wet snow, this belt did not hold out and consequently the car barely finished. The waterproof cement now used in manufacturing belting was not known at that time. The above H. Mueller firm is still operating. Joseph A. Bonn.

Walking with April.

Put my rubbers on once more.
See! The silver drops are falling . . .
April's knocking at my door!

April giggles in the rain,
And we wander like two children
Through the budding parks again.

April pulls my red umbrella,
Blows it down the misty street,
Where it finds rest in a puddle
And mud splashes on my feet.

And the wind laughs silver laughter
And the trees bend down to see
April standing in the sunshine
Pouring gold dust over me!

Political Paradoxes.

Taxes in Chicago average about 19 per cent higher than a year ago. Opponents logically are urging this against the present incumbent of the mayoralty chair as evidence of "inefficiency and waste." Out in Evanston we have just received our tax bills. They are lower than a year ago, despite higher state and sanitary board levies. Opponents of the present mayor there are charging "inefficiency and waste." We're glad we're just a simple sports reporter not expected to understand the complexities of political campaigns.

DAMEN MEETS O'CONNELL FIVE FOR K. OF C. TITLE

With four members of the team that won the league championship in 1928 still in the lineup, Damen will endeavor to repeat tomorrow when it meets O'Connell for the Knights of Columbus basketball league title at the Coliseum. The four veterans are Joie Kluchinskas and Flip Fleming, forwards; Charles Murphy, center, and Dom Gentile, guard.

Two other games will be on Sunday's program. Marquette meets St. Patrick for first honors in the consolation bracket and Peres and Loyola-Hyde Park clash for third place.

Wild Parties Bring Attack on Prep Meet

Indianapolis, Ind., April 3.—(AP)—Steps to determine whether the state high school basketball tournament should be abolished were taken by the state board of education today, as the result of reports of alleged immorality among high school students attending the contests.

Adopting a resolution introduced by President Linneaus N. Hines of the Indiana State Teachers college at Terre Haute, the board authorized George C. Cole, state superintendent of public instruction, to appoint a committee to look into the situation and report its findings to the state board.

Hears of Drinking Parties.

Prior to the adoption of Hines' motion, William A. Wirt, superintendent of the Gary schools, had offered a motion "that the board take such steps as were necessary to bring about the elimination of the state high school basketball tournament." Miss Martha Whiteacre of Richmond seconded the motion.

Wirt told members of the board that he had received numerous reports that high school students had conducted themselves immorally while in Indianapolis attending the recent tournament. He also said charges of drinking had reached him.

Secretary Defends Students.

"These reports are pretty widespread," Wirt said. "It's a bad thing to throw so many young people into the city without chaperons. It is impossible for many parents to accompany their children to the tournaments. The schools cannot possibly assume the responsibility for their actions while in Indianapolis."

Declaring that he did not believe the stories related to drinking among the students, Charles O. Williams, executive secretary of the Indiana State Teachers' federation, said that he "never saw a better behaved crowd of youngsters than those here for the tournament. I was in hotels among them a good deal and I believe I would have observed any drinking or other misconduct."

"Father Bill" Daly, Jockeys' Teacher, Dies

New York, April 3.—(AP)—"Father Bill" Daly, a horse racing ancient who tutored such riding immortals as Snapper Garrison, Tod Sloan, and Jimmy McLaughlin back in an almost forgotten day, has passed at last into track history.

"Father Bill," christened William C. Daly 92 years ago, died yesterday at his home in Brooklyn, but news of the passing of one of the most colorful of racing figures did not become known until today. He was born Ireland and was brought to the United States by his parents at the age of eight.

By the time he was seventeen, Daly was a well known figure around eastern tracks and one of the best jockeys of his time. Like Snapper Garrison, a protégé who became famous for the "Garrison finish," "Father Bill" had a manner of riding named after him. Turf writers still refer to a rider "going out on a Bill Daly." They mean the jockey took the lead the instant the barrier snapped and held it as long as the horse under him had any legs left.

In later years "Father Bill" followed the ponies throughout the country, finally settling down to a steady patronage of the New York tracks. Many years ago he lost a leg in an accident, but the loss failed to curtail his activities.

"Father Bill" boasted he had developed 34 first string jockeys. At one time he raced quite a pretentious stable. Among his horses was Sir George, which he sold to Richard Croker, then the head of Tammay Hall. His Sailor Boy once beat the famous Broomstick at Belmont Park.

VAN WIE MEETS ORCUTT TODAY IN PINEHURST FINAL

Pinehurst, N. C., April 3.—(AP)—Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, for two years runnerup in the national women's championship, tomorrow will make her fifth attempt to win the north and south women's golf tournament, with the long driving Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., as her opponent.

These two today blasted their way through semi-final matches to gain entrance to the championship round. Miss Van Wie broke down a spirited bid from young Jane Brooks, Nyack, N. Y., to win, 3 and 2, while Miss Orcutt also closed her match on the 16th green, defeating Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, 4 and 2.

Favor Calza to Win from Giant DeLonge

Georges Don De Longe, French giant who wrestles George Calza at the Coliseum Monday night, has had seven years of grappling experience. He has competed in every class from featherweight up. His record shows that he wrestled a two hour draw with Ed [Strangler] Lewis, defeated Dick Daviscourt in 36 minutes and upset Mosse Norbeck twice. He is a graduate of the University of Trieste.

Calza, idol of Italian mat fans, boasts three victories over Jim Londos, claimant of the heavyweight crown. He is generally favored to beat De Longe.

Charles [Buck] Weaver and Able Kaplan, Jewish champion, will clash in one of the preliminaries. Weaver formerly played football at the University of Chicago.

Bibber McCoy, another gladiator, was a football player and star weight man at Holy Cross. He meets Frank Judson who formerly coached the Harvard wrestling team and knows considerable about the wrestling game.

The card is being promoted by Jim Mullen and Joe Coffey. Advance ticket sales indicate that there will be a large attendance.

Wrestling will be introduced for the first time in the Chicago Stadium on April 21, with Doc Krone as the promoter of an all-heavyweight show.

Last December, Krone started promoting shows in the Broadway armory, moved to the Coliseum and now has become convinced by continued patronage of the fans that the sport can fill the Stadium.

INTERSTATE PIN MEET OPENS AT AURORA TODAY

Aurora, Ill., April 3.—[Special.]—The Finucanes of Chicago, who last year won the women's interstate bowling championship, take the drives in defense of their title tomorrow when this year's tournament opens. Ninety teams will bowl in the tourney. They come from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

Bowling will be in two classes, all fives having an average of 750 or better will roll in the class A competition. Teams with less than a 750 rating will shoot for class B prizes. Bowlers in the singles and doubles who have averages of 150 or better will roll in class A. The tournament closes April 19.

against the rifle shooting thrusts of the Canadiens, and he didn't have much chance to stop either of the goals scored against him, being quite unprotected when Lepine drove the puck past him. All of the Hawk forward lines skated well, but their marksmanship was slightly awry on a dozen open shots, and when they did come within passing distance of the goal, one of the Canadiens was there to pilfer the puck and dash down to Gardiner with it.

The Hawks opened the first period with an incessant bombardment of Hainsworth, and for three minutes the Canadiens played strictly defensive hockey while the puck bounced off the nonchalant goalie's chest. During the course of the Hawks' barrage March eluded the red shirted defense for what appeared to be a sure goal. He darted in within fifteen feet of the Montreal cage and lined the puck at Hainsworth, but the latter stopped it and shoved it behind his cage.

Canadiens Score First.

The Canadiens' front line of Morenz, George Mantha, and Gagnon then entered the game and scored the first goal of the evening in a minute, after some of the fastest skating on the Stadium ice this semester. Gardiner fell after pushing one of Morenz's shots out of danger. Gagnon caught the rebound, skated to one side and passed to Mantha, who drove the counter over Chuck from directly in front of the cage. The time was 4:50.

The Hawks then renewed their attack on Hainsworth with a new fury which even excited the usually calm guardian of the Montreal net, and the Canadiens' wing men were forced several times to rally to his assistance.

Morenz Thrills Fans.

The Hawks came out for the second period prepared to worry Hainsworth again, but the Canadiens matched them and the Chicago team found itself on the defensive. Morenz proceeded to demonstrate why he is the highest paid player in hockey with several sprints up to the Hawks' goal, but he failed to get a clean shot at Gardiner, the majority of the Canadiens' scoring attempts being made by Lepine, Rivers, Gagnon and George Mantha.

Canadiens Score Again.

The Canadiens, apparently inspired by the Hawks' persistence, came out for the third period and within less than three minutes scored their second goal of the game. After Montreal had ragged the puck in center ice, Lepine took it, eluded the Hawk defense completely, and found no difficulty in scoring. The time was 2:20.

The Hawks weren't stopped yet, however. Four forward line men—Gottselig, Ripley, Cook and Couture—were dispatched into the fray, and this stratagem, aided by the absence of George Mantha, who was serving time in the penalty box, produced the the Hawks' first goal. Ripley drove the puck past Hainsworth after taking a combination pass from Gottselig and Couture. The time was 8:20.

550 TO COMPETE IN MINNESOTA RELAYS TODAY

Minneapolis, Minn., April 3.—(AP)—An athletic army of 550 high school and college youths will compete in the third annual Minnesota relays Saturday night in the University of Minnesota field house.

The record entry list exceeds that of 1930 and teams from thirteen championship schools of last year will defend titles.

SCHMELING FIGHT LOCATION TO BE FIXED APRIL 15

Cleveland Is Considered Most Likely Site.

New York, April 3.—(AP)—William J. Carey, president of the Madison Square corporation, announced tonight that final disposition of the proposed heavyweight match between Max Schmelling and Young Stribling would be made by Sheldon Clark, his Chicago associate, on April 15.

At that time, Carey said, Clark will name a definite site for the battle. It was understood Cleveland stood the best chance of landing the bout, after Chicago virtually had been eliminated as a contender.

Consider Sharkey vs. Carnera.

Although no formal announcement had been made, it is understood that the milk fund, which decided early in the week to have nothing more to do with the Schmeling-Stribling affair, has aligned itself with Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square's new promotional rival.

Working together, the milk fund committee and Johnston hope to promote a bout between Jack Sharkey and either Mickey Walker or Primo Carnera in July. Johnston has signed Sharkey to fight for him three times this summer at Ebbets field.

Both Boxers Suspended.

The only thing in the way of such a match is the fact that both Walker and Carnera are under suspension by the New York boxing commission. Walker for failure to defend his middleweight crown and Carnera for his recent fungo hitting tour. It is understood the commission is willing to forgive and forget in Walker's case, however, providing Mickey will forsake his title before taking on Sharkey.

Walker is eager for a shot at the Boston gob, but Sharkey has not been noticeably enthusiast

Earns Dividends in Troublesome Year.

The security markets and virtually all of the commodity exchanges were closed yesterday in observance of Good Friday. Trading will be resumed today on the New York stock and curb exchanges and also in silk, hide and grain. Leading European markets, however, will not reopen until next Tuesday.

BY O. A. MATHER.

In spite of the troubles of the petroleum industry last year, which resulted in declining prices for both crude and refined products and consequent depreciation of inventories, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana more than earned its dividends. This was made known by President Edward G. Seubert yesterday in a preliminary report showing for the first time consolidated earnings of the company and its controlled subsidiaries.

EDWARD G. SEUBERT. [Bush & Stoller Photo.]

Net earnings for 1930 totaled $47,371,900, equivalent to $2.73 a share on 15,986,595 shares outstanding at the end of the year. Dividends totaling $2.50 a share were paid and so the company had something to add to surplus. However, the dividend was reduced to $2 a year in the first quarter of this year in view of continued difficulties in the industry.

Provide for All Charges.

Net earnings of Standard of Indiana proper in 1929 were $78,499,754, or $4.88 a share on 16,850,587 shares. Consolidated earnings were not reported for 1929, as preparation of a consolidated statement was instituted in that year.

"The present total includes the earnings of Standard of Indiana itself, earnings of wholly owned subsidiaries and those portions applicable to the majority interest of earnings of companies controlled, but not wholly owned," Mr. Seubert explained. "It represents the net after provision for depreciation, depletion, amortization, adjustment of inventory of petroleum products to conform to the principle of valuation at the lower of cost or market prices, and all federal income and foreign taxes."

Montgomery Ward Sales Rise.

Influenced by an early Easter and perhaps by some improvement in general conditions, sales of Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern, were larger last month than in either of the two preceding months. Furthermore, the volume for March and for the first quarter of 1931 compared fairly well with a year ago, considering the general decline in commodity prices.

March sales totaled $17,601,123, compared with $15,224,975 in February and $20,632,071 in March, 1930. Sales for the first quarter of this year totaled $40,466,336, compared with $57,-243,809 for the same period last year. March sales were 14.69 per cent below March, last year, while first quarter sales showed a comparative decline of 13.18 per cent.

Jewel Tea Co. Sales.

The Jewel Tea company reported sales of $1,691,724 for the four weeks ended March 21, compared with $1,284,-803 for the corresponding period in 1930, marking a decline of 15.03 per cent. Sales for the first twelve weeks of 1931 totaled $3,265,990, compared with $3,892,872 for the same period last year, a decline of 11.58 per cent.

Sentiment in the bond market showed a distinct improvement in March, according to the monthly investment review of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers. Reports from leading financial institutions throughout the country, said that the favorable reception that met the large volume of high grade bond financing which appeared in March "gives substantial justification to the general improvement of sentiment in bond circles.

"With the bogey of government financing largely out of the way," the review says, "and with a stock market that does not seem likely to absorb any large degree of public attention for some time the high grade bond market apparently has a fairly clear road ahead."

Experts Agree That Worst of Trade Storm Is Over

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the opinions of experts on business cycles at Chicago's two universities, American industry and trade have turned the corner after the longest downhill ride in half a century and have already begun to plug along on the upward grade.

That there will be no sudden return to "prosperity" as it was known in 1929 they frankly admit, but their computations lead them to believe that business has seen the worst of the storm and that the rainbow is already glimmering above the horizon.

"I believe that there will be some definite improvement by the fall of 1931," says Prof. Garfield V. Cox, business economics expert at the University of Chicago, "and that we will be back to normal by the middle of 1932, but by 'normal' I do not mean the prosperity of 1929. The balance of probability seems to favor such a theory."

Foreign Developments.

Among encouraging developments in foreign countries he cites the apparent approach to a settlement of the situation in India, recent firmness in some commodities, and France's beginning to lend abroad.

"The inventories of most manufacturers and retailers are low," he says, "and consumers have had 18 months in which to liquidate installment contracts and to wear out their stocks of many of the more durable types of goods.

"Millions of people have reserves of buying power which they will choose to use rather than experience a substantial curtailment in their standard of living, and the increasing purchasing power of their dollars will add to their willingness to buy. As stabilization removes from those still employed the fear of losing their jobs they will tend to spend more freely."

Increased public expenditures and greater utility improvements, according to Prof. Cox, are sounding the knell of the long recession in construction activity.

"In January, for the first time in eight months," he continued, "certain composite indexes of business activitiy ceased to decline and some of them have scored small gains.

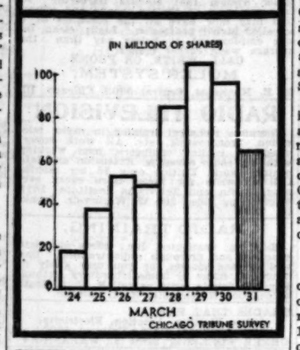
Compares Trade Cycles.

"Admittedly, new and favorable developments may emerge to hasten recovery, or unfavorable ones to retard it, but a comparison of the present with past cycles and a study of the factors now at work suggest a fairly high degree of probability that we have reached the bottom of the depression, that industrial activity will recover slightly between now and summer, advance more rapidly in the autumn, and reach normal during the first half of 1932."

Prof. Charles A. R. Wardwell, Northwestern university's expert on statistics and finance, finds in present low money rates the prospects of early improvement.

"I think we have seen the worst of the depression," he says. "The business man who regarded the high levels of 1929 as the beginning of a new era and who now thinks that conditions will stabilize at present low levels has simply made two mistakes, each in a different direction. Similar errors in judgment invariably occur at either extreme of a business cycle."

SHARES OF STOCKS SOLD ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE DURING MARCH



Rokeby Hotel Purchased by Realty Broker

BY AL CHASE.

Adolph Fisher, real estate operator, yesterday bought the five story Rokeby apartment hotel, at 3831 Rokeby street, from Philip R. Toomin, attorney. Title recently was transferred by the Rokeby Hotel company to Mr. Toomin. The price paid by Mr. Fisher was not disclosed. The purchase was subject to an incumbrance of $246,000. The building, designed by Rissman & Hirschfield, was erected in 1928. It contains eighty-five furnished suites and occupies a site 40x219.

The ninety-nine year leasehold estate and four story building at the southeast corner of Broadway and Sunnyside were sold yesterday by Dennis J. Finn to Mrs. Edith H. Lyman. The price was not disclosed. The lease was negotiated in 1922 and calls for an annual rental of $7,200 for the first ten years and $8,400 annually for the balance of the term. Adele Waller Rogers and Kate C. Case own the fee. The building is completely rented. The Illinois Bell Telephone company occupies the three upper floors under a twenty year lease. John J. Kelly was attorney.

Zander Heads Anti-Racket Body.

President Mark Levy and the board of directors of the Chicago Real Estate board met yesterday and appointed Henry G. Zander Sr. chairman of the committee which is to call a joint session of realtors, bankers and attorneys to discuss means by which the present foreclosure racket can be stopped. Mr. Zander was given the power to decide on the size of his committee and also to select the members.

It is understood that this will be done at once in order to secure a remedy for the present sinister foreclosure situation as soon as possible. This action is being taken at the instance of Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court of Cook county, who spoke before the Chicago Real Estate board last Wednesday evening. He told of a foreclosure epidemic which he said could be stopped if realtors, bankers and attorneys got together and acted promptly.

Postal Station Lease.

The United States government has leased quarters at 2231 West Madison street for postal station D, to supplant the station now at 515 South Western avenue. The premises are 50x200, improved with a two story building. The government will use the entire first floor for its new station. M. Van Gelder, owner, will remodel the space for postal use. Murphy & Co. were the only brokers.

The Church Home for Aged Persons, an Episcopalian institution at 5445 Ingleside avenue, has purchased the six flat building, lot 50x158, adjoining it on the north, from George A. Jewett, for future expansion. The present home accommodates eighty persons and has a long waiting list.

The National Tea company has purchased the one story brick building, 55x85, at the southeast corner of Clark and Wrightwood from Karl Stodden and will occupy one of the two stores within thirty days. The other store is rented to a drug concern.

Frisco Opposes Control of Gulf Road by Burlington

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—The application which, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad is expected to file shortly with the interstate commerce commission for permission to acquire a majority control of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern will be opposed by the St. Louis and San Fransciso railway.

During the last year the Frisco has increased its holdings of Gulf, Mobile and Northern to 26,581 shares of common and preferred stocks, representing about 11 per cent of the 251,000 shares of both classes of stock outstanding. Currently the holdings of the Burlington are estimated at 63,500 shares, about equally divided between the common and preferred stocks.

Friendly to Burlington.

The report of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce on regulation of stock ownership in railroads shows that as of April 1, 1930, the St. Louis and San Francisco owned 748 common shares and 833 preferred shares of Gulf, Mobile and Northern. On that date, the Burlington was not revealed as a stockholder in the Gulf, Mobile and Northern. The largest holdings of Gulf, Mobile and Northern were centered in the Goodyear family, which are believed to be still intact. These are said to be larger than the present holdings of Frisco and it is understood that the Goodyear interests are friendly to the Burlington.

The Frisco has made one of two efforts to get control of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern during the last few years, but could not agree with the controlling interest on prices, it is said in railroad circles.

Former Ownership.

Formerly the old Frisco railroad and the Louisville and Nashville jointly owned the Gulf, Mobile and Northern. The reorganization plan of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1917, was so drastic that the common stock of the old company was practically worthless. The Louisville and Nashville did not care to protect its equity and the federal court would not permit the Frisco, also in receivership at that time, to participate in the reorganization.

At present the Frisco has an entrance into Pensacola and Mobile, but it also wants an outlet at New Orleans. Apparently the Frisco does not want to acquire th eentire Gulf, Mobile and Northern system, but wants trackage rights from New Albany, Miss., over the Gulf, Mobile and Northern to New Orleans.

PENNSY PLANS $100,000,000 FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad has informed the interstate commerce commission that it intends to spend "well over $100,000,000" for additions and betterments to its properties and those of subsidiary companies in the current year.

The 1931 expenditures proposed are a part of a general improvement plan of the road estimated to involve expenditure of over $175,000,000 covering a period of approximately two and one-half years.

PARMELEE FIRM REPORTS 1930 LOSS OF $49,686

The Parmelee Transportation company, including its subsidiaries, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1930, reported a consolidated net loss of $49,686 after all charges, taxes, and minority interests.

For the preceding year the company showed a net profit of $1,262,400, equal after preferred dividends to $4.40 a share on 283,018 common shares.

At the end of the year the deficit amounted to $476,105 after the payment of $426,419 on common and preferred dividends. At the end of 1929 a surplus of $962,522 was shown.

POWER COMMISSION, FIVE STATES AT ODDS OVER STREAM'S STATUS

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—In its first major decision, the reorganized power commission today assumed jurisdiction over a stream whose navigability status was challenged, and in the face of protests from five states.

The commission rejected the application of the Appalachian Electric Power company for a modified or "minor part" license to build an $11,000,000 plant on the New river in Virginia and offered the company a standard or "major" license.

Meanwhile, the company was ordered not to proceed with construction until it had accepted the major license, which permits recapture of the plant by the government and provides for a strict accounting report on investment costs and full federal regulation.

Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee opposed assumption of jurisdiction by the federal agency, on the ground the power commission would encroach upon state rights. They joined with the company in contending the river was not navigable, and, as such, outside governmental jurisdiction.

The commission in effect disregarded the plea of nonnavigability in its findings and ruled that the project affected interstate commerce and was subject to federal regulation. The New river is the principal tributary of the Kanawha river, which empties in the Ohio, both of which are navigable.

"The commission's decision is expected to wind up in the courts, as it was believed the company would appeal, possibly asking for a full legal determination of the limits of the commission's authority.

The commission contended that through the Appalachian company, the Electric Bond and Share company, one of the principal utility holding concerns, was seeking to establish a precedent by which a great number of power developments would be taken out of government jurisdiction.

Montgomery Ward Files Complaint Against Tire Co.

Montgomery Ward & Co. has filed with the federal trade commission a complaint charging unfair automobile tire advertising by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, based on "incorect and misleading comparison."

"The Firestone advertising compares its tires with a 'mail order tire'," H. W. Jordan, assistant general merchandise manager of the Montgomery Ward company, said. "It is natural for many people to think our tires are the ones involved. The Firestone advertisements are directed at establishing second line tires as being equal to the mail order first line tires because prices are the same. The advertising is unfair because our first line products are better than the competitor's second line tires, although both sell at the same price."

STAPLE PRICES NEAR BOTTOM, REVIEWS SAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Today's observance of Good Friday on home and foreign markets, both financial and commercial, interrupted for a day the quoted course of values. In particular, there were no movements to be reported from the stock exchanges or from the course of wheat. The grain markets would in any case probably have remained in a state of suspended activity, awaiting our government report of next week on the indications for the winter wheat crop.

Whereas the monthly average of commodities compiled by Dun's Review had shown a decrease of seven-tenths of one per cent in March, yesterday's Bradstreet Index, compiled by a somewhat different method, shows an advance of six-tenths of one per cent.

Cautious in Conclusions.

The change is not great, but it is interesting from the fact that this is the first month since September, 1929, for which Bradstreet has failed to report a reduction. The discrepancy between the two calculations will lend particular interest to the considerably more authoritative index number of the federal labor department later in the month. Naturally, the importance of these calculations lies in the fact that, for some weeks past, both home and foreign reviews on the general movement of staple prices have indicated that the "line of resistance" had been met.

Whether positive recovery will in due course follow and whether, if it does, it will be achieved through the breaking away by manufactured products from a continuing fall in grain prices, are as yet purely matters of conjecture.

The week-end mercantile reviews are cautious in their conclusions. They speak of the perplexing "ebb and flow" of business activities on the present greatly reduced scale of operations and, in general, confess the impossibility at the moment of detecting any general trend.

Business Pauses.

All things considered, the business situation on the moment seems to be in a period of pause. The movement of contraction which prevailed throughout last year has ceased, but no indication of vigorous recovery has replaced it. This is not on the whole unusual at just this juncture in the sequel to drastic financial and industrial readjustment. Contrary to a rather prevalent tradition, it is not the ordinary course of events for industry and finance to change abruptly from a continuous decline with the accompanying discouragement to a sudden forward movement. That is about as much as can be safely asserted regarding a turn in the "business cycle."

I. C. C. PERMITS ALTON HOLDERS TO PRESENT CASE

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Stockholders of the defunct Chicago and Alton Railroad company, denied relief in the Illinois federal courts, were given permission today to present their case to the interstate commerce commission.

Overruling objections of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, which bought the Chicago and Alton at a receivership sale for $23,000,000, the interstate commerce commission ordered the shareholders be permitted to intervene at a hearing set for April 13.

The Alton company, formed by the Baltimore and Ohio to act as a holding company for the road, has applied for permission to take it over, and the Baltimore and Ohio has applied for authority to acquire and hold the entire capital stock of the Alton.

The Stockholders' Protective association claimed they have an equity of $65,000,000 in the road, while the purchasers contended debts amounting to $122,000,000, which was described as more than the road is worth.

WESTERN UNION TO CELEBRATE 75TH BIRTHDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Tomorrow the Western Union is 75 years old, and the company is celebrating the occasion informally by meetings of employes and patrons throughout the country.

The birthday finds the company's headquarters under a single roof for the first time in a good many years. Until a few months ago its management has been located for 55 years at 195 Broadway. It came to New York City 65 years ago, moving from its first home at Rochester to 145 Broadway.

Commercial Failures Show Sharp Decrease

Commercial failures this week showed a sharp decrease, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. Defaults numbered 549, a decrease of 105 from the previous week, although 46 in excess of the corresponding week in 1930.

National Acme.

Would like to have your opinion and information on National Acme stock on the New York Stock Exchange. Thank you for past favors.—S. N. E.

National Acme company is engaged principally in the manufacture of screw machine products, automatic threading dies and taps and automatic screw machines. It has been developing its contract manufacturing division.

Earnings increased greatly from 1926, when net income of $207,721 was reported, through 1929, when net income was $2,101,355. There was a sharp decline in 1930. Net income was $8,562, or 2 cents per share on the 500,000 shares [par $10] of capital stock outstanding. After payment of dividends deficit for the year was $653,938.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $5,921,515 and current liabilities were $318,306. Cash, United States government securities and certificates of deposit totaled $2,221,683. Net working capital was $5,603,209, against $6,226,-307 a year before.

With the dividend paid Feb. 2, 1931, the common was placed on an annual basis of 80 cents. Dividends in 1930 totaled $1.50 per share. The stock is speculative.

Alabama Power.

Could you inform me as to the financial status of the Alabama Power company with reference to its stock? Thank you for information you may be able to give me in regard to this matter.—J. M. S.

Alabama Power company is controlled by Commonwealth and Southern corporation through ownership of the common stock. It furnishes electric light and power or street railway service to 493 communities in Alabama.

Net income for 1930, after depreciation, was $5,305,252, and preferred dividends paid totaled $2,006,649. For 1929 net income was $6,278,552, and preferred dividends paid totaled $1,883,396. Fixed charges and preferred dividends were earned 1.54 times in 1930 and 1.71 times in 1929.

Kingdom of The Netherlands.

Will you kindly inform me about Kingdom of the Netherlands 6s due in 1972? Thanking you.—F. K.

Kingdom of the Netherlands [Holland] has an area of 12,605 square miles. On Jan. 1, 1930, the population was 7,832,175. In common with other countries throughout the world, it experienced reduced prosperity during 1930. It has pursued a conservative financial policy, indicated by the number of years in which surpluses instead of anticipated deficits resulted. The national debt has been diminishing. In 1930 it was 74 per cent of the 1923 figure. The country has an excellent debt record and a strong credit standing. The sinking fund 6s due in 1972 are sound.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 800; hogs, 9,000; sheep, 4,000.

Hogs and lambs scored slight gains on short supplies yesterday, while cattle moved extremely slow at prevailing quotations. Only 9,000 hogs from the fresh receipts remained on the market after directs had been deducted, yet, the market lacked pep and closing sales were 5@10c under the high point of the forenoon.

The extreme top for load lots reached $8.35, with a part load at $8.40, while the general average for the day at $7.75 showed 5c gain. A report that pork loins were meeting slow sale at the lowest prices since March 6 restricted buying by smaller houses in mid-session and later. Fresh pork loins selling at 12½@18c compared with 12½@19c Thursday and with 15@21c three weeks ago. Larger houses handled 9,500 hogs yesterday, more than 40 per cent of the total number of fresh receipts and holdovers. Only 2,000 remained in the pens at the close.

Monday Hogs Bid $8.25.

Lightweight hogs for next Monday's delivery were bid $8.25 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but the lowest offer at the close was $8.50. Mediums were bid $7.75 and offered at $8.00. April and May lightweights were bid $8.00@8.25 and offered at $8.50. June offers were held at $8.75, with the highest bid at $8.25. Light and heavy hogs for next September delivery were offered at $9.00 and bid $8.50.

Hardly enough cattle were on the market to test quotations yesterday, but these sold slowly at the previous days' price level. The best available averaged 1,200 lbs and sold at $9.80, while $9.25 was paid for 1,091 lb yearlings. Cows and heifers were scarce and in fair demand. The market during the past week has been very uneven.

Lightweights and yearlings are closing 25@50c above a week ago, while medium and heavy cattle show losses of 25@50c compared with a week ago. Butcher stock: scored a 25@50c advance during the week.

Native Springers Erratic.

The market for native spring lambs was extremely erratic yesterday, some kinds selling several dollars below the high point Thursday when a few head of these specialties sold for Easter feasts as high as $22.50.

The best yesterday stopped at $10.50, but demand for the Greek Easter trade is expected to be good most of next week. Aged lambs ruled stronger, some selling at 10@15c advance. Most 90@100 lb averages sold at $9.15@9.35 to packers and several loads to shippers reached $9.50. Shorn stock brought $8.40@8.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were firm.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 9,000 hogs and 4,000 sheep, against 201 cattle, 10,845 hogs and 3,292 sheep, the previous Saturday and 135 cattle, 7,565 hogs and 2,069 sheep, a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 35,000 to 60,000. E. E. Hubbard marked 25,000; J. T. Brown, 37,000; C. Southwick, 28,000; J. M. Waters, 41,000; S. Lund, 42,000; W. T. Reneker, 44,000; H. Pattison, 45,000; E. S. Waterbury and F. Knutzen, 49,000; F. M. Sherwood, W. S. Nicholson, R. B. Ellis, A. G. Welhener and D. J. Carroll, 50,000; G. W. Chandler, 52,000; G. McClean, 54,000; O. C. Egan, 55,000, and H. Wolfe, 60,000.

Mexican Seaboard Oil Reports $605,473 Income

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—The Mexican Seaboard Oil company reports for 1930 net earnings of $605,473 after charges, including depletion and lease abandonments, depreciation and taxes, against a loss of $28,850 for 1929. Operating revenue was $3,295,054 against $3,589,979.

The company abandoned 52,819 acres of Venezuelan property in 1930, which lands were considered condemned for production, according to John M. Lovejoy, president. The company still holds about 620,000 acres of exploitation and exploration concessions in Venezuela. In January, 1931, the company agreed with a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey for a pooling of properties controlled by both in the state of Maranga, eastern Venezuela, thus consolidating a block of 161,793 acres.

DRY GOODS.

New York, April 3.—(AP)—Primary dry goods markets were inactive in consequence of holiday observances. Calcutta markets were closed and burlaps were dull. The demand for 150 denier, 60 filament rayon yarns is good.

BAR SILVER.

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Bar silver, 27½c, unchanged. Market very quiet due to holiday abroad.

ACTIVE TRADE IN STRAWBERRIES

Easter trade in strawberries was active, with prices 50@75c higher for cases of 24 pints. There were sales at $4.50@4.75 for the general run and extra fancy brought $5.00@5.25. Shallots had a good call at $8.00@9.00 per barrel.

WHITNEY TELLS OF FIGHT AGAINST STOCK RACKETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Thieves and racketeers frequently succeed in establishing connections in the New York Stock exchange, but the machinery for discovering their activities and blocking them is constantly being improved, Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, said at a joint public meeting of the Associations of Grand Jurors of New York and New Jersey.

"The racketeers in the stock exchange buy stocks in good corporations in the open market or through options and create fictional values on the exchange by selling and reselling to each other. With such values established, high pressure selling starts through tipster sheets, the "boiler," or telephone rooms, and telegrams and contact selling. The stock is unloaded at the high values and then the racketeer cleans up and disappears," Mr. Whitney said.

"We are more interested in preventing swindling," he said, "than in getting legitimate business."

"I understand," Mr. Whitney said, in conclusion, "that a citizen is within his rights in killing a holdup man or house thief who tries to rob him. I cannot see why the most severe and harsh penalty should not be meted to those men to gain a man's confidence and then rob him. There are difficulties in most cases, I know. We are doing what we can to help and if there is more for us to do, we are ready to do it."

PLACED IN OPERATION.

Engineers of the Parana Power and Light company, a Brasilian subsidiary of American and Foreign Power, have placed in operation the Chanina hydro electric development on the River Soa Joao, 35 miles from Curityba, capital of the state of Parana. The plant is in a remote mountain district.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

STUDEBAKER
THE SALE OF THE CENTURY!

All makes and models included in this great clearance of the STUDEBAKER SALES CO. OF CHICAGO. We need the room, so we must dispose of over 200 late model used cars at once!

Your car will be taken in trade. Balance on easy terms. A small down payment will hold the car of your choice. 5 days' free driving trial goes with each sale.

AUTOMOBILE VICTORIA, 1929 4 pass. coupe will satisfy the most exacting buyer. The finish is beautiful and the upholstery is luxurious. The tires have only a few hundred miles on them. Motor is unusually efficient. $945.

AUBURN 8 ROADSTER. Late model with rumble seat, new tires, side mounts and wire spare rim. This is one of the smartest looking Roadsters we ever saw and it runs like clockwork. Only $485.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN, Spec. 6. Check over these features: MOTOR, fine speedster; bright and shiny. UPHOLstery, expensive mohair; EXTRAS, spotlight, bumpers, heater, etc. PRICE, $145.

HUDSON COACH. It's unusually clean throughout and has a sweet running motor. Equipped with shatter proof windshield, spare tire, trunk, driving light, etc. $165.

PACKARD SEDAN. It's exceptionally clean throughout and runs fine. Equipped with 4 wh. brakes, snubbers, shatter proof, etc. It's easily worth $500. Special for $345.

STUDEBAKER COUPE. 1928 Commander with 4 wh. brakes, and many extras. Trade in is of a very favorable price, so we will pass on the saving to you. $185.

FORD COUPE. Model A that looks and runs as though it had never been driven hard. Has full equipment and will not smoke 26 hours at our price of $250.

PONTIAC COACH. 1928 that never left St. Charles Illinois. Every detail of the exterior and interior will satisfy the most exacting buyer. Motor is smooth. 4 wh. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, shutter visor, step plates, etc. A real buy at $395.

PLYMOUTH SEDAN. This car was acquired only a few months. A careful inspection and demonstration will convince you that it is still in brand new condition throughout. A remarkable buy at our price of $395.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER. Late model 4 pass. Sedan that was oiled and greased every 500 miles, so it's in topnotch condition today. The motor was carefully tuned, and now it certainly is A1. Has only essential extra. $450.

WILLYS ROADSTER. 1930. A sporty car with a world of power and pep. Has wire wheels, rumble seat and many extras. Finished in black with red wheels, and just like and fits the best Roadster buy in Chicago at $485.

OSCAR S VICTORIA. A late model that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. Has wire wheels, shock absorbers, two spare tires, etc. The finish is like that of ships and the upholstery appears unused. Motor runs very smoothly. Special at $595.
